LEBANON SUPPORTS SYRIA IN DELAYING CEASE-FIRE OVER JORDAN RIVER ISSUE

MOORE ORDERS JURY INQUIRY ON USE OF MONEY IN VOTE CAMPAIGNS

Excessive and illegal use of money in elections has become "intolerable," United States District Judge George H. Moore said today in ordering a new federal grand jury to watch carefully for election law violations in this year's elections in Missouri.

"It is time that vigorous measures be taken," he declared, directing the jury to indict any guilty persons, "no matter how high or low his position, either in political, social or financial fields."

In amplifying his strongly worded, 12-page charge regarding election laws, Judge Moore recommended that the new grand jurors "find out what has been done by industrialists, munitions makers, labor unions and lobbyists in Washington in an attempt to influence elections in our state."

Continuing, he said: "Our whole system of government is under attack at this time and it is up to you to see that these vast sources of money for election purposes are restrained. It is your responsibility to stop it."

U. S. Laws Would Apply.

Judge Moore pointed out that federal laws would apply to the primary and general elections in Missouri this year, since members of both houses of Congress will be nominated and elected, and a President and Vice President chosen by the voters.

The jury was reminded that federal laws contain provisions relating to political contributions by corporations and labor organizations.

Judge Moore advised the jury to examine carefully the various reports that candidates and political committees are required to file listing contributions received.

He suggested that close checks be made to determine if substantial sums are contributed by salaried employes of wealthy corporations or of instances where "great industrialists (who have dealings on a large scale with the Federal Government) have made general donations to an individual's campaign."

Where such discoveries are made, a further inquiry would be indicated to ascertain if the employes made donations out of their own funds or used the corporation's money and if the contributors, either employes or industrialists, were non-residents of Missouri, Judge Moore said.

Facilities for Inquiry.

"You cannot just read a contribution list and easily determine about such connections, but the Government has ample facilities through its various agencies to acquire and give you all such necessary information," the judge said.

Warning the jury not to take his instructions lightly, he stated: "We regard with grave apprehension the tendency in these days of many citizens, of whom we would expect higher standards, to regard all too lightly bribery, fraud and corruption in the conduct of elections."

Too often only the "lowly ballot-box stuffers" are prosecuted while those "who give the orders and who provide the illicit funds, those who corrupt and seduce from the path of duty the lesser lights, escape and go scot free," Judge Moore said.

"Even by the exercise of the greatest vigilance, it is difficult to anticipate and forestall all violations of the elec-

G.O.P. Leader Skaggs for 12 Of 13 on Citizen Charter Slate

Ancel A. Skaggs, former chairman of the Republican City Committee, announced today he will support 12 of the 13 freeholder candidates indorsed by the St. Louis Citizens Charter Committee in the special election next Tuesday.

Skaggs, G.O.P. committeeman of the Twenty-fourth Ward, is the first Republican leader to come out in general support of the citizen candidates. Many other ward leaders, Democratic and Republican, are expected to back slates in opposition to the one recommended by the non-partisan citizens' group.

In a statement, Skaggs declared St. Louis voters face an important decision at the polls Tuesday. He said they must decide whether to cast their ballots for "good government or in support of the selfish, personal demands of certain Democratic officeholders."

He urged other Republican ward leaders to support the citizens' candidates so that the charter revision study will be entrusted to those who are committed only to serve the best interests of the city.

"I hope my fellow Republicans will not fall into the trap being set by the Democrats," he declared. "All Republicans should join the forces for good government and help elect the citizens' freeholder candidates next Tuesday.

The Republican party leader said he will support 12 of the citizen candidates and Ernest M. Potts, a real estate dealer, who is not on the citizen slate. Skaggs said he is supporting Potts because the St. Louis Real Estate Board, of which he is a director, had indorsed Potts at his request before the citizens' slate was announced.

The citizens' candidate not on his slate is David M. Grant, Negro, attorney. Skaggs said he decided to drop Grant to make room for Potts, but that this was not to be construed as a reflection on Grant.

The citizen freeholder candidates he will back are: C. B. Broussard, Negro, principal, Dumas elementary school; Frederick E. Busse, attorney; John F. X. Callanan, attorney and office manager; Major B. Einstein, banker; Dr. Ralph A. Kinsella, physician; Mel H. Krah, sales engineer and former alderman; John J. Nally, union leader; Henry B. MOUNTIES MUTINY ON BOUNTIFUL, SEIZE EGRET HAT

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

OTTAWA, May 2 — A $150 egret feather hat owned by the wife of Gov. F. M. Ross of British Columbia was held by Royal Canadian Mounted Police here today because it violates federal wildlife laws.

Mrs. Ross wore the hat when her husband opened the British Columbia legislature Jan. 18. A fashion writer described it as "a most becoming white satin plateau hat, completely covered with white egret feathers which fringed down over the brim to give the bountiful effect which is the trend for spring."

The Mounties became interested in Mrs. Ross's "bountiful effect" after an amateur naturalist pointed out that egret plumes are contraband. They called on Mrs. Ross at the governor's mansion in Victoria, picked up the hat and sent it to their headquarters in Ottawa. Here the feathers were identified as being from a European species of egret, and not from the Snowy Egret of North America.

The Mounties said Mrs. Ross would not be prosecuted because "the feathers were imported."

OIL STATION KEEPS COTTON PATCH; U.S. GRANTS PERMIT

CUBA, Ala., May 2 (AP)—A service station operator whose cotton patch was widely publicized last year is ready to plant his 1956 crop. This time Joe B. Killian has a federal allotment.

Killian's patch is beside his service station. He planted it last year to attract tourists. Agriculture department agents ordered him to pay a $6 fine for planting the 17-row patch without a government permit.

He paid the fine and left the cotton in the patch for tourists to pick. Much of the cotton was still in the boll when the 1955 crop was plowed under this spring.

G.O.P. CONGRESSMEN HOPE TO ADJOURN BY JULY 15

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP) —Senator William F. Knowland (Rep.), California, said yesterday legislative leaders have informed President Eisenhower they hope to wind up this session of Congress by July 15.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, said House G.O.P. chieftains are shooting for a July 1 adjournment, but he doesn't believe that goal can be reached.

"However," he said, "we are in excellent shape, especially with the appropriations bills. In my 11 years here I don't remember when we have made as much progress as we have this year."

MATTHEWS CAUTIONED ON HIS APPOINTEES

Urged by Grand Jury to Be More Careful — Praised for Pushing Projects.

St. Louis County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews was urged to be "more alert to check on his appointees and on contracts and dubious practices" in a final report by the county grand jury to Circuit Judge Noah Weinstein yesterday.

While approving the zeal with which Matthews is planning for the future, the jury noted that he possessed large powers in appointing heads of departments and members of boards and commissions and it urged him to exercise more care in making such appointments.

Attention was called to state law which forbids any commissioner from having any direct or indirect interest in contracts with the agency on which he serves.

"Furthermore, no one should be appointed who cannot guarantee that he will devote reasonable time to attending meetings and to exercising continuous and close supervision of his office," the jury report stated.

While the report mentioned no specific instances of Matthew's reported laxity, Eugene A. Hecker, grand jury foreman, told the Post-Dispatch the jury had "some suspicions" regarding a member of a county board but lacked sufficient evidence for any action against him.

The County Council was urged by the grand jury to provide funds for hiring additional guards at the County Jail to relieve the "appalling manpower shortage" that is a "constant threat and invitation to sucefssul jail breaks."

It recommended establishment of a second jail farther out in the county where prisoners could be put to useful tasks. The jury said the law requiring that prisoners convicted of misdemeanors be put to work as not being complied with.

Other recommendations included establishment of a land clearance redevelopment authority, continued attention of the fire hazard at Jefferson Barracks housing project, integration of the county police department with various municipal police forces, construction of a new building to replace the old wing of the present courthouse and enlargement of the county's Jefferson Barracks Park.

Expressing satisfaction with the fact that a redevelopment authority was already receiving favorable attention, the grand jury recommended that "every

ONLY TWO OF 17 B-52S BUILT THIS YEAR ACCEPTED, LEMAY REVEALS

Air Force Took 41 of 57 Produced Last Year, He Says — Warns Again of Larger Red Bomber Output.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP) —Gen. Curtis LeMay testified today that only two of 17 new wong-range jet B-52 bombers produced in the last three months have been accepted by the Air Force.

"Most of the B-52s produced but not accepted in February, March and April have not been accepted because of a component failure for which we now have a solution," he said.

LeMay, head of the Strategic Air Command (SAC), said that 41 of 57 new eight-jet bombers produced prior to Jan. 1 had been accepted by the Air Force.

(A United Press dispatch said 78 B-52s had been produced so far, but only 47 accepted.)

Lemay testified before the Senate Air Power Investigating subcommittee. He repeated what he has said before—that Russia now has more intercontinental jet bombers than the United States and is increasing its superiority.

His testimony was made public in censored form. He was questioned behind closed doors. The Senators' questions' questions and Lemay's replies were then submitted to the Pentagon. Officials there deleted some testimony on security grounds before the public release.

First Disclosure of Figures.

His testimony was the first official public disclosure of production and delivery rates on the B-52 bomber—the focal point in controversy over whether the United States is in danger of losing supremacy to Russia.

LeMay did not explain what had happened on the 16 B-52s produced but not accepted last year.

He said four were produced and accepted in January. The bombers cost $8,000,000 apiece.

He said six of the big jet bombers "completed shop assembly" during February but only two had been accepted. He said none of the six produced in March or five in April had been accepted.

The general said also that SAC has no jet tanker to refuel its jet bombers, and has less than the "ideal" number of tankers of any types for its medium and long range bombers.

At four places in his replies to the 31 questions made public today, LeMay began his reply this way:

"I have testified previously that if we were forced into a war with the Soviet Union now that we would probably win."

"Not Critically Short."

He had been asked if SAC was short of "skilled personnel, aircraft and bases."

LeMay, after his preface about ability to defeat Russia, replied: "It therefore follows that we are not critically short in any way of these elements since we believe we are capable of winning the war. However, it is true that the aircraft we have could be operated with a greater degree of efficiency than is now possible if we had more skilled personnel and more bases."

By the United Press.

The Administration's present plan is to build about 500 of the giant bombers. LeMay has urged that still more of the planes be built in order to maintain superiority over Russia in long-range striking power. He told the United Press today that STC is currently making a study of how many more of the bombers it thinks should be built than planned by the Administration.

The B-52 is designed as a replacement for the B-36 intercintinental bomber. LeMay said SAC thinks the B-26 "might be useful for another year or so, if we could employ it under circumstances which we select."

PARIS COWS WON'T WRANGLE, TEXAS PUNCHERS BEEF

PARIS, May 2 (UP)—A rodeo manager from Texas complained today that French cattle will not co-operate with his wranglers.

When they are supposed to breathe fire and meanness, they chew their cuds. When a cowboy tries to wrestle them to the ground, they refuse to fall.

"We should have left some of the cowboys at home and brought some cows along, instead," said the manager, Bob Estes, of Baird, Tex.

French audiences are getting a big kick out of the American cowboys' struggles with the cattle.

The usual reaction of a cow in a chute is to stick a baleful head out the opening, eye the crowd and decide the whole thing is not worth the fuss.

"It takes several good boots to get them going," said one cowpoke. "Trouble is, they finally get so sore you can't rassle 'em down nohow.

"After a lot of sweatin' and strainin' you give up and then the cow lies down in the middle of the ring of its own accord."

COUNTY HOUSING STANDARDS LAW URGED IN REPORT

Committee Asks Council for Authority to Broaden Study and Initiate Action.

St. Louis county's need for a minimum standards housing program was cited today by a special committee named by the County Council last February to study the subject.

The committee submitted a preliminary report today and asked for authority to go ahead on a broader basis and seek the co-operation of various interested agencies.

Completion and submission of the report was the first step toward preparation of a minimum housing standards ordinance.

Dr. Herbert F. Domke, County Health Commissioner, is chairman of the committee. The other members are Hermann F. Wagner, Acting Planning Director; Edward P. Walton, Deputy Director of Public Works, and Herbert C. Funke, County Counselor. They have been assisted by H. Clifford Mitchell, Director of Sanitation.

Mitchell estimated that the group may need as much as six months for a study of minimum standards ordinances used in other cities, for conferring with others concerned and for drafting an ordinance or code to submit to the council.

"The value of getting the assistance and co-operation of all agencies and groups interested in this problem would make that time well spent," Mitchell said.

Other persons to be consulted are in the Building, Health and Welfare departments, the Housing Authority, the Planning Commission, and the proposed Redevelopment Authority.

Mitchell helped draft a minimum standards ordinance in 1952 at Richmond, Va., where he was Director of Sanitary Engineering. Since then, model ordinances have been prepared by the United States Public Health Service and the American Public Health Association.

Today's report said proper enforcement of an ordinance requiring certain housing standards can resolve two phases of a three-fold housing program. First, it can provide for rehabilitation of existing substandard houses and demolition of those beyond repair. Second, it can stop deterioration and thereby prevent formation of new slums and blighted areas.

The third phase—new housing —can be accomplished by private enterprise and an active Redevelopment Authority, the group reported.

In another report prepared for the council, the Citizens Bond Issue Public Works Advisory (watchdog) Committee recommended employment of a firm of consulting engineers to co-ordinate all road, expressway and bridge projects proposed under the bond issue.

However, it said that might take considerable time, and to avoid further delay it recommended council approval for hiring of surveying and engineering firms recommended April 18 by County Highway Engineer Fred H. Kiburz, to prepare plans for 15 road and seven bridge projects.

New Orleans Bus Deficit.

NEW ORLEANS, May 2 (UP) —One of the nation's lowest transit fares may soon have to be increased if a revenue deficit continues, the New Orleans Public Service, Inc., reported yesterday. The basic seven cents transit fare has prevailed since 1922.

BIG PLANT TO BE BUILT SOON TO PRODUCE U.S. LONG - RANGE MISSILES

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UP). THE Air Force announced today that the Convair division of General Dynamics Corp. will begin almost immediately to build a $40,000,000 plant "for development and production" of intercontinental ballistic missiles at Sorrento, Calif.

Convair is working on the Atlas missile, which will be designed to travel 5000 miles at speeds up to 15,000 miles per hour.

The Air Force announcement used the word "production" for the first time in referring to a facility working on the intercontinental ballistics missile. The Air Force said the new plant will work on a "guided missile system."

Retired Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, head of Convair, said the concern will break ground this month, begin to occupy the plant next spring, and have it in full operation in the fall of 1957.

ATOM SUBMARINE HIT NET, TOWED FISHING CRAFT

GROTON, Conn., May 2 (UP) —The $55,000,000, atomic-powered submarine Natuilus ran into a trawler's net i nthe Atlantic April 22 and towed the fishing craft backwards until the net cable snapped, the Navy said today. The Nautilus lost one of its running lights and was otherwise damaged to the extent of about $1300 in the incident 140 miles southeast of New York.

The 61-foot trawler Jennie was not damaged. The cable break saved the vessel from being pulled to the bottom after it already had been forced down by the stern util the deck was awash.

Today, Comdr. John Dudley, flag secretary for the commander of submarine forces, Atlantic fleet, said an investigation disclosed that the Nautilus was responsible.

It was running submerged at a depth of about 150 feet when it nosed into the fishing net and apparently sliced through it, Dudley said.

ABUNDANT RAIN FOR MOST OF U.S. PREDICTED IN MAY

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP) —The weather bureau yesterday predicted temperatures will average above seasonal normals in the eastern and southern portions of the country in May.

The bureau said also:

"Below normal temperatures are predicted in the northern half of the nation from the Great Lakes westward to the Pacific with coldest weather in the northern plains.

DULLES IN PARIS SEEKING WIDER NATO ACTIVITIES

Economic and Political Link With 17-Nation OEEC May Result From Talks.

PARIS, May 2 (AP)—United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flew into Paris today for talks with Allied foreign ministers which may expand the military North Atlantic Treaty Organization into political and economic fields.

His special Air Force plane from Washington landed at Orly airfield nearly an hour ahead of schedule. Dulles was accompanied by his wife.

Although preparations had been made for the Secretary to make a statement on the French radio, he said he had none to make. Instead he drove immediately to the United States Embassy with Ambassador C. Douglas Dillon.

Dulles was pictured in Washington as coming to the meeting of the 15-nation NATO council Friday without any specific blueprint. Officials there said he was eager to hear the views of other governments.

But the Secretary's remarks on leaving the United States capital and a White House statement made it clear development of a program of economic and possibly political action for NATO would be given intensive study.

Facing Several Problems.

Other problems such as the Palestine and Cyprus crises and Russian policy were certain to draw Dulles's attention also, particularly at preliminary meetings with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau.

Dulles said in Washington one of the primary purposes of the NATO council meeting was to consult on steps to organize the "North Atlantic Community" into "something more than a military alliance."

A White House statement said the Secretary had conferred with President Eisenhower on "the political development of the Atlantic community."

The use of the term "North Atlantic Community" in both statements was considered significant. That community includes such non-NATO members as Spain, Sweden and Switzerland.

However, Dulles made it plain he still regards the military aspects of the NATO alliance as essential. He said NATO's strength and unity had contributed to a friendlier Soviet policy.

"If we want that happier condition to continue, we must continue the policies that brought it about," he declared.

ARAB STATES WANT ISRAEL TO PLEDGE NOT TO DIVERT WATER

Tel Aviv Already Said to Have Rejected Demand — Hammarskjold Holds Conference in Damascus.

JERUSALEM, May 2 (AP)—Lebanon lined up formally with Syria today in refusing to pledge a cease-fire with Israel until the Israelis promise not to divert the Jordan river.

Israel was reported already to have turned down the Syrian demand for such a pledge.

Lebanon's condition for a cease-fire agreement was conveyed to United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold just before he made a flying trip to Damascus for last-minute talks with Syrian leaders on the water dispute.

He was in Damascus three hours, in which he conferred with Premier-Foreign Minister Said Ghazzi and Defense Minister Rashad Barmada. Before taking off to return to Jerusalem, he was asked by reporters about the results of his visit.

He replied in French, "Je suis le garcon muet." ("I am the silent boy.")

Pledge Demanded.

Lebanese Foreign Minister Salim Lahoud said in his message that Lebanon supports Syria in demanding a written pledge that Israel will not resume work on the Jordan river project. He also said Lebanon reserves the right of self-defense against any Israeli attack.

An Israeli army spokesman, meanwhile, announced two new appointments in the top ranks of Israel's army. He said Brig. Moshe Zadok had been named an officer of the general staff "in charge of operations for an emergency." Brig. Zhak Rabin was appointed commanding officer of the northern area of the country. The northern area is the territory bordered by Syria and Lebanon, as well as Jordan.

Hammarskjold had planned to leave today for Rome to prepare his report for the security council but decided to delay his departure until tomorrow.

Final Cairo Talks.

U.N. spokesmen said Hammarskjold would stop in Cairo for final talks with Egyptian leaders on way to Rome. It was considered likely that he would cable a short interim report to the Security Council from Italy by Friday and then remain there a few days to prepare his full report. He is expected to report in person to the council next week.

Hammarskjold arrived in the Middle East April 6 to begin his peace mission and has obtained pledges of an unconditional cease-fire from Israel and Egypt. He also has received promises of support from other Arab states.

But informed sources said Syria qualified its pledge to observe a cease-fire with a demand that an agreement include Israel's promise not to resume work on a project to use the Jordan waters for power and irrigation purposes. The sources said Israel maintained the project would be inside Israeli territory and would have nothing to do with frontier issues.

The Jordan flows through Israel and Jordan and part of it closely approaches Syria. Syria and Jordan—backed by the other Arab countries—have said they would consider resumption of work on a diversion canal by Israel an act of aggression. The channel, for power and irrigation, was started in a demilitarized zone between Lake Huleh and the Sea of Galilee, near the Syrian line.

Digging Halted.

The U.N. Security Council by resolution three years ago called on Israel to suspend digging the canal "pending urgent examination of the question." The Security Council took no further action, however.

Israel halted work on the canal but has said it would not delay its own plans indefinitely.

In his stopover in Cairo on way to Rome, Hammarskjold was expected to hold further talks on implementation of the Egyptian - Israeli cease - fire agreement.

U.N. spokesmen said both Israel and Egypt had agreed to the establishment of U.N. observation posts and mobile patrols around the Egyptian-held

World May Be Smaller Than You Think, Army Map Scientists Say

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP) —Army map service scientists said today new studies indicate the earth's circumference is about a half mile smaller than previously believed.

Bernard Chovitz, one of them, also said a current project aimed at making the first accurate measurement of the distance between western and eastern hemisphere lands, across the Atlantic, conceivably could yield information that would aid in accurately firing an intercontinental missile.

In a report for the annual meeting of the American Geophysical Union, the map service scientists said the equatorial radius of the earth—the distance from its center to the equator—is 6,975,336 yards or 140 yards less than the figure generally accepted since 1909.

Chovitz, a map service mathematician, told a reporter the new computation, applied to the circumference of the earth at the equator, would make the world 24,902 miles around at its widest point. This is about a half mile smaller than the old circumference measurement.

The distance around the earth over the north and south poles also would be a half mile less, according to the new figures. Actually, the over-all circumference over the poles is about 40 miles smaller than around the equator because the earth is flattened at the poles.

Army Brass Hats Studying Green Berets for Issue to G.I.s

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UP) —The Army is studying a proposal to outfit soldiers with berets of the new Army green, Army quartermaster officers told a House Appropriations subcommittee in testimony made public yesterday.

Lt. Col. R. T. Morgan, clothing project officer, said the study had been ordered by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, and will be presented to the Army uniform board.

Representative Daniel J. Flood (Dem.), Pennsylvania, said he thought it would be a morale builder for special "hot-shot" units like paratroopers, but not the entire Army.

"I will have something to say before they break out the Army in berets," Flood said.

GORE INDICATES LOBBY WITNESS OFFERS VIEWS OF OIL, GAS FIRMS

Industry 'Put Best Foot Forward,' Senator Says — Texan Denies Illegal Activity by His Group.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Senator Albert Gore (Dem.), Tennessee, said today "The oil and gas industry put its best foot forward" at the first public hearing held by a special Senate committee investigating lobbying and influence.

Referring to testimony yesterday by Maston Nixon of Corpus Christi, Tex., Gore told reporters: "I do not say that his testimony was instigated for that purpose, but he seems to have received no discouragement in appearing before the committee from any source within the industry."

Nixon is chairman of the General Gas Committee, set up in 1954 to work for passage of a bill to free natural gas producers from direct federal regulation.

In vetoing that bill, President Eisenhower said he was in accord with the basic objectives of the measure, but he denounced what he called "highly questionable" activities in its behalf by a small segment of the industry.

His veto message, plus the earlier disclosure that an oil company lobbyist had tried unsuccessfully to contribute $2500 to the re-election campaign of Senator Francis Case (Rep.) South Dakota, during Senate debate on the controversial measure, led to the current investigation.

The special eight-member committee, headed by Senator John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, is under instructions to search out any improper or illegal attempts to influence senators or other government officials through lobbying or campaign contributions.

Nixon—no relation to the Vice President—testified the General Gas Committee, financed largely by oil and gas producing companies gathered and distributed what he called "facts" about the gas bill, but did not engage in lobbying members of Congress.

He denied knowledge of any illegal or improper lobbying for or against the gas measure—or any other lobbying, for that matter. He said he did not have any possible leads to give the Senate investigators.

Nixon, who is president of Southern Minerals Corp., testified he had made some "very small" contributions in Texas primary campaigns. Otherwise, he said, he never had made any political contributions to candidates for the Senate or the House.

Said Senator Clinton Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico: "The President vetoed the bill on account of the arrogant lobbying. Was he wholly mistaken?"

"He wasn't a member of our group," Nixon said.

The "he" the witness referred to apparently was John M. Neff of Lexington (Nebr.), a lawyer-lobbyist for Superior Oil Co. of California. Neff attempted to donate $2500 to the re-election campaign of Senator Case. The money was traced to President Howard Keck of Superior.

Asks About $200.

Anderson spotted a Superior Oil Co. contribution to the General Gas Committee on a list of persons and firms from whom the committee collected money. He asked Nixon about that. Nixon said he thought it was $200, that it was made in the last quarter of 1954 during the committee's first appeal for funds and "they made no further contribution" after that.

Asked by Gore why he was before the committee, Nixon replied that he felt he should give an account of his stewardship of the General Gas Committee before leaving on a trip to Europe. Nixon said he was "very proud" of the committee's work and did not want it to appear that "I'd run out of the country."

Under questioning by Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem.), Massachusetts, Nixon conceded his group's work represented only a minor part of the oil and gas industry's effort to get the natural gas bill passed.

Nixon said he had asked to be heard after consulting half a dozeen persons in the industry and found them all favorable to the idea. But he said it was his own decision.

"No one in the industry instigated my appearance," he told Gore.

McClellan Questioned.

Reporters asked McClellan whether Nixon would have been called as a witness regardless of whether he had volunteered to testify.

"Certainly he would have been called," McClellan replied. He added he understood that the gas committee "at one time was the fourth largest" group registered under the lobbying act, in point of its expenditures.

fear, and by objectives far more fundamental than military strength. I hope and expect that at this meeting we will begin to search out new ways to express our common desire."

Step Long Advocated.

Many European foreign ministers have been pressing for years for similar moves but thus far there has been little international agreement within the NATO framework.

The Italians would like to develop backward areas in southeastern Europe. Foreign Minister Gaetano Martino said last night he would propose formation of a new NATO "co-ordination committee" to shape economic policy.

The Germans are understood to have an economic project in mind for the Middle East.

Canada's Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson suggested Monday night that NATO cannot become "the source of a real Atlantic community if it remains organized to deal only with the military threat which first brought it into being."

"A new emphasis, therefore, on the non-military side of NATO's development is essential," Pearson said. "It would also be the best answer to the Soviet charge that it is an aggressive, exclusively military agency, aimed again Moscow."

Pearson suggested that an economic program might better be pushed through the United Nations. So has French Foreign Minister Pineau, with whom Dulles conferred this afternoon.

Such a prospect might find the Soviet Union, as well as the United States and European nations, contributing economic aid to backward nations through the U.N.

What Diplomats Expect.

Diplomats in Paris have expressed the belief that some kind of board of economic strategy will emerge from the NATO council meeting. Perhaps it will be linked with NATO, they say, or possibly allied with the 17-nation organization for European Economic Co-operation.

The United States and Canada do not belong to OEEC but are associated closely with its work. The OEEC started out as a distributing agency for United States Marshall plan aid.

Officials in Washington said Dulles has considered the possibility of linking NATO and OEEC in some form, or perhaps supplanting them with a new organization having broad political and economic responsibility. There are difficulties. Traditional neutrals like Sweden and Switzerland have consistently refused to join NATO because of its military nature.

The next four days will be devoted to intensive examination of a variety of problems.

Dulles and Pineau will be joined, probably tomorrow, by the British Foreign Secretary in Big Three talks on a wide range of issues.

West Germany and the Big Three were reported near agreement on a compromise plan for support of Allied troops in Germany. The Bonn government had said it would halt cash payments next Saturday, but officials in London—where talks have been going on—said West Germany now plans to offer more than $200,000,000 worth of goods and services for the next 12 months. Last year West Germany paid the Allies $760,000,000.

SERVICE FOR BARKLEY HELD IN WASHINGTON

Eisenhower Cancels Press Conference to Attend; Burial Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Official Washington, led by President Eisenhower, and many others paid final tribute today to Alben W. Barkley.

Diplomats, Senators, Cabinet members and Supreme Court justices occupied pews in Foundry Methodist church at funeral services for the Kentucky Democratic Senator and former vice president.

Outside, in a drizzle of rain, stood other persons who had held the "Veep" of the Truman administration in deep affection.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of the church, chaplain of the Senate and longtime friend of Barkley.

In an overnight change of plans, Mr. Eisenhower postponed his weekly press conference until Friday in order to attend the funeral. The White House had announced yesterday that Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., American ambassador to the United Nations, would represent the President at the service.

Besides the President, Vice President Nixon, Senate Republican leader Knowland of California, and Senate Democratic leader Johnson of Texas were among those attending. Others included one-time New Deal brain truster Thomas C. (Tommy the Cork) Corcoran and James P. McGranery, who was Attorney General in the last months of the Truman Administration.

Sir Roger Makins, the British Ambassador, was among the many foreign diplomats in attendance.

Mr. Eisenhower entered just before the service began. He was accompanied by his chief aid, Sherman Adams; his legislative assistant, Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, and his press secretary, James C. Hagerty.

Barkley's body was to be removed later in the day, by a special congressional train, to his hometown of Paducah, Ky., for burial tomorrow. The former Vice President died Monday of a heart attack while making a political speech at Lexington, Va. He was 78 years old.

Dr. White Treated Barkley for Heart Ailment in 1950.

BOSTON, May 2 (AP)—Dr. Paul Dudley White, famed heart specialist who recently attended President Eisenhower, said yesterday he treated Senator Barkley for a heart condition twice in 1950.

"It wasn't a coronary thrombosis condition," Dr. White said, "but an atrial flutter. He weathered this siege very well, indeed.

"I haven't seen him professionally since, but I corresponded with him several times. Recently I heard rumors that he wasn't feeling well."

WEST GERMANY REJECTS SOVIET TRADE PACT BID

Such a Treaty Couldn't Be Concluded Until Reich Is Reunited, Bonn Says.

BONN, May 2 (AP) — The West German government today rejected a Russian offer of a trade treaty. Such a treaty could not be concluded until Germany was reunited, a government spokesman told a press conference.

LONDON, May 2 (UP)—British-German ministerial talks ended tonight without agreement on a West German contribution to the cost of maintaining Allied troops in West Germany.

The present agreement runs out May 5. Three days of conferences here between Bonn Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano and Britain's top ministers failed to provide an extension.

The British budget for 1956-57 counts on substantial West German financial support for the British army of the Rhine until Bonn's own army is organized.

However, the West German Government said it would withdraw support of British, French and American troops in its territory by May 5. It argued that its recently won sovereignty relieved it of responsibility to pay the Western Allies' defense bills.

A communique issued at the end of Brentano's conferences with Britain's leaders said only that "interim arrangements have been made to allow negotiations to proceed."

The communique listed a wide range of international porblems covered in the talks. It expressed continued support by the British and West German governments of the important ideas of European solidarity and the need for German reunification "in peace and freedom."

It added that the German and British ministers "reviewed recent developments in Soviet foreign policy."

"At the same time," it continued, "the two governments were agreed that they would not contemplate any weakening of existing institutions which have so effectively secured the peace and which threaten nobody."

Eisenhower's Tactics Reported Backfiring in Rush for Aid Fund

His Tendency to Refer Difficult Questions to Committees Blamed in Part for Threat of Delay.

By JAMES RESTON

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 2—President Eisenhower has taken personal charge of the Administration's foreign aid program in an effort to keep the Congress from "studying it to death."

This was the reason for his hurried call to the leaders of the Foreign Relations and Foreign Affairs Committees at the White House Monday afternoon.

He was worried about the suggestions by Chairman James P. Richards of the House Foreign Affairs Committee that Congress "mark time" while the administration made up its mind about how it wanted to redirect and administer the foreign aid program.

He was even more worried that Chairman Walter F. George of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee wanted to create an "outside committee" to study the question before voting the $4,900,000,000 requested by the administration in the next fiscal year.

Progress Indicated.

Consequently, he used all his powers of persuasion on the Congressional committee leaders, emphasizing that this program was vital to the West's counter-offensive in the post-Stalin phase of the cold war. Apparently he made some progress for the leaders were saying in the end that they expected to vote a "substantial" program.

What the Administration is running into here is partly election-year politics, partly the consequences of its own indecision in coming forward with a well-defined and publicized foreign aid program, and partly a reaction to the President's own tendency to deal with difficult political and policy questions by referring them to "outside committees for study."

The Administration has been slow in readjusting its policies to the consequences of the Big Four meeting at Geneva last July. There, the President agreed with the other three heads of government that while the free and Communist worlds each would continue to pursue its own objectives, these objectives must be pursued by other means than war.

U. S. Slow to Act.

While the Soviets immediately started an economic offensive in the Middle East and South Asia, and began trumpeting the doctrine of a political "popular front" with the Socialists in Europe, the United States has been slow in redirecting its economic, political and propaganda policies to meet this second phase of the cold war.

The Democrats, who are making foreign policy one of their main targets in the presidential campaign, have been critical of the Administration's tardiness, but now that the Administration is trying to get congressional consent for a more permanent and flexible foreign aid policy, they are raising a great number of objections.

There is a personal aspect to this as well. Senator George is facing the possibility of a difficult primary election in Georgia against former Gov. Herman Talmadge, who is going around the state criticizing George for going along on "give-aways" to foreign countries that could be used more appropriately in Georgia. Accordingly, George is being extremely cautious about seeming to be co-operative with the Administration.

Not Enthusiastic.

George has never been very enthusiastic about the foreign aid program. His reticence and the Administration's sense of uncertainty about what it will do with the new foreign aid funds have contributed to the suggestion that the whole program should be "studied" by yet another "public committee."

For once, the thought of another time-consuming "outside committee" gives Mr. Eisenhower the shudders, but he has to use this device so often himself that it is becoming a Washington habit. "When in doubt, appoint a committee" is the order of the day here. The only difference this time is that it's the Senators who want to do the appointing.

Mr. Eisenhower already has so many outside committees studying so many different things that he has forgotten what and where they all are. There are such committees on agriculture, foreign information, foreign economic policy, housing, labor, Army reserves, manpower resources, and a host of other things, including rainmaking, and while some of these are obviously useful, many of them are quickly appointed and forgotten.

One That Faded Away.

For example, Mr. Eisenhower appointed one to assist the National Security Council early in 1953. This was ably manned and became known as "the seven wise men," but after a few meetings here in the spring of 1953, it faded away. Members could not recall today specifically what they had done and whether they had ever been disbanded.

This is one of the most interesting aspects of the philosophy of Government in Washington today: the assumption that people cannot "think" in Washington, that they should get out of the capital if they want to "think" and that it is easier to send problems out to "thinkers" rather than to bring "thinkers" into the Government.

It is a paradox too, for this habit is developing after 10 years of the most intensive studying and reorganization of the Federal Government since its inception.

During this period, the National Security Council has been organized as a high-level cabinet committee to formulate and co-ordinate United States foreign policy. The Operations Control Board has been set up to follow through on NSC plans which Cabinet members cannot find time to do themselves.

The Operations Control Board now has more than 40 subcommittees to help it with this work and meanwhile, also under the Security Council, there is an NSC Planning Board. All this, of course, in addition to the State Department's policy planning staff and the International Co-operation Administration.

In the same 10-year period, the committees of Congress have been reorganized and provided with professional staffs. The Foreign Affairs Committee of the House and the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate have been divided into regional subcommittees so that members can concentrate on the problems of a particular area. Various staff officers have been brought into the White House to supervise the over-all conduct of the cold war.

Nevertheless, when a policy problem arises, the tendency is to create another outside committee to study it. Now that the Congress is showing a weakness for this tendency, the President is finally blowing the whistle.

FIRES DIRECTOR OF HOUSE-SENATE TV-RADIO STUDIO

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Ralph Roberts, clerk of the House, said today he has fired Mrs. Helen B. Coar because of "a conflict of interest."

Mrs. Coar was studio director of the Senate-House studio which records radio and television broadcasts for members of Congress. Her salary was $6000 a year. Her husband, Robert J. Coar, is head of the recording facility. He is a Senate employe.

"I acted on instructions of the Patronage Committee," Roberts told reporters. "Mrs. Coar and her husband operate a private radio and television recording project which is in direct conflict with their work for Congress."

Speaker Sam Rayburn said he had nothing to do with the dismissal and didn't know about it until after it had happened.

SCHOOL SPENDING ON MAINTENANCE $300,000 BEYOND BUDGET CHARGED

Hiring of More Workers by Rhodes Criticized — $175,000 Extra Outlay Approved by 9 to 2 Vote.

School Building Commissioner V. Harry Rhodes is exceeding his 1955-56 budget for wages paid to maintenance workers in his department by more than $300,000, it was charged yesterday at a stormy meeting of the Board of Education.

The board, which met as a committee of the whole, approved by a 9-to-2 vote an additional appropriation of $175,000 for maintenance wages.

Rhodes argued that the money was needed to meet the higher payroll which has resulted from his hiring of 49 additional workers during the fiscal year in excess of the 215 employes listed in the budget approved last July.

Daniel L. Schlafly, a board member, said that the $175,000 represented only part of what Rhodes actually is spending this fiscal year for wages over his original budget allotment of $1,310,000.

Cash From Other Funds.

Maintenance craftsmen and laborers have been paid $116,000 from other funds—principally for bond issue jobs—in addition to what they have received from the separate maintenance wages fund, Schlafly said.

In the remainder of the fiscal year, he said, another $30,000 will be paid to Rhodes's employes from these other funds. The total, including the $175,000, will be more than $300,000, Schlafly said.

He added that he was not questioning the disirability of doing the maintenance and repair work in the schools which Rhodes said was necessary, but asked why the commissioner could not have brought the need for more wages before the board at an earlier date.

Rhodes, in a memorandum prepared for board members, argued that he had, in earlier meetings, made it clear that more men were being hired and that more money would be needed to pay them.

Happened Before.

James F. Morrell, president of the board, said that in attempting to set up a maintenance budget, "it is almost impossible to foresee how many gallons of paint or how many feet of pipe" will be needed.

As for the board being required to vote more money for maintenance purposes, Morrell said, "it's happened in the past and I am sure it will happen again."

In the appropriation vote, which included an item of $35,000 for additional maintenance supplies and expenses, Louis H. Antoine and Charles H. Christel opposed granting Rhodes's request. Antoine said he thought the increase over the budget was "too violent a fluctuation." Voting in favor were Schlafly, Morrell, H. Lee Bruns, Edward C. Donnelly, Charles J. Dyer, Oscar A. Ehrhardt, Mrs. Irma H. Friede, Mrs. Edward M. Harrington and Dr. James J. McCaffery. Dr. Walter A. Younge, twelfth board member, was absent.

Maximum Tax Rate.

Christel charged that Rhodes's request "apparently is forcing" the board to levy the maximum tax rate of $1.30 per $100 of assessed property valuation rather than $1.29. Each penny in the rate represents about $160,000 in revenue.

He cited a statement in a previous meeting by Mervyn E. Wiethaupt, secretary-treasurer of the board, that the additional maintenance funds were not considered in determining the new rate, approved last month in a special election.

Rhodes, however, said that in February he had informed the budget director, Superintendent of Instruction Philip J. Hickey, that he would exceed the maintenance budget this year by $200,000. Therefore, Rhodes said, the item "must have been considered" in the setting of the rate.

Ehrhardt charged that Christel's remark about the maximum levy was "an untrue statement." He said he resented "the implication that (Rhodes's request) is going to throw the budget out of kilter when it's not."

The board approved levying the maxium $1.30 rate for the fiscal year starting July 1. It also approved setting the rate for retiring and paying interest on bond issues at 8 cents per $100 valuation, an increase of 2 cents over the existing rate.

Vote on Depository.

By an 8-to-3 vote, the board decided to continue placing its cash deposits in Mutual Bank & Trust Co. Antoine, Schlafly and Christel voted against the proposal, emphasizing they were not being critical of the Mutual bank.

Schlafly said he had never been told why the majority of the board preferred the Mutual bank, rather than one of the several other larger institutions which had previously solicited the board's account.

Dr. McCaffery replied that the fact that most board members preferred the Mutual bank was "all the answer" necessary. Voting favorably on the motion were McCaffery, Morrell, Mrs. Harrington, Mrs. Friede, Ehrhardt, Dyer, Donnelly and Bruns.

The board also approved contingent fund expenditures of executive officers, including an item of $149 for the board's private dinner held prior to the public board meeting April 10.

CONSTRUCTION OFF $9,000,000 HERE IN 4 MONTHS OF '56

Construction represented by building permits issued in the city in the first four months this year dropped $9,000,000, as compared with the figures for the four months last year, the building commissioner said today.

There were more permits this year but the value was only $12,034,000, against $21,118,000 in the first quarter of 1955.

Last month, with $3,796,000 in construction authorized, was the lowest April since 1952. Approximately $6,000,000 in building was authorized in April 1955.

New construction totaled $2,430,000 and alterations $1,366,000 last month. A net gain of 69 dwelling units was shown.

Building department officials said several large projects now pending would swell the 1956 construction total when finally approved.

STRIKE OF 9 CITY EMPLOYES CONTINUES IN COLLINSVILLE

Strike of nine Collinsville water and street department employes over a wage dispute continued today. A picket line was established again in front of the city hall.

Mayor Albert Delbartes said three workers and a superintendent were allowed to keep the city's water and sewer systems in operation. The workers have demanded a 25-cent hourly wage increase and the city council has offered 12½ cents.

The water department employes are members of Local 44, Laborers' Union and the street employes, Local 729, Teamsters' Union. Delbartes said the city could not afford to meet the wage demands. Teamsters earn $2.25 an hour and laborers, $2.37.

MISSING MAN'S BODY FOUND

The body of Charles P. Martin, 4335 Garfield avenue, was found in the Mississippi river near the foot of Franklin avenue yesterday. Martin, a Negro, had been missing since April 11. He was 48 years old.

His wife told police he had been under the care of a physician for a nervous condition.

GROCER IN AUTO AT STOPLIGHT IS ROBBED OF $2300

On Way to Bank to Deposit Money When Car Is Invaded by Holdup Man.

Eugene A. Butz, a grocer, was robbed of $2302 yesterday by a man who entered Butz's station wagon as he waited for a traffic signal at Vandeventer and Natural Bridge avenues.

Butz, 45 years old, was driving from his grocery at 8539 Natural Bridge road, Bellerive, to Cass Bank & Trust Co. to deposit the money. All but $102 represented receipts from the sale of American Express Co. travelers' checks.

He told police the man, a Negro, climbed in beside him and, with his hand held in his pocket as though he had a pistol, said, "I want your money."

The robber then ordered Butz, 346 Camellia drive, Webster Groves, to drive to an alley between the 2700 blocks of Dayton and Gamble streets, where he took a briefcase containing $1800 and removed the remaining $502 from Butz's pockets.

The man then ran west in an alley, police were told.

Robert Starks, attendant at a filling station at 810 South Seventh street, was held up early today by an armed man, who took $40 and fled on foot, Starks reported.

Two employes and a customer in a pharmacy at 377 Big Bend boulevard, University City, were forced to lie on the floor last night by two robbers, who fled with $192.

Jack B. Gentle, the pharmacist, said one robber displayed a pistol and forced him, a delivery boy and a customer to lie down. The second robber scooped up the contents of the cash register and the pair then left the store.

INAUGURAL FLIGHT FROM ST. LOUIS TO PARIS COMPLETED

The inaugural Trans World Airlines flight from St. Louis to Paris, France, was completed today, when a Super G. Constellation landed safe at 8:24 a.m. (St. Louis time). The plane, which left Lambert-St. Louis Field yesterday, arrived one hour and 51 minutes ahead of schedule at 2:24 p.m. (Paris time).

Prior to departure Miss Audrey Faust Wallace, reigning Veiled Prophet Queen, christened the plane "The Spirit of St. Louis." Instead of the customary champagne, a bottle containing water from the Seine, Missouri and Mississippi rivers was used.

Women passengers were given orchid corsages, and souvenirs were distributed to the international passengers. A bag of international mail containing special first flight cachets was placed aboard by Postmaster Bernard F. Dickman, and a message of greeting to the Mayor of Paris and a key to St. Louis was sent by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker in care of the St. Louis passengers.

LADUE COUNCIL QUERIES CITIZENS ABOUT DOG LAW

Householders today received a letter from the Ladue City Council asking their opinion on the question of whether a law should be enacted to require that all dogs be kept on the owners' premises except when on leash or whether they should continue to roam at large.

Mayor Edward S. Funsten told the Post-Dispatch the council had received some complaints that dogs were trampling flower beds but the complaints were not in such volume as to demand immediate action. He said the council, being fairly evenly divided on the matter, decided to submit the question to an unoffical referendum.

The council's letter stated its members were not unmindful that many dog lovers considered one of the real assets of living in Ladue to be their ability to keep a dog without being subjected to the rigid restrictions imposed of necessity by other cities where the population was greater.

There are 2200 households in Ladue and dog registrations run to about 1000 but these statistics do not actually reflect the number of dog lovers in the population because some owners have four or five dogs.

LONG ASKS DOWD FOR ALL DATA IN PAY-OFF INQUIRY

Only Excerpts From Statements Received, Head of Police Board Complains.

A request that Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd submit full statements of witnesses in his investigation of alleged police payoffs to the Board of Police Commissioners was made today by I. A. Long, board president.

In a letter to the circuit attorney, Long complained that material received by the police board from Dowd contained excerpts of statements made by witnesses to the circuit attorney's investigators.

"We would like to obtain the full statements from which these excerpts were taken," Long requested.

Previously, the letter stated, Dowd had sent the board copies of statements taken by police inspectors from witnesses, which were forwarded to Dowd's office. These statements subsequently were returned to the police department.

Copies of statements obtained by Dowd's assistants from policemen have not been furnished the commissioners, Long complained.

"We are anxious to receive all material your office is willing to turn over prior to adjournment of the present circuit court grand jury in June," the letter added.

The last statement received by the commissioners was made by Mrs. Ruby Hoffman, a key witness, Dec. 9, the letter pointed out. "In view of this we assume your office has taken no further statements since that date," Long wrote.

Following receipt of Long's letter, Dowd told the Post-Dispatch his office had furnished the commissioners complete information relating to policemen.

"The 'excerpts' mentioned by Mr. Long are complete with reference to the police department," the circuit attorney said. "If the commissioners wish statements of witnesses relating to other individuals we will see that they have them."

The circuit attorney said Maj. James F. Thompson represented the police department in the interrogation and it was presumed he reported to his superiors. With reference to Long's complaint that copies of statements obtained from police officers were not forwarded to the commissioners, Dowd said Maj. Thompson was present when those statements were taken.

"We intend to furnish the commissioners with the police statements, if they want them," Dowd declared. "I would like to point out that we furnished the board full information relative to two members of the department who were guests of gamblers at Las Vegas, Nev. It might be added that the police board has power to obtain statements from its personnel under oath, an authority the circuit attorney lacks."

Long's letter contained a list of witnesses interviewed by the circuit attorney and police in the effort to learn if policemen were on the payroll of brothel operators. Witnesses summoned, in addition to Mrs. Hoffman, included Ruby Barr, Pauline Cloin, William R. Clark, Peggy Klein, Werner Lytz, Helen McKeever, Marie Hoban, Bessie Gucker, William McGuire, Maxine Kennard and Ida Mertzen, it was reported.

Mrs. Hoffman, who operated brothels in the 4400 block of McPherson avenue and the 4500 block of Gravois avenue, is reported to have named four St. Louis policemen as having taken money from persons seeking to avoid prosecution.

Among her assertions set forth in Dowd's report to police is a statement that a patrolman visited her regularly one morning each month, drank coffee with her and then took a district captain's share of monthly receipts back to the police station.

Blue Shield's Fixed Fee Plan Assailed at Medical Meeting

One Surgeon Denounces Proposal as 'State Medicine' in Talk to St. Louis Society.

A proposal by Blue Shield medical service to offer "low and moderate income groups" a plan that would cover the entire cost of some surgery was opposed by most physicians who attended a meeting of the St. Louis Medical Society last night and was denounced by one surgeon as "state medicine, pure and simple."

Under the proposal, participants in Blue Shield service whose incomes are within a prescribed limit would have the full cost of certain operations paid for by the service. Full payment for the surgery would be made possibie by regulating the fees for operations.

The "fixed fee" feature of the proposal was described by Dr. Dean Sauer, a surgeon and a member of the council of the Medical Society, as "state medicine" because "it permits a group of people to tell doctors what to charge no matter whether they (the doctors) have spent eight minutes or eight hours with the patient."

"If you accept this plan," Dr. Sauer told 150 physicians at the meeting, in the Medical Society's auditorium, 3839 Lindell boulevard, "you will abrogate your right to evaluate your own services." He was applauded vigorously.

Suggestions Listed.

While the "fixed fees" for operations have not been determined, a list was distributed showing "suggested" fees. This indicated coverage for those eligible to participate would be increased by about one-third.

Blue Shield at present pays a certain amount for an operation, the amount varying with the type of surgery, regardless of what the doctor charges. For example, Blue Shield now pays up to $35 for a tonsillectomy, no matter how much more the doctor charges.

Under the proposal, the medical service would pay $50 for a tonsillectomy for participants from the so-called "limited" income group, and the doctor would not be allowed to charge more than that.

Tom R. O'Brien, executive director of Blue Shield, explained the new plan and a panel of four physicians presented their reasons for favoring the proposal. Panelists were Dr. R. O. Muether, vice president of Blue Shield; Dr. Charles R. Doyle, member of the council of the St. Louis Medical Society; Dr. Joseph C. Peden Sr., a member of the voting board of Blue Shield, and Dr. George L. Hawkins Jr., secretary of the medical society.

Explaining that most details of the plan had not been worked out, O'Brien said in other cities where the plan is in effect an annual income of less than $6000 is generally required for eligibility.

Estimate on Rates.

He estimated that the rate "will not be much, if any, in excess of the rate charged the present 'preferred risk' groups, which have a greater scale of benefits." The rate "might" be under $5 a month for a family, he added.

Fees that would be charged for surgery would be determined "by a cross-section of suggestions" by physicians, O'Brien said, adding that "when a tentative program is fully worked out it will be sent by mail to all Medical Society members for approval or rejection." Medical societies in all but 30 Missouri counties are in the Blue Shield program.

O'Brien said the proposal should be accepted because it will "bring great credit to the medical profession in the eyes of the public by de-emphasizing the factor of cash and by stressing the provisions of service."

Other reasons cited by O'Brien and members of the panel were that the program would insure doctors "proper and substantial" remuneration for services performed and would ward off degrees of socialized medicine.

BILL 'UPGRADING' WEST END AREA'S ZONING DRAFTED

Owners' Group in Fight on Blight Seeks Bar on New Rooming Houses.

A bill barring establishment of new rooming houses in the area bounded roughly by Union boulevard and Cabanne, Etzel and Hodiamont avenues has been drawn up for presentation to the Board of Aldermen. It will be introduced jointly by Aldermen William C. Brady of the Twenty-sixth and William A. Stolar of the Twenty-eighth wards.

The measure, sponsored by the West End Community Conference and approved by the City Plan Commission, would change the zoning classification of 32 square blocks from D multiple-family to B two-family. A similar "upgrading" already has been put into effect for sections of Bartmer, Maple and Plymouth avenues.

The proposed rezoning would not interfere with rooming houses now licensed to operate in the district, but would bar any new establishments.

The West End Community Conference has been making a determined effort to forestall blight and preserve the livability of this neighborhood. Block units have been organized, and city experts have been called in to help develop an over-all program of improvements.

The district had a population of 25,180 in 1950, but under present zoning the density of dwelling units could be tripled and the population expanded to 78,500, according to the City Plan Commission. In view of crowded schools, a shortage of automobile parking space and lack of playgrounds, the neighborhood association is convinced that a big increase in population would not be desirable.

Its members will testify in support of rezoning at a public hearing to be held after the bill is introduced in the Board of Aldermen.

SEGREGATIONIST DEFEATS FOLSOM FOR PARTY POST

Swamps Alabama Governor in Contest for Democratic National Committeeman.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 2 (AP)—A strong advocate of racial segregation defeated Gov. James E. Folsom for Democratic national committeeman from Alabama in yesterday's Democratic primary.

An unofficial count of 1964 of the state's 2805 boxes gave State Representative Charles W. McKay Jr. 146,512 votes to 51,593, for Folsom. The third candidate in the race, Roy D. McCord, trailed with 27,708.

Candidates who have said they favor Adlai Stevenson for the presidential nomination formed a majority among the leaders for places on Alabama's delegation to the Democratic national convention.

The campaign for national committeeman was marked by bitterness over racial issues. McKay, author of Alabama's nullification resolution that wants to shoulder aside the United States Supreme Court's integration decisions, charged Folsom had showed weakness in defending the South's traditions of separation of the races. He also accused Folsom of being an ally of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in its drive to break down racial barriers in the South.

Folsom countered these assertions with the statements that he had always believed in segregation and that public schools in Alabama would remain segregated as long as he was Governor.

Easy Winner as Governor.

Folsom's smashing defeat came two years after he won his second term as Governor in an overwhelming first primary victory over six other candidates.

McKay, an attorney, made his first state-wide race against a background of controversy stirred by Negro demands for the integration of public schools. Tension had mounted over the boycott of Montgomery busses by Negroes, and the forced enrollment of Autherine Lucy, the University of Alabama's first Negro student.

Miss Lucy was driven from the campus at Tuscaloosa by a mob Feb. 6. She was expelled March 1 for her unproved accusations that university authorities conspired with rioters.

Besides Folsom, two other state-wide candidates named by opponents as being on a Folsom slate also were defeated.

They were Circuit Judge Roy Mayhall, state Democratic chairman who lost to incumbent Justice Davis F. Stakely in the Supreme Court race, and incumbent Judge Rowan Bone, who bowed to Aubrey M. Cates Jr. in the contest for a place on the state court of appeals. Bone was a Folsom appointee to the bench.

Lister Hill Wins.

In the other major race, Senator Lister Hill defeated John Crommelin, a retired rear admiral, in a contest for nomination for United States Senator. An unofficial count of 1935 boxes gave Hill 154,435 votes to Crommelin's 76,534. Democratic nomination is tantamount to election in Alabama.

Representative Frank Boykin won his party's nomination for return to Congress from the First District and Representative George Grant had a substantial lead in his bid in the Second. Other members of the congressional delegation were unopposed.

Candidates leaning toward Stevenson were the largest single bloc among leaders in the race for Alabama's 52-member delegation to the Democratic national convention. The delegation, which will cast 26 votes, will go to Chicago unpledged.

The race shaped up this way: 12 of the leaders for 16 places from the state at large had told the Associated Press they favored Stevenson. Sixteen of the candidates for 36 district seats also said they preferred the 1952 party presidential candidate at this time.

Two of the leading candidates for delegate at large have expressed a liking for Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, and two other leaders said they had no choice.

Two of the leaders for district delegate had expressed liking for Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri as the party's presidential nominee.

District of Columbia Count Delayed; Stevenson Ahead.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—A slate of Democratic national convention delegates pledged to Adlai E. Stevenson took a wide early lead over one pledged to Senator Estes Kefauver in yesterday's District of Columbia primary. Whether they won for sure, and by how much, may not be known for days. The tabulation machinery all but broke down early today because of a complicated Democratic ballot and a lack of experienced poll workers.

On the Republican side, all delegate candidates were pledged to President Eisenhower. There was a factional contest for control of the local G.O.P. organization.

The names of Stevenson and Kefauver, the Tennessee Senator, were not on the ballot, but both had campaigned here for the district's six convention votes.

Nor was there any indication on the ballot as to which of 30 delegate candidates supported either aspirant. Voters were permitted, however, to take sample ballots into the booth with them.

The latest unofficial returns gave Mrs. Margaret Just Butcher, a leading Stevenson candidate, 4077 votes on the basis of incomplete returns from 60 of 69 precincts. Nine others pledged to Stevenson were ahead of the high Kefauver candidate, Joseph (Jiggs) Donohue, the Senator's national campaign manager.

"It looks as though we'll get soundly licked in the district," Donohue said. He also was trailing incumbent Melvin Hildreth, a Stevenson supporter, for national committeeman.

Washingtonians may not vote for President, they have no Representative in Congress, and have not voted for any local officials in 82 years. This inexperience proved too much for the new election machinery.

Election board chairman Newell W. Ellison, said early today it would require "at least three or four days" to complete the count, although only about 40,000 voters turned out.

Under a redevelopment authority, slums would be acquired and razed and the land sold at reduced cost to private redevelopers who would enjoy certain tax benefits for a specified number of years in return for limiting their profits.

While the jury reported vigorous action is in progress to correct evils at the Jefferson Barracks public housing project, it noted the continued existence of a definite fire hazard.

It recommended that propane gas tanks at the project be installed in accordance with recommendations of the Missouri Inspection Bureau, that storage of oil cans in buildings be barred, that locks be placed on the spigots of large oil tanks and that all accumulations of rubbish be hauled away.

Lendall Anderson, comptroller for the Housing Authority, was commended for improving the auditing methods of the authority.

In discussing the police department, the jury said: "We believe that an over-all affiliation in the county, either by deputization or contract for services by the various municipalities would be of great benefit to proper police administration and procedure; and we recommend that the unincorporated as well as incorporated areas take full advantage of the services offered by the county police department."

Recommendation on Building.

Declaring the county was now paying an annual rental of $43,580 for space outside the courthouse, the jury said a new building could be erected with bond issue funds, the principal of which could be retired in 25 years at an annual cost no greater than the present rent.

Expansion of the county's park holdings at Jefferson Barracks by acquisition of Government-owned land lying between Sylvan Springs Park and the Jefferson Barracks Historic Monument Park was recommended by the jury.

It suggested restoration of the barracks to its historic state in a manner comparable to that followed at Williamsburg, Va. When Hecker was asked where the money would come from for such an undertaking, he suggested a private donor might be found.

Dr. Curtis H. Lohr, superintendent of County Hospital, was complimented on his administration of the hospital and its development.

The jury recommended that succeeding juries check at the outset of their terms on steps taken to meet recommendations made by the previous jury, and, more specifically, that the next jury look into extension of the merit system, the possibility of higher salaries for county officials and methods of inducing qualified persons to serve on county boards and commissions.

Testimony of 111 witnesses was heard by the jury at 27 meetings, and 20 true bills were returned. The jury also returned one no-true bill.

MALLINCKRODT IN JOINT BID FOR URANIUM PLANT

Mallinckrodt Chemical Works of St. Louis and Climax Molybdenum Co. of New York have submitted to the Atomic Energy Commission a joint proposal to build and operate a privately-owned plant for refinement of uranium compounds, it was announced yesterday.

Climax would be the majority owner of a company to be formed if the bid is accepted. The size and proposed location of the plant were not announced.

CITY INFIRMARY PATIENT SUFFERS BURNS IN HOT BATH

Patrick Murphy, 77 years old, who has been a patient at City Infirmary, 5600 Arsenal street, for 10 years, was taken to City Hospital yesterday suffering from severe burns on the legs and hips.

Murphy said he was burned by hot water as an attendant was giving him a bath last Monday. He said he protested that it was too hot but the attendant would not turn it off and left him to get out of the tub as best he could.

The superintendent, Joseph Shank, said the employe was fired.

MOORE ORDERS JURY INQUIRY ON ELECTION MONEY

tion laws that may be attempted by reckless and designing men, either in the rigging of the election machinery or in the excessive and illegal use of money," he continued.

"Equally despicable are those who seek to thwart the will of the voters whether they be bribe-givers or bribe-takers, whether it be candidates who seek to buy their way into office or those who in violation of law try to coerce and intimidate the voters by threatening them with loss of their daily bread and meat.

"While these aggressions may not be forestalled, it is reassuring to remember that our federal laws are ample to take care of the detection and punishment of those who are guilty of violation of our election laws. Huge sums of money cannot well be passed without leaving tell-tale traces."

Country Endangered.

Judge Moore declared that no crime strikes more directly at the foundations of Government than one that prevents a free election, saying: "The country is endangered by anything that circumvents the honest choice of the electorate."

He recommended that the grand jury, composed of 22 men and one woman, begin its investigation at once, suggesting that the jurors use as a guide the procedure followed when another federal grand jury inquired into the contest for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Missouri in 1952. Judge Moore charged the grand jury at that time.

"When the primary and general election are over, it will not be too difficult a task to develop the facts and to bring the malefactors to justice," the court said.

He advised the grand jurors that their "inquisitorial powers" were very great, and that they could call as witnesses any officials or individuals and subpena any records involved in an election.

Two Juries in Session.

There will now be two federal grand juries in session at the same time. The new jury will permit the present grand jury to be available for prompt resumption of its investigation into tax scandals in the Truman Administration.

The tax investigation has been temporarily suspended pending trial of Matthew J. Connelly, T. Lamar Caudle and Harry I. Schwimmer, all scheduled to appear Monday in United States District Court here on charges of conspiring to defraud the Government.

Connelly was appointments secretary to President Truman and Caudle is former head of the Justice Department's tax division. Schwimmer, an attorney, represented a tax evader who avoided going to prison.

Names of the new jurors were suppressed on order of Judge Moore, who said he wanted to make certain they would not be "annoyed" at home. He told the jurors that they would undoubtedly remain in session into the September term of court to investigate federal law violations in the Eastern District of Missouri.

U.S. SETTLES TAX SUIT AGAINST CLAYTON FRITCHEY

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—U.S. Tax Court records yesterday showed a $4991 settlement has been reached on a $10,999 tax claim against Clayton W. Fritchey, deputy chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Fritchey, former editor of the New Orleans Item, brought the suit in the tax court challenging the claim.

In dispute was $22,000 which Fritchey received from Ralph Nicholson, former owner of the Item, in 1949 after Nicholson sold his Item stock for $1,000,000.

Fritchey advised the court that when he was employed as editor, Nicholson promised that if the association was successful and if circumstances permitted, he would at some future time sell Fritchey some stock in the newspaper.

The suit said these circumstances did not materialize and that Nicholson in July, 1949 sold all of his stock to a third party.

The suit asserted that because Nicholson considered Fritchey's handling of the newspaper had enhanced the value of the stock, he made Fritchey a gift of $22,000.

ATOM WASTE IS DANGEROUS

BLACKPOOL, England, May 2 (AP)—Atomic expert H. J. Dunster told a Royal Health Society conference that Britain has buried "hot" plutonium waste that cannot be handled safely for 600 years. In 2556, he said, tanks loaded with the waste can be dug up and dumped into the sea. Less dangerous waste now is taken 2000 miles out into the Atlantic and sunk in drums.

PRESIDENT ASKS G.O.P. TO SUPPORT FOREIGN AID BILL

Hopes Congress Will 'Come as Close as Possible' in Approving 4.9 Billion Request.

The New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 2—President Eisenhower told Republican leaders of Congress yesterday that he hoped Congress would "come as close as possible" to approving the Administration's request for $4,900,000,000 for foreign aid.

Senator William F. Knowland of California, passed the President's words at the weekly White House leadership conference on to the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

He added that he hoped the House of Representatives would act promptly on the Administration's foreign aid bill while it is going through the mill of Senate hearings.

This appeared to be precisely the intention of Representative James P. Richards (Dem.), Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, in so far as his committee was concerned.

Bill Coming Out Soon.

As sequel to Monday's conference between President Eisenhower and heads of House and Senate Committees on Foreign Affairs, he said he was "going ahead and bring this bill out as soon as possible."

The talk with the President, he said, had convinced him that the Administration was "going to bat on this bill." Nonetheless he hoped that the President and Secretary Dulles would follow up with "a very strong statement on this particular bill."

Some members of the House committees had previously expressed fear that if they went along in large measure with the Administration's foreign aid request they might later be embarrassed by Administration acquiescence to Senate pressure for modifications.

Richards declined to hazard a guess as to how close the House committee would come to approving the amount of aid requested by the President.

Warning by George.

Senator, Walter F. George (Dem.), Georgia, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, warned that in spite of the "wide area of agreement" reached at the White House meeting the Administration should expect cuts in its request.

Richards and George are planning some private consultations—not to set a figure for the aid bill—but to develop the meeting of minds that resulted from their talk with the President.

CALIFORNIA'S FOLSOM DAM TO BE CHRISTENED SATURDAY

FOLSOM, Calif., May 2 (AP)—Folsom dam—the towering concrete sentinel credited with keeping Sacramento dry last winter—gets its official christening Saturday.

Formal dedication of the 340-foot high structure built by the Federal Government across the American river 20 miles east of Sacramento is expected to draw 100,000 spectators.

Billed by Army Engineers as the ninth or tenth largest storage dam in the world, Folsom impounds a lake 14 miles. Its concrete parapet measures 1100 feet across.

Construction of the $110,000,000 flood control, water conservation and power project was begun in 1948.

HUNGARIAN BOSS, RUMORED ON WAY OUT, STILL IN FAVOR

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—Hungary's Communist party boss Matyas Rakosi got a byline today in Pravda. There have been rumors that he would fall in the current anti-Stalin campaign.

The Moscow radio said Pravda, official organ of the Russian Communist party, carried an article by Rakosi entitled: "The Embodiment of Leninist Ideas."

Rakosi, long one of Stalin's stalwarts in the Soviet satellite bloc, praised decisions by the recent twentieth Communist party Congress in Moscow. The Congress began the attack on the cult of the individual under Stalin.

NEW FARM BILL CALLED UP FOR HOUSE DEBATE

G.O.P. Efforts to Add Advance Payments to Soil Bank Plan May Stir Fight.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The House called up for debate today a new farm bill which its Democratic sponsors contend should satisfy President Eisenhower and not invite another veto.

Its main provision is Mr. Eisenhower's $1,200,000,000 soil bank program—but without authority he requested to pay as much as $500,000,000 this year to farmers who agree to withdraw surplus-producing acres from cash crops in 1957.

Republican efforts to add advance payment authority shaped up as the issue likely to touch off a new partisan floor fight. They planned to propose several changes as well.

On lesser points of difference, compromises were expected to be offered which could send to the Senate tomorrow night this latest of a series of farm measures this session.

Cooley's Comment.

Chairman Harold Cooley, (Dem.), North Carolina, of the House Agriculture Committee called the soil bank advance payment "a bad thing." He said "the Republicans are going to be accused of buying the farm vote in November" if they insist on it.

Republican leaders, however, were planning to offer a simple soil bank measure with advance payment authority as a substitute for the Democratic-backed bill.

This would eliminate higher price support provisions in the Democratic bill which are popular with many farm belt members of both parties. Thus the outcome of such a move was in doubt.

Mr. Eisenhower vetoed a previous catch-all farm bill two weeks ago, and the new one sent to the House dropped provisions he singled out as most objectionable. These included higher, rigid price supports for basic crops, a dual system for figuring parity and two-price plans for wheat and rice.

G.O.P. Strategy Mapped.

Republican strategy was worked out at a meeting of the G.O.P. leaders and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson with Mr. Eisenhower yesterday.

Representative Charles Halleck of Indiana, House floor leader for the Republicans, reported that it was agreed at the White House conference to press for the prepayment amendment and several other changes.

Halleck said the House G.O.P. leadership wants at least two other changes.

For one thing, he told reporters, it wants to get away from language in the bill which might be interpreted as nullifying Benson's recent decision to support "non-compliance corn in commercial areas" at $1.25 a bushel this year. Non-compliance corn is that grown without regard to acreage allotments.

The other amendment, Halleck said, deals with a section of the bill calling for mandatory price supports for feed grains.

FAMILY OF BRIDE-TO-BE GETS NEW THREATS AFTER BOMBING

DAYTON, O., May 2 (AP)—The family of a girl whose wedding was postponed when a bomb injured the bridegroom-to-be has received frequent threatening telephone calls.

Police are guarding the home of the girl's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Richard A. Pfarrer in suburban Kettering.

Their daughter, Sarah Louise, was to have married Andrew Donald Dixon last Saturday. Several hours before the scheduled ceremony a package Dixon thought was a wedding gift blew up in his face, sending him to the hospital.

Monday night the Pfarrer telephone rang every hour, and yesterday there were calls every three or four minutes, said Mrs. Pfarrer. Night callers threatened "another bombing" she told police.

Capt. Carl Coburn of the Montgomery county sheriff's office said he believed the phone calls were the work of cranks.

FT. LEONARD WOOD TO GET 639 FAMILY HOUSING UNITS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2—The Department of Defense has approved construction of 639 units of family housing at Fort Leonard Wood in Missouri, Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Dem.), Missouri, announced today.

He said the project would help to "alleviate a long-standing serious housing shortage" at the base, which was recently made a permanent Army installation. Plans for another large housing project at the base are in preparation.

The two- and three-bedroom houses will be built by private contractors at an average cost of $13,500 each, a spokesman for Hennings said. Competitive bids will be sought under the Capehart amendment to the Housing Act, he added.

SNACK BAR AT EAST BERLIN END OF 'WIRETAP' TUNNEL

BERLIN, May 2 (AP) — The Communists are opening a snack bar for visitors at the East Berlin end of a tunnel they accuse the United States Army of digging to wiretap Soviet communications.

The East German interior ministry also ordered a large tent put up to show visitors a special film on the tunnel. In addition, the ministry ordered a special booklet published about it.

The Soviet command on April 23 charged that "American military authorities" dug the 1650-foot tunnel from the American sector into East Berlin and set up an elaborate wiretapping installation.

WEEKS ASSAILS 'SMEAR' AT U.S. BUSINESS AIDS

Subcommittee Inspired by Hate and Spite, He Says — Warning on Inflation.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks today described as a "smear" inspired by those "who hate private enterprise" a Democratic - controlled House subcommittee's criticism of business men appointed to advise government departments without pay.

Weeks replied, in an address prepared for the United States Chamber of Commerce, to a report issued Sunday by the Democratic majority of a House Judiciary subcommittee headed by Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem.), New York.

That report said Weeks has permitted "WOC" (without compensation) officials to become "an instrument for inside influence and the advancement of special interests" in the department of Commerce. The Republican minority of the subcommittee sharply dissented.

Weeks said the nation is "fortunate" to have the services of such business man-aids, who remain on their industry payrolls while serving in the mobilization preparedness program.

"Surely these experts and technicians deserve well of this country," Weeks said. "But what do they get from some circles?

Reckless Course.

"It shocks anyone aware of the hazards of these times and anyone with a sense of fair play to find the chairman of a House investigating committee pouring out misrepresentations about WOCs and advocating a reckless course of action which could deprive the defense program of these urgently needed industrial specialists.

"I don't believe the American people want the national defense effort made more difficult just to gratify the spite of those—in or out of government—who hate private enterprise and who always are ready to smear any business man anywhere in government.

"I assure you that our mission in the economic field is to preserve private enterprise. The way to preserve it is to preserve sound government.

"We as a nation are not going to preserve private enterprise if local, state and national governments are run by people who misunderstand private enterprise, mistrust private enterprise, and mistreat private enterprise.

"You cannot raise sheep in a den of wolves."

There was no immediate reply from the subcommittee. Besides Celler, its Democratic members are Representatives Peter W. Rodino Jr. of New Jersey, Byron G. Rogers of Colorado and James M. Quigley of Pennsylvania. The Republican minority is comprised of Representatives Kenneth Keating of New York, William M. McCulloch of Ohio and Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

Inflation Warning.

Board chairman Ray D. Murphy of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States said today "typical storm signals of inflation are flying."

Urging government action to hold down rising prices, Murphy suggested in an address that Congress should arm the Federal Reserve Board with standby power to control consumer installment credit and home mortgage terms.

"We are of course a rapidly growing country, but the performance in 1955 represented more than normal growth," he said. "It was achieved by going heavily into debt."

He said mortgage debt increased by 15 per cent and consumer debt by 20 per cent last year while total spending exceeded the amassing of new capital by nearly three billion dollars.

He praised what he termed efforts by the Treasury to keep federal monetary operations non-inflationary as well as the "vigilance and courage" of the Federal Reserve in five times raising the interest rate at which banks borrow from the reserve system, to discourage inflationary credit expansion.

"If the Reserve System is granted standby powers, to use as they deem necessary, they will be able to cope with any future serious expansion in credit," he said.

Farm Problem Discussed.

At a session yesterday, two farm economists took exception to contentions of some political and agricultural leaders that farm price declines threaten to bring on a general depression.

President Karl Brandt of the American Farm Economic Association said strengthening farmland prices provide reassuring evidence of the "basic soundness" of commercial agriculture.

Similarly D. Howard Doane, chairman of the board of the Doane Agricultural Service of St. Louis, said current farm price levels, if stabilized, would provide "modest returns" to agriculture.

Pleas for broader farm aid programs have been advanced in Congress on the ground that declining farm prices threaten to undermine the whole economy.

Brandt, who also is associate director of the food research institute at Stanford University, said the most reassuring of all signs is the "renewed rise in the value of farm real estate after a slight decline in 1953 and 1954." He said farm foreclosures are at a very low level.

Doane said it was the recent instability of farm prices—rather than their current levels—that caused the most problems for farmers. Once prices become stabilized, it is possible, he said, for commercial farmers to adjust their operations to a point where they can make profitable returns.

VA TRYING TO SPEED WORK AT BARRACKS HOSPITAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2—The Veterans' Administration said today it was making "every effort" to speed up remodeling and construction of an addition to Jefferson Barracks Veterans' hospital, to provide 278 new beds for psychiatric patients.

In a letter to Representative Frank M. Karsten (Dem.) St. Louis, Assistant VA Administrator Raleigh M. Edgar said "considerable replacements in the plumbing and sewer systems" of some buildings at the hospital had delayed the work.

Originally, the new addition was scheduled to be completed late this year or early in 1957 but the completion date has been postponed to September 1957. Karsten has pointed out that there are now more than 400 veterans on the waiting list for admission.

REDS 'BOMBARD' FORMOSA 11 HOURS A DAY WITH RADIO

TAIPEI, Formosa, May 2 (UP)—Chinese Nationalist government sources said today the Communists have started a saturation propaganda campaign against Formosa in an effort to undermine Nationalist morale.

They said eight powerful propaganda radio stations along the Red-held China coast were blasting away at this fortress island 11 hours a day, and 23 other Red stations can be heard at various times.

Government sources said the Red campaign had two purposes — to persuade Chinese anti-Communists to "come home, all is forgiven" and to stir up trouble among Formosa's native population.

The Red "big lie" technique is being used to full effect on illiterate Formosans, who are even being told that the drouth now parching Formosa was "directly engineered by the Americans and the Nationalists."

MONTGOMERY ASKS COURT TO ORDER BUS SEGREGATION

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 2 (AP)—Expressing fear of "race riots" and other violence, Montgomery officials have gone into court in an effort to force city busses to comply with segregation laws.

The privately operated bus company, Montgomery City Lines, announced a week ago, after the United States Supreme Court barred segregation on intrastate busses, that drivers would no longer enforce separate seating arrangements for white and Negro passengers.

There have been no reports of actual integration, however, because most Negroes are still boycotting the busses and those who are riding have stayed in the rear of the busses where they always sat.

A hearing on the city's injunction is set for tomorrow before Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones.

Another complaint challenging constitutionality of city and state bus segregation laws and filed by Negroes is pending in United States district court. It will be heard May 11.

COLOR TV SET SALES LAGGING, SURVEY SHOWS

NEW YORK, May 2 (UP)—Color television sets have yet to find their way out of the limbo of diamond-studded matchboxes and poodle-dog mink coats.

A United Press spot check found that the industry is exuding confidence but is playing its cards close to its vest. It is serving up predictions thick and fast on expected sales this year, ranging anywhere from 150,000 to 500,000 sets, but has dropped a curtain over actual figures of sales.

A spokesman for one large manufacturer estimated that the industry had sold "a couple of thousand" color sets in the first quarter of this year. An executive of the world's biggest department store, when asked how many color TV sets the store had moved this year replied, "giving us the benefit of the doubt, six."

The president of one major TV maker said sales of color sets will have to crowd the 1,000,000 mark before the public can buy one for anything approaching $300. Price tags now range from about $700 up. Some industry insiders predict that as much as $100 might be lopped off these prices by the end of this year.

The customer can pay as little as $10 down and $2.50 a week for the washer, Beacon said.

Unemployment Lasts Longer For Older Workers, U.S. Finds

Labor Department Begins Studies About Jobless in Order to Deal More Effectively With Problem.

The New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 2—The effect of age on duration of unemployment was brought out clearly yesterday in a new series of studies by the Labor Department and state employment security agencies.

The number of workers 65 and over who had been unemployed more than 14 weeks was almost the same as those who had been unemployed four weeks or less, while for workers under 25 the number of unemployed more than 14 weeks was less than one fifth the number unemployed four weeks or less.

Studies of the characteristics of the insured unemployed have been under way for a year. The first report made public yesterday dealt with February data. Reports will be made monthly.

Reason for Studies.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said that "in order to deal more effectively with unemployment, we need to know more about those who have lost their jobs.

"These new reports represent a great step forward in our knowledge about unemployment, and are an important part of President Eisenhower's drive to improve and expand the economic information available to Government and the public."

The initial study showed that the average duration of insured unemployment was 7.4 weeks. About 4 out of 10 had been unemployed four weeks or less and about 1 out of 10 for more than 14 weeks.

Among workers 65 years and over, however, 1 out of every 4 had been unemployed more than 14 weeks. Women tended to be unemployed longer than men.

Other Facts Reported.

Other facts from the first report:

Nearly one third of the insured unemployed were unskilled, although these workers constitute less than one tenth of total non-farm employment.

Clerical and sales workers, who represent about 30 per cent of the non-farm employment, accounted for only 10 per cent of the insured unemployed.

Three out of 4 of the unemployed were men, which is somewhat higher than the ratio of men to women in non-farm employment as a whole. About 3 out of 4 unemployed men and 3 out of 4 unemployed women were married.

About two fifths of the insured unemployed were over 44 years of age, compared with about one third in non-farm employment. Unemployed men tended to be older than unemployed women.

The construction industry had the highest rate of unemployment—15 per cent of the total number covered by unemployment insurance—because of the usual winter slowdown in building. Unemployment was also seasonably high among workers from the related lumber and wood products industry where the rate was about 19 per cent.

'FORCE' IS BEST SOLUTION, POLISH EXILE LEADER SAYS

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Wladislaw Anders, commander of the Polish Forces in exile in World War II, says "force" would be the best solution to East-West problems.

Anders arrived yesterday aboard the British liner Queen Elizabeth for a two-month tour of the United States.

Newsmen asked him whether he thought force would be necessary to solve East-West differences.

"I think it would be the best solution, not only for Poland, out for the United States," Anders replied. He said "Russia only has respect for force."

BRITISH, AMERICAN EXPERTS TO SEE U.S. ATOMIC PLANTS

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced today that the top atomic experts of Britain and the United States will visit three United States atomic installations next week.

Sir Edwin Plowden, chairman of the United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority is making the tour with AEC chairman Lewis L. Strauss.

They will visit next Monday the 60,000-kilowatt atomic power plant now under construction at Shippingport, Pa.

An inspection of the Argonne National Laboratory at Lemont, Ill., is on the schedule for Tuesday, followed by a visit Wednesday and Thursday to the laboratory and other facilities at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

AEC said the tour was arranged under terms of the United States-British agreement for co-operation in peaceful uses of atomic energy.

BRAZILIAN VICE PRESIDENT CALLS ON EISENHOWER

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Brazilian Vice President Joao Goulart today called on President Eisenhower and delivered a "personal letter" from Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek.

Goulart told reporters afterward the letter reaffirmed friendship and solidarity between the American and Brazilian people. Goulart is in this country on an official visit.

JAILED TO SERVE $849 IN AUTO FINES AT $1.50 PER DAY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 2 (UP)—Barney Lane, 21 years old, of Springfield, was jailed yesterday after being fined $849 for a series of traffic violations.

Unpaid fines on previous convictions added up to $99, and one traffic charge remained to be disposed of.

Lane was jailed to serve out the fines at the rate of $1.50 a day, sentenced to three months in jail for malicious destruction of property, and ordered to pay for damages to a squad car police said he backed into while attempting to avoid arrest.

The motorist was charged with leaving the scene of an accident, disorderly conduct, speeding, reckless driving and the property charge.

The charges were brought after police attempted to stop Lane when they saw him speeding.

mer president, St. Louis League of Women Voters; George L. Stemmler, former city counselor; William A. Webb, labor leader, and Frank L. G. Weiss, hardware store owner.

"I know most of these candidates personally, as well as many of the citizen committee members who recommended them," Skaggs said. "They are all outstanding people and worthy of the confidence and support of the voters of St. Louis."

The G.O.P. leader was sharply critical of City Treasurer John J. Dwyer, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, and Sheriff Martin L. Tozer, declaring they want to defeat the citizen slate so they can control the drafting of a new charter.

"The present charter fight," he said, "is another example of the efforts of the Democratic city machine to block good government and progress in our city. It fought adoption of the new charter in 1950, and has blocked many highway and improvement projects."

Skaggs, a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff, declared St. Louis needs a new charter to provide more efficient and economical municipal government. He said taxpayers will receive a much greater return on their taxes if the city government is modernized and simplified.

Most Democratic ward leaders, and many of the Republican, are expected to support a majority of the freeholder candidates picked by labor's Committee on Political Education. That slate includes only four of the citizen candidates. It also includes five candidates with close Democratic political ties and three Republicans who are connected with G.O.P. ward organizations.

Broussard Over Krah.

It is the same as the C.O.P.E. slate, with one exception. Former Alderman Krah is replaced on the Nineteenth Ward Democratic slate by Broussard. Both Krah and Broussard are also indorsed by the citizens' committee.

Tom K. Smith, chairman of the citizens' group, renewed today its request for volunteer poll workers to help elect its list of candidates. Those willing to distribute the citizens sample ballots at the polls for a few hours on election day were asked to telephone CEntral 1-9999.

Expressing surprise at the determined political opposition to the citizens' independent slate, Smith said:

"It is apparent that some persons are not willing to trust the writing of a new charter to a group of independent citizens who have no axe to grind and no preconceived or ready-made opinions as to the charter needs of our city."

45 Candidates on Ballot.

The citizens' chairman said it was essential that the committee have volunteer workers to distribute ballots, so that the voters will know the names of the 13 candidates it is supporting. The names of 45 candidates will be on the ballot.

The Rev. Arnold A. Wessler, editor of the St. Louis Lutheran and a member of the citizens' executive committee, urged support of the citizens' slate, in letters sent yesterday to pastors of Lutheran churches in the city.

The Rev. Mr. Wessler asserted these candidates "will approach their task with no purpose but to serve the common good."

LEBANON BACKS SYRIAN DELAY ON CEASE-FIRE

Gaza strip, one of the touchiest frontier regions.

An Israeli spokesman announced, meanwhile, that an Egyptian-chartered Dutch plane and its crew, forced down by Israeli aircraft yesterday, would be released late today and allowed to proceed to Cairo.

The KLM Dakota was forced to land yesterday at Israel's Lydda airport. A military spokesman said the plane was spotted flying over a desert canyon where Israel is prospecting for minerals. He said five Dutchmen and an Egyptian air force photographer aboard the craft were held at Lydda.

Reliable sources said Israel complained to the U.N. Mixed Armistice Commission that the incident was a violation of Israeli air space.

Statement Changed.

An Egyptian government spokesman in Cairo at first said the plane was flying over Egypt's Sinai zone when intercepted. Later the Egyptian information department without explanation asked that the previous statement be withheld and issued the following communique:

"A civil plane chartered by the Egyptian government for survey work landed at Lydda airport for unknown reasons."

Minor incidents were reported on Israel's frontiers. An Israeli spokesman said infiltrators from Jordan tried to enter a collective settlement in the Jordan river valley about midnight Monday but were routed in an exchange of fire with watchmen at the settlement.

The Israeli spokesman said an Israeli patrol came under automatic weapons fire from Syrian territory near Ein Gev, on the eastern shores of the Sea of Galilee. The Israeli unit suffered no casualties, the spokesman said.

RICHARD WEBSTER DENIES FARM BELT IS 'REVOLTING'

Richard M. Webster of Carthago, Mo., unopposed candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, said here last night, "If the Democrats expect a November victory by virtue of an anti-Eisenhower farm vote they are going to be in for a big surprise."

He spoke at a dinner meeting of the Republican city committee, at the York Hotel.

"Those who speak of a revolt in the farm belt overlook the fact that the American farmer has the ability to think," Webster said. "The average farmer is aware that his present position is the result of an ever-increasing surplus of basic commodities."

Referring to Mr. Eisenhower's veto of a farm bill, he said: "If the average Democratic political prophet would take the time to talk to the farmer, he would find that the average farmer feels that the President demonstrated his usual high integrity in his unwillingness to submit to political pressue."

How to find
Peace beyond price

Material living is full of promises that fade. The blossom is bright but the fruit is uncertain or unsatisfying. Many feel this. Searching for a satisfying answer to life's meaning and purpose, thousands have found it in Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.

Thoughtful study of this book brings a peace beyond price. It gives any honest seeker spiritual understanding—"an intelligent consciousness of the ever-presence of an infinite God who is only good."

The above quotation is from the final chapter "Fruitage," in Science and Health, consisting of one hundred pages of unsolicited authenticated testimonies from those who have been helped and healed by reading it alone.

Science and Health may be read, borrowed, or purchased at any Christian Science Reading Room, or send $3 and a copy will be mailed postpaid.

U.N. UNIT URGES CRACKDOWN ON FORCED LABOR

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 2 (AP)—The United Nations economic and Social Council, adopted yesterday a four-power resolution calling on the International Labor Organization to crack down on forced labor, especially on the large-scale type in Communist countries where slave labor is a punishment for political sins.

The resolution was passed 13-to-2 (Russia and Czechoslovakia dissenting) after the council beat down decisively Soviet amendments intended to weaken the language. Ecuador, France, Netherlands and Britain joined in sponsoring the resolution. Egypt, Yugoslavia and Indonesia abstained in the voting.

The resolution as adopted condemns all forms of forced labor wherever they exist, "in particular all systems of forced labor which are employed as a means of political coercion or punishment for holding or expressing political views, and which are on such a scale as to constitute an important element in the economy of a given country."

MAJ. GEN. SHOUP NAMED TO HEAD MARINE TRAINING

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—A top combat commander and Medal of Honor winner, Maj. Gen. David M. Shoup, today was handed the job of supervising Marine Corps recruit training. The new post was set up as an aftermath of the drowning of six trainees on a night disciplinary march at Parris Island, S.C., last month.

The appointment of Shoup was a switch in plans. Corps public information officers said yesterday that the new Job—that of inspector general for recruit training—would be given to Maj. Gen. Edward Snedeker. Today's announcement said Snedecker would remain in his present post, assistant chief of staff for operations.

The Marines' commandant, Gen. Randolph McC. Pate, in giving an congressional committee a detailed account of the Parris Island incident yesterday, said he was immediately taking steps to tighten supervision over recruit training.

This, he said, would be accomplished by appointing an inspector general for recruit training and by placing a brigadier general in charge of training at each of the Corps' two recruit depots—at Parris Island and at San Diego, Calif. Additional training officers also will be assigned to each depot.

Admits Corps 'Failure.'

Pate said these moves were necessary to overcome what he called "failure" by the Corps in giving some drill sergeants more authority than they were qualified to exercise.

Shoup won both the Medal of Honor and the British Distinguished Service Order for heroism as a regimental commander on Tarawa in the Pacific in World War II. He was wounded in that bitter 1943 island campaign and also in earlier action on New Georgia Island.

Shoup entered the Marines in 1926. He commanded the basic school at Quantico, Va., from 1950 to 1952, when he was assigned to headquarters as assistant fiscal director. He became director nearly three years ago, a job he will leave for his new post.

Top Pentagon officials expressed confidence that the Corps has taken the necessary steps to prevent any more incidents like that at Parris Island.

Pate recommended that McKeon be court-martialed on four charges including manslaughter and "oppression" of recruits. Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas indorsed the court-martial.

Commander Removed.

Pate also removed Maj. Gen. J. C. Burger as commanding general of Parris Island and transferred several other officers. Burger will trade jobs with Maj. Gen. Homer L. Litzenberg, commander of Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Representative Paul Cunningham (Rep.), Iowa, said he was not satisfied with Pate's explanation about the part played by McKeon's superior officers.

Cunningham said if McKeon rates a manslaughter charge, then maybe "they do, too, at least the one immediately over him."

"I don't like to see a noncom get all the blame," he said in an interview. "They're punishing one man, maybe others need punishing too."

Cunningham said he wanted a fuller explanation of where the officers were on that fateful Sunday night, what responsibility they bore for the sergeant's actions and why they should not share more of the blame. He said if the Marine Corps doesn't volunteer the answers, he will demand them when Pate reports later on his shake-up of Marine training.

Chairman Carl Vinson (Dem.), Georgia, of the Armed Services Committee said the whole matter will "continue to be wide open until Congress is thoroughly satisfied" that brutalities and degrading practices are eliminated from the Marine Corps.

Representative Robert C. Byrd (Dem.), West Virginia said, "Liquor should be removed entirely from all military bases." He said Pate had assured him of a crackdown on Marine regulations covering drinking.

Senator Defends Training.

Meanwhile, Senator Leverett Saltonstall (Rep.), Massachusetts, father of a Marine sergeant killed in combat in World War II defended the "rigorous training" of Marine recruits.

"As the father of a United States Marine who went through the rigorous training at Parris Island," he said in a statement, "I am aware of the severity of that training, but I know also how much it helps those young men who complete that training to do their duty as Marines in peace and war. My boy completed that training and went on to become a sergeant in the Corps. He always felt that his Parris Island experience was a tremendous asset to him."

PLEA FOR SAFETY ON ROADS WARNS OF ACTION BY U.S.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., May 2 (AP)—A White House representative yesterday urged all citizens to combat the traffic accident problem and keep the Federal Government from stepping in to do the job.

Howard Pyle, deputy assistant to President Eisenhower, said "you can already hear the clamor for federal action to cope" with the situation.

In a talk at the eastern regional conference of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety, Pyle said that unless there is improvement, "somebody is going to get up in Congress . . . and introduce a bill to move the Government in on this job."

"Please help us to keep that from happening," said Pyle, former Governor of Arizona. "The last thing on earth we want is federal responsibility for the job of policing the public roads of America."

The current problem of highway safety "has all the ingredients that have brought the Federal Government into innumerable other programs at the state level," he said.

WOMAN POSING AS PATIENT PICKS POCKET OF DOCTOR

MARION, Ill. (UP)—A physician was victimized Monday by a woman pickpocket who masqueraded as a patient.

A well-dressed woman entered the office of Dr. H. L. Summers and complained of a severe headache. When Summers recommended she go home and take sedatives, she threw herself at him.

After a struggle, the doctor pushed her away and she said, "Well, if you won't give me any medicine, I'll go." She did, taking along $75 that had been in Summers' pocket.

ROMANIA OFFERS TO NEGOTIATE ON CLAIMS BY U.S.

Wants Talks on War Damages and Nationalized Property Linked to Trade Ties.

The New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 2—Romania has offered to negotiate a settlement of United States claims for war damages and property nationalized by the Communist government.

Nearly half of the claims, estimated at $88,000,000 have been filed by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and other United States companies that had large stakes in the Ploesti oil fields.

The Romanians, in a note delivered a month ago, asked that talks on compensation be linked with others on improving United States-Romanian trade relations and on Romanian assets that have been seized by the United States. The Romanian's asked the United States to send a delegation to Bucharest.

The Justice Department announced last March 12 that it had seized $13,000,000 worth of Romanian gold bullion that had been "frozen" in this country since 1943. The gold was seized as a partial settlement of United States' claims.

Reply Prepared.

State Department officials said the United States reply to the Romanian note had been prepared but not yet delivered.

The cordial tone of President Eisenhower's remarks to the new Romanian minister, Silviu Drucan, when he submitted his credentials Monday, suggested, however, that the United States response might be favorable.

In the letter he presented to the President, Drucan said that "the government and people of Romania cherish a sentiment of friendship for the American people are are wholeheartedly ready to participate in a mutual effort to strengthen the relations between the People's Republic of Romania and the United States in the interests of friendly co-existence and understanding among the peoples of the world."

President Eisenhower replied that he was pleased to note the Romanian desire to strengthen friendship and understanding. He said the American people reciprocated this.

"In this spirit," he concluded, "the government of the United States has constantly supported measures for improving relations with Romania and with all countries in the interests of peace and freedom."

Walt Whitman Stamp.

Drucan's remarks to the President and the Romanian offer to negotiate compensation appear to part of a systematic effort by the Balkan communist government to establish friendlier relations with the United States.

The Romanian government has recently taken these steps:

It has issued exit visas to ten persons who claim United States citizenship disputed by Romanian authorities, and it has indicated that it is studying the cases of other persons asserting they are United States citizens.

It has invited the United States minister in Bucharest, Robert Thayer, to visit a number of factories and other points of interest and has indicated that it is studying relaxation of restrictions on United States diplomats.

It has, according to Romanian legation officials, invited a number of United States writers, musicians and sports teams to visit Romania.

AFL-CIO CHIEFS CALL ON BECK TO DEFEND ACTIONS

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2—Leaders of the new AFL-CIO, the biggest labor organization in the world, are determined to make the merger work.

This was indicated yesterday when the AFL-CIO executive council called on Dave Beck, head of the Teamsters, largest union in the country, to appear and defend his union on ethical and moral principles pertaining to trade unionism.

The council also rebuked its own building and construction trades department for a recent resolution calling for delay in merging state and local bodies, which have no say over jurisdictional disputes.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, observed that he "couldn't understand" why the building and construction trades department adopted the resolution, which means nothing as far as trade union practices are concerned.

"I have a suspicion," Meany said, "that the Teamsters pushed the situation."

An immediate technical difficulty with the Teamsters was resolved yesterday when the executive council got an official letter that a pact with the longshoremen was ended. The longshoremen's union was kicked out of the old AFL at a meeting in St. Louis in 1953 because of alleged gangster domination. The longshoremen had previously announced cancellation of the agreement.

In repudiating the pact under fire the Teamsters were represented by the Central States Conference, one of several which are part of the international union but whose voting records indicate they are controlled by Beck and James R. Hoffa, his aid, who has become known as the administrative head of the Teamsters. Harold J. Gibbons of St. Louis is secretary of the conference.

"So far as the Teamsters' pact with the ILA (Longshoremen) is concerned, it's out," said Meany. "We accept that. But there still remains the principle involved. It certainly can't be disregarded."

Meany said the "principle" in question was this: "Can a union, a member of the AFL-CIO, have a working alliance, or an organizing alliance, with a union outside the AFL-CIO that could work to the detriment of a third union, a member of the AFL-CIO?"

The AFL-CIO executive council, which includes representatives of building trades, stated that the departmental resolution was "a direct violation of the letter and spirit of the AFL-CIO merger agreement." All but five of the council members were present. Beck was one of those absent.

Subjects before the council meeting next month may include complaints of brewery workers that they have been raided by the Teamsters. There also may be discussion of a pact between the Teamsters and the independent Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers. That union was expelled from the old CIO because of alleged Communist domination.

At the present time Teamster activities are in the conversational stage as far as the executive council is concerned, but Meany said "the door is open to anything any member of the council wants to bring up." There have been few councilmen whose unions have not been at odds with the Teamsters.

5 POWERS STUDY CURB ON NUCLEAR ARMS STOCKPILE

Concept Originally Proposed by Eisenhower — 84th Session Held Without Accord.

LONDON, May 2 (UP)—The Soviet Union and the West today discussed the possibility of limiting nuclear weapon stockpiles, a concept originally proposed by President Eisenhower.

The discussion came about at the eighty-fourth meeting of the United Nations Subcommittee on Disarmament among representatives of Russia, the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

However, authoritative sources cautioned that, while there was discussion, no agreement was in sight.

But they added that "the center and most important focus of attention at the present time" is exploration of the possible manner in which future production of fissionable material might be brought under peaceful control rather than being used to build more nuclear weapons.

This move would put a ceiling on existing stockpiles of nuclear weapons.

The idea originally was proposed in President Eisenhower's letter to Soviet Premier Bulganin last March 5. It also was included in the American working paper put before the present disarmament conference a month ago.

Harold Stassen, United States delegate to the meeting, said yesterday that unless the Russions suddenly change their position it appeared the conference would end soon.

Russia has moved closer to the Western idea of a ground control system to supervise disarmament but has refused to include air inspection. The West regards both controls as essential.

CUBAN CONGRESS APPROVES CURB OF CIVIL LIBERTIES

HAVANA, May 2 (AP)—Both houses of Cuba's congress gave their approval last night to the suspension of civil liberties ordered by the government after Sunday's unsuccessful revolt.

The measure, which bars public meetings and puts Cuba's press and radio under censorship for 45 days, was approved by the Senate 34 to 10 and by the House 109 to 10.

The country was reported calm today.

Urging approval of the already-instituted suspension decree, Prime Minister Jorge Garcia Montes told the lawmakers the action was necessary because "blood was shed and the public order was upset" in the brief rebellion.

Fifteen rebels were killed and four soldiers wounded in the fighting at Matanzas, 60 miles east of Havana.

Garcia Montes charged the uprising was "inspired" by former President Carlos Prio Socarras and Fidel Castro. Prio Socarras, ousted by President Fulgencio Batista in a bloodless coup in 1952, was arrested Sunday and freed the next day.

Sunken Tin Treasure Hunt.

KUALA LUMPUR, May 2 (AP)—A tin treasure hunt is being considered by the Malayan War Damage Commission. The metal worth many millions of dollars is in the holds of Japanese cargo ships sunk between Malaya and Japan in World War II. Some estimates place the total as high as 10,000 tons—worth about $2000 per ton.

DENTIST'S DRILLS, MIRRORS USED ON SUBMARINE PIPES

GROTON, Conn., May 2 (AP)—They're not dentists, and it wouldn't do them any good to say "open wider, please," but certain key workmen on atomic submarines use dentists' drills and mirrors. They are shipyard chippers usually pictured as beefy individuals swinging a heavy hammer to cut apart sheets of welded steel.

You have to be a little more delicate, however, on the precision job of removing excressences or bumps left by the welders who themselves operate with surgical precision in joining the piping of craft such as the Nautilus and Seawolf, atomic submarines.

For that work, the chipper uses a drill identical with that employed by a dentist. And a dentist's mirror comes in handy when the work has to be done on the far side of a pipe.

BUTTER BEING WITHDRAWN FROM FOREIGN AID PROGRAM

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department has announced that government-owned butter is being withdrawn from the foreign donation program because of limited supplies.

It said domestic donations, which have priority under law, and commercial export sales are expected to use the butter to be acquired under the Government's price support program during the current marketing year. Principal outlets for butter under the domestic donations programs are the school lunch program and public relief agencies.

In July, 1954, the department owned record stocks of 466,000,000 pounds of butter. But by last week the stocks had been reduced to 6,200,000 pounds. The bulk of the butter was donated for welfare use at home and abroad.

AIR FARE INQUIRY AGAIN REQUESTED BY COMPTROLLER

'Watchdog' Has Doubt Whether C.A.B. Was Justified in Approving 1952 Boost.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UP)—Comptroller General Joseph Campbell said today there is "serious doubt" whether the Civil Aeronautics Board was justified in letting the airlines boost their passenger fares in 1952.

He told a House anti-trust subcommittee that the board permitted the increase even though the lines had made a profit of 14.9 per cent on their investment the year before.

Campbell, Congress's "watchdog" on Government spending, renewed his plea for a full-scale C.A.B. investigation of current airline passenger fares to determine whether they are just.

Campbell said the airlines's rate of return was 12.4 per cent for 1950 and averaged 7.2 per cent from 1939 through 1951, including the loss years of 1946, 1947 and 1948.

"The board allowed the increase of $1 on one-way fares despite the most recent history of high earnings and despite the fact that most of the carriers had current earnings far in excess of the rate allowed in domestic mail rate increases," Campbell said.

The board authorized the increase despite recommendations by its staff that it be held up until an investigation could be made, Campbell said in a 7000-word statement.

The board did order an investigation at the time it permitted the rate increase, Campbell said. But in May 1953, he said, it dismissed the rate investigation because of what it called "a number of problems relating to fare structure and fare level which require further study."

Campbell said this 1953 staff study did not go into the adequacy of fares charged nor was there any attempt, he said, to relate fares to cost of service or rate of return on investment.

We are of the impression that the study ended short of completion because of an apparent lack of interest by the board and because of the pressure of other work in the organizational unit that was conducting the study," Campbell said.

He said there is "serious doubt" that the board was justified in authorizing the 1952 rate increase and that an "overall" rate study is essential.

GAINS IN MILITARY RESERVE REPORTED

New Six-Months Active Duty Program Spurs Enlistments.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The armed services told Congress today the slow-starting program to build up a trained 2,900,000-man reserve in five years was picking up speed.

Chairman Brooks (Dem.), Louisiana, of a House armed services subcommittee which called for the progress reports, commented, "we have reason to be proud of the progress which has been made."

He said he was especially with a pickup in enlistments under a plan inaugurated last October allowing youths to sign up for six months active duty followed by seven and one-half years in an actively drilling reserve unit.

Brooks said the 9770 enlistments under the six months program during the first quarter of this year represented an increase of 3696 over the preceding three months.

Assistant Secretary of the Army Hugh M. Milton II said that in his service alone 28,795 persons had enlisted in reserve programs since the new reserve act was passed last year. The six months plan, he said, attracted 18,952.

Milton said "the Army is greatly encouraged by the results to date," but "it is still far too early to hazard an estimate as to whether or not this voluntary system will produce the requirements for a truly ready reserve."

Assistant Secretary of Defense Carter L. Burgess suggested that "we would need until at least July to make an adequate assessment of the success of this program."

PLEADS GUILTY OF ROBBING BRANCH BANK OF $188,785

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—A horse trainer pleaded guilty today in United States District court of robbing the Port Chester branch of Country Trust Co. last March 2 of $188,785. He still faces a kidnaping charge.

Arthur L. Paisner pleaded before Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan, who set May 15 for sentencing. On the robbery charge, Paisner could receive 20 years in prison. A conviction on the kidnaping charge could mean the death penalty. Judge Noonan brought up the kidnaping charge in accepting Paisner's plea of guilty of robbery.

"I sincerely trust that the Government is not going to let this man avoid standing trial on the kidnap charge. It is a most serious charge," he said.

In the robbery Mrs. Mary Kostolos, a teller, of Port Chester, was kidnaped by two men as she was parking her car in her driveway before midnight of March 1. Police said Paisner drove her to the bank and forced her to open the bank door. He held her prisoner there until the arrival of two other employes at 8 a.m. One of the employes was forced to open the vault.

NATIONAL YARDS RECEIPTS HIGHEST SINCE APRIL 1924

April receipts of cattle, calves, hogs and sheep at National Stockyards (salable, through and direct stock) of 482,142 head were the largest for any April since 1924 and the third largest for any April in the history of the market dating back to 1873, the Producers Livestock Marketing Association reported today.

Actual salable receipts of 389,020 for the month were 30 per cent above those of April 1955 and the largest for any April since 1940, the earliest year of record for such consignments.

Salable receipts for April 1956 and for the corresponding moth last year are: Cattle, 84,907 and 66,725; calves 15,281 and 15,412; hogs 278,475 and 203,119; sheep 10,357 and 13,443. Salable hogs topped all other markets for the second consecutive month.

GOLD AND DOLLAR RESERVE OF BRITAIN IN APRIL RISE

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—Britain's gold and dollar reserve, a yardstick for measuring the sterling area market, rose by $51,000,000 in April.

The Treasury today listed the reserve at $2,328,000,000, on April 30 in a provisional calculation.

The reserve has risen every month since the beginning of the year, after sagging throughout 1955. However, the reserve is still only slightly above the two billion dollar mark which is regarded as the danger level.

Flashes of Life

A Bit Careless.

BLOOMFIELD, N.J. (AP)—Do you leave coins and other items in the pockets of garments sent to the cleaners. If so, don't feel bad. A man here left $1800 in a suit coat pocket.

A cleaning shop clerk found the money and returned it to the man. The shop withheld his name because "it might prove embarrassing."

Stuck With It.

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Pupils in Meadville high school were told they faced an increase in school cafeteria lunch prices because of their gum chewing habits. The pupils left wads on cafeteria plates and it was gumming up the dishwashing machines.

Helpful.

MENOMINEE, Mich. (AP)—It snowed pennies from heaven in Menominee county.

The unusual 4.2 inch fall in this upper peninsula area near the Wisconsin border Sunday brought the year's total to 60.3 inches. That is just more than the 60-inch minimum required to qualify for $10,000 in state aid for snow removal next year.

Nepal Crowns King Amid Ancient Pomp, Modern Movie Cameras

Delegates From 20 Countries See Coronation — Hindu Gods 'Look On' From Behind Red Curtain.

By HAROLD K. MILKS

KATMANDU, May 2 (AP)—Remote Himalayan Nepal crowned its new king today in a ceremony mixing ancient pomp with such modern innovations as movie cameras, foreign visitors and only one queen.

Hindu high priests placed the giant crown of the little kingdom—a gem-studded circlet of gold surmounted by brilliant bird of paradise plumage—on the head of 36-year-old King Mahendra at 10:43 a.m.

It was the precise minute fixed by the royal astrologers as most auspicious for a long and successful reign of the world's only Hindu monarch, ruler of 9,000,000 Nepalese.

Motion picture cameras and hundreds of clicking shutters recorded the coronation in the palace courtyard. Official delegates from 20 countries and a handful of tourists looked on from distant reserved seats as the King was crowned behind an almost solid wall of photographers.

Hindu Gods 'Look On.'

Behind a red curtain other guests "looked on." They were the unseen Hindu gods invited to the ceremony.

"O people!" the priests proclaimed as they crowned Mahendra. "This man is your king. He is the king of us Brahmans."

Then the priests vested the monarch with "the glow, splendor and energy" of the gods to make him "unrivaled in purity, greatness and kingship."

Guns boomed. Bands played. The high priests in golden robes intoned ancient chants. The cheers of thousands of subjects echoed from the streets outside the palace.

Mahendra, sitting on a throne mounted on the skins of oxen, leopards, lions and tigers, repeated prayers after the priests and promised "never to be arbitrary." His queen, Ratna Devi, sat stiffly beside him.

Among the official guests were Britain's Lord Chamberlain, the Earl of Scarborough; U Lan-fu, a vice premier of Red China; Vice President Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan of India, representatives of the Dalai and Panchen Lamas of neighboring Tibet, and three Americans—Dr. Charles Mayo of Rochester, Minn., Lowell Thomas and Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Washington socialite.

Some Big Differences.

The ceremony has come down unchanged through the reigns of nine earlier Nepalese monarchs, but there were several big differences since the coronation 43 years ago of Mahendra's father, the late King Tribhuvana. Then only one European, a British resident, saw the coronation. Nepal, virtually inaccessible due to the high Himalayas that make up most of its 54,000 square miles, allowed few visitors before 1950.

Mahendra has only one queen. He has spurned Nepalese tradition that the monarch must have two wives.

They retired to separate enclosures for ceremonial baths of purification. Afterward the King received the ceremonial anointing with ghee (clarified butter), milk, curds and honey.

Homage and Gifts.

The King—his full name is Mahendra Vir Vikram Shah Deva—then received the homage and gifts of Nepalese ministers and feudal lords, government dignitaries and the official foreign delegations.

He mounted a decorated elephant and led a parade through the streets of Katmandu.

A fireworks display and a state banquet, with guests eating from a 1400-piece coronation dinner service flown from Britain, were the final public ceremonies.

The United States gift was a silver-framed, autographed photograph of President Eisenhower and 100 rare bird of paradise plumes. The plumes, which had been seized by United States custom officials as contraband, were flown from the Museum of Natural History in New York.

Nepal, one of the few countries still using the ceremonial feathers, will replace its century-old supply with the newer feathers in future royal ceremonies.

UNIVERSITY CITY FILES SUIT TO OPEN BLOCKED STREET

A suit was filed today by the City of University City against the three trustees of University Hills seeking to condemn a three-block section of Pershing avenue in that subdivision for use as a public street.

The Board of Aldermen of University City on April 2 passed an ordinance authorizing the acquisition by condemnation of the street from Millbrook boulevard to Jackson avenue which is owned by the subdivision and has been blocked at the eastern end by the subdivision trustees.

At the time the ordinance was passed, University City officials said they had tried without success to negotiate with the subdivision trustees. One-half of the cost of acquiring the property would be met from the University City general fund, and the other half would come from the district consisting of all of University Hills and Westmoreland avenue between Jackson and Pratt avenues.

MILITARY AID FOR JAPAN

TOKYO, May 2 (UP)—The United States has leased or given Japan military equipment worth $723,566,000 in the last five years, it was reported today.

Kyodo news agency, quoting Defense Board sources, said an additional $148,760,000 in military supplies would be turned over in fiscal 1956.

MOVE FOR DEWEY AND COOPER TO RUN FOR SENATE

White House Aids Said to Be Behind It—Kentucky Nomination by State Committee.

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—White House aids were reported active today in efforts to persuade former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Ambassador John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky to run for the Senate.

There is no evidence President Eisenhower has taken a hand, as some G.O.P. sources say he did in nudging former Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay into Oregon's primary race.

Interest in senatorial contests has been intense because of the narrow 49-to-47 margin of Democratic control and the prospect of upsetting this in November.

Republicans would need only one additional seat, if they also elected a Vice President who could break a 48-to-48 tie and give them organizational control.

Dewey's Conditions.

Some party strategists said they have been approached by associates of Mr. Eisenhower with suggestions that Dewey might be persuaded to run if certain conditions were met.

One of these was said to be assurances from members of the old Taft wing of the party that Dewey would have their support if he ran and that he would not be relegated to a backseat senate role if he won.

Dewey generally is credited with helping engineer Mr. Eisenhower's defeat of the late Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the Republican presidential nomination in 1952.

Representative Dean P. Taylor (Rep.), New York, predicted Mr. Eisenhower may ask Dewey to seek the senatorial nomination. Dewey said he hadn't heard of it. So did White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty. Dewey has insisted he has no plans to get back into politics.

New York Republicans have reached no agreement on a candidate to oppose Democratic Senator Herbert Lehman. Attorney General Jacob Javits has made himself available. So has J. Raymond McGovern, former state comptroller.

Outlook in Kentucky.

In Kentucky, G.O.P. chances may have been heightened by the death on Monday of Democratic Senator Alben W. Barkley. Thruston B. Morton, former Congressman and former State Department official, is credited with a big lead for one G.O.P. senatorial nomination there.

Morton is running for the seat held by Senator Earle Clements, who has strong primary opposition from former Representative Joe B. Bates, backed by Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

Chandler will name a successor to Barkley to serve until the November election. As the law now stands the November nominee for the remaining four years of Barkley's term will be named by the state Democratic committee, controlled by Clements's forces.

At Frankfort yesterday, an associate said Chandler will not resign for appointment to the Senate by Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield. Chandler's term as Governor runs until December 1959.

In 1939, when Chandler was Governor, he resigned and Lt. Gov. Keen Johnson, succeeding him, appointed Chandler to the Senate after the death of Senator M. M. Logan. Chandler subsequently won election to Logan's unexpired term and was re-elected to a full six-year term in 1942.

Cooper was urged by some Administration strategists to run for the Senate before Morton entared the race. Cooper declined, saying he wanted to return to his diplomatic post in India.

Many Republicans think that if Mr. Eisenhower passes the word, Cooper will take the second senatorial nomination. Cooper has served in the Senate twice, but was defeated by Barkley in 1954.

Cooper, arriving in New York today, declined to say whether he would run. He said "there'll probably be some" conferences about such a move while he is in Washington.

He has returned to testify there before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee in connection with Indian appropriations under the President's foreign aid program.

Cooper said he probably would remain in this country until the arrival of India's Prime Minister Nehru in July.

RUSSIA ASKED TO PERMIT JAPAN'S ENTRY INTO U.N.

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—Ambassador Toshikazu Kase of Japan called on Soviet leaders yesterday to let Japan join the United Nations. He said that would improve relations between Japan and the Soviet Union.

The Japanese permanent observer to the United Nations added in a speech to the Japan Society that his country was cooperating for peace and progress through various United Nations specialized agencies.

Japan's bid for membership is certain to be an issue in the General Assembly again next fall, with the United States pushing for approval. Last December the Assembly accepted 18 new applicants, but in the Security Council Nationalist China vetoed Outer Mongolia and Russia vetoed Japan.

DETECTIVE POSES AS SALESMAN TO SET PINBALL TRAP

A St. Louis county police detective, seeking proof of pinball machine gambling, has been posing as a salesman in order to collect his winnings in a Hazelwood restaurant for about three weeks.

Last Monday another detective played the machine and won. Without saying anything about his occupation he asked a waitress to pay him, but she was non-committal. "See the manager," she said.

Yesterday the two detectives returned together. They reported that the manager, Harold R. Brumbaugh, noticing the one he knew as a salesman, walked over and asked: "Which one of you guys do I owe four dollars to?" Whereupon the trap was sprung. A warrant was issued today, charging permitting a gaming device on the premises.

A similar warrant was issued today against Glen Benfield, operator of a University City sandwich shop.

FRENCH SENATORS DEMAND NATION GET ATOM WEAPONS

PARIS, May 2 (AP)—Eight senators have introduced a bill to put France into the atomic weapons race.

So far French governments have insisted on confining atomic experiments to peaceful purposes. In the preamble to their bill, the senators said:

"The nation has no right, in case of hostilities, to send its sons to certain death with no chance of success, and they would have none if atomic weapons are denied to us."

JUMPS IN RIVER, CATCHES 30 FISH WITH BARE HANDS

TOKYO, May 2 (INS) — A Japanese farmer in Takasaki, north of Tokyo has amazed his friends by his ability to catch fish with his hands.

To demonstrate his ability, the farmer jumped into a river and caught 30 fish with his bare hands in less than two hours.

Saida, who has been pulling fish out of rivers for the last 45 years, claims a record of 104 pounds of fish caught in half a day.

LEGENDARY TRIBE FOUND IN THAILAND

Strange Melancholy Nomads Are Described by U.S. Explorers.

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP) — Two American explorers have told of finding a strange tribe of melancholy nomads in the remote mountain jungles of Thailand.

Robert W. Weaver and Thomas L. Goodman of the American Museum of Natural History headed an expedition that spent two years hunting for a legendary lost tribe.

He said the Phi Thong Luang tribesmen never once displayed anger, fear or joy.

They seemed destined, he added, to be wiped out by marauding tigers.

The expedition had heard tales of a mysterious tribe of primitive nomads living deep in the interior of Thailand (formerly Siam). They reputedly "faded" away like ghosts at the approach of strangers.

No one could be found who had actually seen them. But questioning of hunters convinced the Americans the legend of the Phi Thong Luang might be true.

Eventually the expedition found a clan of the tribe—six men, a woman and a small boy.

Other clansmen had, been killed by tigers.

"The Phi Thong Luang seem destined for extinction," Weaver said. "Their life is hard and their means of protection fro mthe elements and marauding tigers very few.

"Who knows but that we were the last outsiders to see them and record their way of life before they become only a legend again?"

OLYMPIA OYSTER DYING OFF FAST; CAUSE IN DISPUTE

OLYMPIA, Wash., May 2 (UP)—The tiny Olympia oyster is a vanishing breed. The delicate bivalves have been dying at a rate which has oystermen clamoring for an answer to the cause.

Oystermen predict that 90 per cent of the Olympia oyster industry will be wiped out within a year if mortalities continue at present rates.

Oystermen generally blame pulp mill pollution.

The State Fisheries Department, engaged in an extensive investigation, has not reached a final conclusion. However, fisheries officials attribute some of the losses to a predatory flatworm which they say was introduced with the importation of Pacific oysters from Japan.

Even Unto Second Generation.

STEVENSON HITS AT 'GIVE-AWAYS' IN OREGON TALK

He Calls That State 'Battleground' in Conflict Over Conservation.

The New York Times News Service.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., May 2—Adlai E. Stevenson submitted a bill of particulars against the Administration yesterday on "give-away."

He implied that Oregon had become "a great national battleground" for two conflicting philosophies about conservation.

Stevenson, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, flew to the southern part of the state, with stops at Medford and Ashland, in quest of votes in the presidential primary May 18. He and Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee are fighting for Oregon's 16 votes at the Democratic national convention.

Stevenson hit hardest on the conservation issue in a speech here last night. He said no other state could furnish a better laboratory in which to test the effects of conservation policies.

Follows McKay.

Douglas McKay is campaigning just ahead of him in this area. McKay, as President Eisenhower's Secretary of Interior, was responsible for carrying out many policies covering natural resources. He is seeking the Republican nomination for United States Senator, with the hope of taking on Senator Wayne Morse in November. Morse, elected twice as a Republican, is campaigning for re-election as a Democrat.

At Klamath Falls McKay referred to himself as a "whipping boy" of the Administration. Both Morse and Richard L. Neuberger, Oregon's other Democratic Senator, have charged hif with giving away natural resources.

Stevenson commented that the practices and techniques of conservation were so old and well proved that the subject should be removed from politics.

Prizes Still Tempting.

"But the prizes are still tempting" he observed, "and men are still greedy and, unhappily, politicians are still pliable.

"Our rich offshore oil lands have gone to fulfill Republican campaign promises.

"They have given away valuable pine and fir timber right here in Oregon's Rogue River National Forest on the pretext that the Al Serena company was ti mine for gold and silver.

"They have given away, or tried to give away, other portions of our national forests for the use of private companies.

"The right to exploit our national wildlife refugees has been granted to about as many oil and mining companies in three years as in the past 33 years.

"They have given away, or tried to give away, some precious rights of our American Indians.

Other 'Give-Aways.'

"They have tried to give away countless other riches which the people of this nation alone possess—grazing rights on our public lands, government-owned helium production plants, and the infamous Dixon-Yates deal to give away a big profit at little or no risk to a private utility company, while at the same time striking a blow at the TVA, which President Eisenhower once characterized as 'creeping socialism.'"

Stevenson, who drew applause at every mention of Morse's name, said that Oregon, in the senatorial battle, would test "the concept of government devoted to the service of all the people against the concept of government devoted to the service of a favored few."

SENATORS URGE U.N. BAR ON 'ABUSE' BY RED DELEGATE

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The Senate Internal Security subcommittee called yesterday for action by the United Nations to "prevent further wanton abuse" of United States hospitality by chief Soviet delegate Arkady Sobolev.

The subcommittee last week heard testimony that depicted Sobolev as master-minding the alleged "kidnaping" of five Russian seamen who left their United States asylum April 7.

Chairman James Eastland (Dem.), Mississippi, wrote Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. asking him to make a formal demand to the United Nations "to do everything in its power to prevent further wanton abuse of the hospitality of the United States by chief delegate Sobolev and his staff."

He said Secretary of States John Foster Dulles last week took the position that "such arrogant misconduct is in direct violation of the terms of the headquarters agreement between the United States and the United Nations."

At U.N. headquarters in New York, a United States delegation spokesman said Lodge will refer Eastland's letter to the State Department. A spokesman said Lodge is preparing a reply pointing out that matters of United States policy in the U.N. are made in Washington.

Visas for Chinese Halted.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP) The United States ordered a halt yesterday in accepting applications by Chinese refugees for entry into the United States under President Eisenhower's emergency program. A State Department announcement said the 2000 entry visas allotted for Chinese-origin refugees already is heavily oversubscribed.

TEACHER TO GET CONTRACT — IF HE QUITS BARTENDING

PUEBLO, Colo., May 2 (AP)—Theodore Colton may return as science teacher at Corwin Junior High School this fall, but he will have to give up his side job as a bartender.

Six school trustees voted unanimously last night to offer Colton a teaching contract under a resolution which forbids employment in any phase of the liquor business.

Colton's friends said he tended bar at a hotel to supplement his teaching salary of $4300 a year.

Colton had said earlier he would quit bartending if he had to choose between that and teaching. A new contract would mark the end of his three-year probationary period and qualify him for a higher salary and permanent employment.

The school board came under heavy fire from teachers, students and parents after three of its members voted April 10 not to offer Colton a new contract. Members of the Pueblo Teachers Federation began a resignation-a-day campaign in protest.

Five teachers have submitted resignations. Mrs. Jeanne McGovern, vice president of the school board, said she would ask Superintendent Charles Davis to allow them to withdraw the resignations.

LONG TIME BETWEEN DESIGN AND PLANE

Producers Point Out Nine Years Pass Before First Flight of Heavy Bomber.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The "lead time" for airplanes—the time lag between the first design and the completed product—probably will increase as aircraft become more complex, the Aircraft Industries Association said yesterday.

The association, representing the nation's major airplane producers, said in a summary of defense production problems that the industry has generally held the line on lead time for fighter planes now in production compared with World War II.

"The average time for a fighter is about four years, nearly the same as for World War II models, the association said.

Fighter planes currently in production are capable of flying considerably more than 1000 miles an hour compared with 400 miles an hour in World War II.

It takes 10 times as many hours of wind tunnel testing for a plane capable of flying twice the speed of sound as for a subsonic aircraft, the association said.

The summary said the lead time for a heavy bomber is about nine years from preliminary design to first flight.

A modern jet bomber weighs more than 350,000 pounds, flies at speeds of more than 650 miles an hour and has 100,000 parts, exclusive of nuts, bolts and rivets, compared with 66,000 pounds, a top speed of 350 miles an hour and 30,000 parts for the World War II bomber.

REPORTER IS ORDERED OUT OF MURDER TRIAL

SANTA ROSA, Calif., May 2 (AP) — A newspaper reporter was ordered out of a murder trial yesterday when the defendant waived her right to a public trial.

The district attorney and the attorney general's office called the action of Superior Judge Donald Geary unprecedented in California.

It happened immediately after the selection of a jury to try Mrs. Charlotte Black, 63 years old, on charges of murdering her husband, Martin, 63, Feb. 25.

At the request of defense attorney Frank McAuliffe, Judge Geary explained to Mrs. Black that she had a constitutional right to waive public trial. She availed herself of the right and the judge ordered the courtroom cleared.

WRITER DONALD STEWART FILES SUIT FOR PASSPORT

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UP)—Stage and Screen Writer Donold Ogden Stewart, who now lives in London, charged the State Department yesterday with illegally refusing to give him a passport for European travel.

In a United States District Court suit, he asked for a court order to force the Department to issue him a passport. The complaint said he went to live abroad to make a living after he was subjected to an "economic blacklist" beginning in 1950 because of his alleged political views.

4 MEN KILLED BY BLAST OF OXYGEN TRUCK AT MINE

CADIZ, O., May 2 (AP)—Four men were killed yesterday when a truck-load of liquid oxygen exploded at a strip coal mine.

They were killed as they prepared to use the oxygen to blast away a 95-foot wall of earth at Hanna Coal Co. mine. The oxygen is poured on cloth bags filled with carbon, which are sunk in holes and touched off with an electric spark. The liquid gas in cylinders exploded on the truck.

Life-Long Immunity to Polio May Be Possible, Dr. Salk Says

Exposure to Disease Triggers Quick Formation of Anti-Bodies in Person Inoculated or Previously Exposed, He Asserts.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., May 2 (AP)—Dr. Jonas E. Salk said yesterday a substantial exposure to polio virus by any means apparently induces long lasting immunity to paralytic polio.

The role of the polio incubation period also was stressed by Dr. Salk as a factor "that makes it possible to induce life-long or long lasting immunity."

He implied that polio inoculations, containing killed virus, appear to furnish immunity into adult life.

Some scientists feel that children, if they received killed-virus inoculations, might lose their immunity by the time they grow into adulthood. They recommend development of a live-virus vaccine.

Dr. Salk in an interview, said he does not recommend that the current Salk polio vaccine program be changed in any way. The program calls for three inoculations—the first two given four weeks apart and the third about seven months later.

Dr. Salk, who is with the virus research laboratory at the University of Pittsburgh's school of medicine, said the third shot would serve as "insurance."

In a report at the annual meeting of the Association of American Physicians yesterday, he said that in the presence of a sufficiently hyper-reactive state immunity to paralysis may continue "even after the level of circulating anti-bodies (disease fighters) in the blood decline to a minimal or non-measurable level."

"Under such circumstances," Dr. Salk said, it seems unlikely that there could be "a reversion of a population of immune children into a population of susceptible adults."

A sufficiently hyper-reactive state tends to persist following vaccination, Dr. Salk said. However, he added, the longest test-interval possible so far has been three years.

Following initial vaccination or natural infection, he said, it takes about 12 days for the infection to reach the central nervous system.

But it takes only three or four days after re-inoculation for anti-bodies to begin reforming "in very large amounts" in a person previously inoculated or exposed to the virus naturally. It takes seven to 10 days for antibodies to form in persons not previously inoculated or exposed naturally to infection, he said.

Dr. Salk said this time difference indicates a "built-in protective mechanism" resulting from either a previous natural infection or a "once successful vaccination."

AVERAGE SIZE U. S. FAMILY INCLUDES 3.6 PERSONS

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The Census Bureau said yesterday a survey of population characteristics conducted in 1955 showed the average size for all families is 3.6 persons. It defined "family" as two or more persons related by blood, marriage or adoption and residing together.

The census report also disclosed:

There were about 42,000,000 families in the nation. In about 61 per cent of them, the members living together included children or other relatives, or both, in addition to the husband and wife.

Twenty six per cent of the families were husband and wife only. Twice as many women as men lived alone in 1955. The number of such one-person households increased by one third from 1950 to 1955. Last year there were about 5,200,000 such households.

There were 7,595,000 widows and 2,357,000 widowers.

MORE THAN HALF OLDSTERS HAVE ASSURED LIFE INCOME

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—More than one-half of Americans who are 65 years and older have some assured income for life under a public or private retirement program, the Institute of Life Insurance said yesterday.

The institute said that the number receiving retirement benefits in this age group has doubled in the last five years from 3,500,000 to 7,250,000.

The report pointed out that a large number are getting benefits from more than one source, such as a private pension and social security. In many cases, too, these incomes are supplemented by returns from accumulated savings and investments.

CONSTITUTION UNDER PERON IS ABOLISHED

Aramburu Restores Charter Barring Second Successive Term for President.

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

BUENOS AIRES, May 2—President Pedro E. Aramburu issued a decree yesterday abolishing the 1949 Peron constitution and restoring Argentina's original constitution of 1853.

The move will prevent a future Argentine president serving a second successive term, and it will protect foreign investments from arbitrary nationalization.

The primary motive of Juan D. Peron in adopting a new constitution was to enable him to be re-elected in 1952 for a second successive term. He was overthrown last September. Under the original constitution, an Argentine president after serving a six-year term had to allow another person to serve before being eligible to run for a second term.

Damper on Investments.

At the same time the Peronistas used the occasion for writing into the new constitution power to nationalize foreign interests in Argentina at original cost less depreciation. This brought strong protests from the United States and other foreign countries, and had the effect of discouraging further foreign investments.

One aim of the Aramburu government is to attract foreign and especially United States capital to help restore the nation's rundown economy.

As the platform for his important announcement, Aramburu chose the same spot where Gen. Justo Jose Urquiza issued a proclamation May 1, 1851, for the uprising against Dictator Juan Manuel Rosas. It was the Plaza Ramirez in Concepcion del Uruguay, an agricultural town northeast of Buenos Aires near the Uruguayan frontier.

Meanwhile Communists held their first major open air rally in more than 10 years and launched a campaign to win over the Peronistas and establish themselves as one of the largest Communist parties in the Western Hemisphere.

Communist Prediction.

Communist leaders, haranguing a May day crowd of 7000 in Rivadavia park, predicted the party would reach 100,000 card-carrying members by the end of 1956. The present membership is 20,000.

If the Communists achieve their aim, their party in Argentina will become the second largest in the Western Hemisphere, after Brazil.

Communist leaders demanded that Aramburu release imprisoned Peronistas and restore control of labor unions to the workers.

Earlier in the day, Aramburu announced the government would surrender control of the unions to freely elected labor leaders within 150 days.

GASOLINE TANKS IN AIRPORT AREA OPPOSED BY PLANNERS

A recommendation that the application of the City of St. Louis for a rezoning of a small area near the new airport terminal building to permit the installation of eight aboveground gasoline storage tanks be denied was made last night by the St. Louis County Planning Commission.

The application for a change to light industrial use was turned down by the commission because the storage of gasoline is prohibited in that category of zoning. The commission said it would forward its recommendation against the change to the County Council next Wednesday.

Previously, the commission had suggested the city apply for a special permit for the installation, which is opposed by a number of nearby residents, but the city instead filed the application for the change of zoning. The tanks would be part of an underground system for refueling planes.

2 MORE ISRAEL VESSELS INTERCEPTED BY TURKEY

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, May 2 (AP)—Informed sources said here that two more Israeli fishing trawlers, the Nachshol and Neve Yam, were intercepted by Turkish vessels off the southern Turkish coast a few days ago and escorted to Iskenderon (formerly Alexandretta.)

Earlier this week it was announced that the Israeli fishing vessel Kadimah had been intercepted in the same area and escorted to a Turkish port. In all three cases Turkish authorities alleged the trawlers were fishing in Turkish waters.

The truck driver, Fayette Mathes of Metropolis, Ill., suffered a serious head injury and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital at Highland, Ill. State police reported that Justice's car swerved into the path of the truck.

I.C.C. AUTHORIZES RAIL RATE CUT ON WESTERN GRAIN

Move Designed to Meet Competition of Unregulated Truckers in Area.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday authorized western railroads to slash their rates on carload shipments of coarse grains to meet the competition of independent, unregulated truckers in that area.

The commission said an investigation showed that during the last 20 years the "itinerant truck grain merchants" had taken over the major portion of the coarse grain transportation business from the rails.

Coarse grains include corn, oats, barley and various sorghum grains, largely used for livestock and poultry feed.

The ICC said itinerant grain merchants operate from Texas northward with citrus fruit and vegetable loads for delivery in the feeding grain states. For the return trip into the southwest, they buy coarse grains at farms and country elevators which is resold at destination points.

These operations are not under ICC jurisdiction, because shipments are strictly agricultural, and the truckers are operating largely for their own account.

The ICC said the railroads require authority to reduce their rates below minimum levels previously fixed by the commission "if they are to recapture lost traffic or even hold present tonnage."

"Under the order entered," the commission said, "the (rail) carriers will be free to file any rate or tariff change with respect to the coarse grains they view as desirable. They should devise adjustments that will enable them to meet indicated competition, but will at the same time accord all shipments just rates and avoid undue prejudice."

The ICC said any rate changes published by the railroads will be subject to public protest and individual consideration by the commission.

Only a few railroads sought the rate-cut outhority, to be applied in selected areas. However, the ICC made its permit effective throughout the states west of the Mississippi river, plus Illinois, Michigan's upper peninsula and all east bank ports on the Mississippi.

2000 TO COMPETE IN MUSIC CONTEST FINALS AT S.I.U.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARBONDALE, Ill., May 2—More than 2000 high school bandsmen, vocalists, instrumentalists, baton twirlers and chorus members will compete Friday and Saturday in the class "B" state music contest finals at Southern Illinois University.

Musicians and bands from 60 high schools in the 226-550 enrollment bracket from Rantoul south to Cairo Sumner will be present. Finals for schools in the northern half of the state are being held at DeKalb.

Solo and ensemble finals will be held Friday at University School, with judging from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday's competition involves the 17 bands rated "superior" in district contests, as well as boys', girls' and mixed choruses.

Superior and excellent ratings will be awarded, with medals going to individuals. A Sweepstakes Award will be given the school with the highest point aggregate.

Bands will be allotted 20 minutes to play four selections including one number which they must read at sight. Soloists and ensembles will be given eight minutes performing time.

TEAMSTER OFFICER IN NEW YORK GETS CONTEMPT TERM

The New York Times News Service.

NEW YORK, May 2—John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of two teamster union locals, was sentenced yesterday to eight months' imprisonment for contempt of court.

McNamara had refused to answer a series of questions before the court and the special federal grand jury investigating racketeering in the trucking and garment trades.

McNamara, chief lieutenant to John J. O'Rourke, president-elect of the Joint Teamsters Council, pleaded self-incrimination in refusing to answer questions concerning the chartering of "paper" Local 295 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Martin T. Lacey is seeking to enjoin O'Rourke from taking over the council's $25,000 a year presidency. Lacy contended that the election had been rigged by chartering seven "paper" locals that exist only on the books.

McNamara is secretary-treasurer of Local 295 and of Local 808. The "paper" local represents air freight expressmen, who were formerly members of Local 808.

More Radios Than Newspapers.

PARIS, May 2 (AP)—The number of radio sets in the world has now passed the number of newspaper printed every day, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization estimated today. It said there were 257,000,000 radio receivers and 44,000,000 television sets in operation, while the total crculation of the world's dailies was 255,000,000.

TREASURY AID URGES MORE SAVING IN U.S.

Lack of Funds for Lending Is Hurting Nation's Economy, He Says.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2—Under Secretary of the Treasury W. Randolph Burgess yesterday said Americans are saving too little and spending too much.

A shortage of savings is checking the growth of the United States economy "this very spring," Burgess declared. Money is tight and borrowers are finding it difficult to obtain funds to finance homebuilding, business plant expansion and other investment programs, he said.

"I think in the long run the country would make faster progress if we saved a little more and spent a little less," Burgess asserted.

He called attention to the savings shortage at a news conference held to mark the fifteenth anniversary of the launching of the series "E" government saving bond program.

Burgess said net sales of savings bonds have been somewhat smaller this year than last because the Treasury is bidding against strong demands from other borrowers for available funds.

Burgess observed that savings bond sales are being hurt by the increasingly high interest rates that savings banks, building and loan associations, and banks are offering to depositors, but he said the Treasury does not plan now to increase the interest rate paid on the bonds.

He disclosed that the Treasury is considering the adoption of a punch card savings bond in place of the engraved securities it now gives to purchasers. He said the punch card would save money for the Treasury and for many of the 42,000 business organizations that operate payroll deduction plans.

John R. Buckley, national director of the savings bond division, told reporters that more than 40,000,000 Americans now own more than $40,000,000,000 in series "E" and "H" savings bonds. The total has increased $10,000,000,000 since 1945.

JUSTICE OFFICIALS OPPOSE CONNELLY-CAUDLE DELAY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2—The Justice Department today opposed any delay in trial of Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, Truman Administration officials under indictment on charges of conspiring to defraud the Government. They are scheduled to go on trial Monday in United States District Court at St. Louis.

Connelly and Caudle, along with Harry I. Schwimmer, former Kansas City lawyer indicted with them, filed petitions last Monday for a stay by a United State Supreme Court justice. They asked that trial be held up pending the filing of a petition that would seek review by the full Supreme Court of refusal by the St. Louis court to transfer the case to the District of Columbia.

In a reply memorandum today, Solicitor General Simon Sobeloff said the three had presented no good reason for delay. Sobeloff said: "A stay is not a matter of right, but may be refused in the public interest, even though such refusal may be burdensome to applicants." The stay request has been turned over to the office of Chief Justice Warren, who will decide whether to act on it himself, submit it to some other justice, or to the full court.

BRITISH SOLDIER WOUNDED, BOMBS THROWN IN CYPRUS

NICOSIA, Cyprus, May 2 (UP)—In new acts of violence in Cyprus today, a British soldier was wounded by three extremists in Nicosia and 10 gasoline bombs were thrown in Famagusta.

Police exchanged gunfire with the extremists in Nicosia and drove them off. The wounded soldier was taken to a hospital with slight injuries. There was little damage and no casualties in the Famagusta bombings.

A special court in Nicosia sentenced a Turkish shepherd to three years in jail for carrying a loaded revolver in defiance of emergency regulations. He could have been sentenced to death.

4 YOUTHS CAUGHT LOOTING EAST ST. LOUIS RESTAURANT

Four youths were caught early today looting a restaurant at 3800 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis. They had $60, which they admitted taking from juke boxes and other places in which money was kept.

Deputy sheriffs called police after noting a window in the establishment had been broken. Two of the arrested youths are 16-year-old high school students. The other two said they were Phil Drennan, 18, living in a housing development at 2300 St. Clair avenue, and James Hornbostel, 19, who gave an address in the 400 block of Twenty-second street, East St. Louis.

DOCTOR TO RECEIVE $4500 DAMON RUNYON FUND GRANT

Dr. Blumenthal is pathologist and director of the division of laboratories at the hospital. The grant will be the first in this area to go to a man doing research at a hospital. Other awards went to medical schools.

The money will be presented to Dr. Blumenthal by Harold Koplar, chairman of the cancer fund local committee. Dr. David Littauer, executive director of Jewish Hospital, will be present.

Truman Support of Harriman Is Goal of Governor's Backers as Ex-President Presents Award

Four Freedoms Banquet to Honor New Yorker Viewed as Key Step in De Sapio's Campaign to Win Democratic Nomination for His Man.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1956, The Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 2.

GOV. AVERELL HARRIMAN of New York will receive next week the annual Four Freedoms Award. If it were not for certain very special circumstances, this would be just another one of those trophies—a line added in Who's Who—presented at a speech-making banquet.

But it happens that the award will be presented by former President Truman, and it comes at the moment when Harriman and his mentor, Carmine De Sapio, chief of Tammany Hall, are beginning openly to push the Governor's claim to the presidential nomination.

The objective, carefully planned, is to make this appear as a Truman indorsement of the Harriman candidacy. Many of the ex-President's friends and former associates have long suspected that he is privately for Harriman and he would have to go only a little way further in his speech of presentation to confirm this impression.

Resenting Adlai E. Stevenson's determination to set the tone of his own campaign, Truman has found Harriman far more receptive to his "Give 'em hell" advice.

Harriman's "inactive" candidacy—and Harriman himself has had trouble defining just what that means—has caused a big upheaval in the Democratic party. In the Stevenson camp, the suspicion has grown that Harriman money is being used to promote Senator Estes Kefauver in the conviction that if the two killed each other off in the rough and tumble of the primaries, then the way would be open for the New York governor to step in. Harriman firmly denies that he or anyone connected with him has put money behind Kefauver, but the report persists nevertheless.

Presidential Virus.

On one thing everybody agrees and that is that Harriman has about as severe a case of presidential virus as has been seen in a long time.

Four years ago when he was 61 and before he had been elected to any public office, the Governor came down with the disease.

At the Democratic convention in Chicago, he opened headquarters in the Arizona suite at the Palmer House. The suite was decorated in ranch house style with a big patio where Candidate Harriman received delegates and reporters before an artificial fire in an artificial fireplace although the whole place was comfortably air-conditioned. This setting somewhat accentuated the artificial nature of the Harriman candidacy.

The virus today is far more virulent. Harriman is 65 and this is his last chance. He won the governorship by a hairbreadth margin when it had been freely predicted that he would be swamped by his Republican opponent, Senator Irving Ives. With the concentration of effort that has characterized every phase of his career in business and government, Harriman threw himself into the new task.

Harriman Resentful.

Harriman is deeply resentful of the strong Stevenson-for-President Committee at work in New York. This committee recently organized a $100-a-plate dinner for Stevenson attended by 1100 persons at which Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Senator Herbert H. Lehman of New York gave all-out tributes for the candidate from Illinois.

If Harriman could get Truman's open approval on the eve of the former President's departure for Europe, it would give him a fine springboard for the series of speeches he will shortly make in several western states.

But, as a veteran player, Truman is not likely to be jockeyed into an indorsement unless he has decided well in advance that this is the course he wishes to pursue.

In his role as the sage of Independence, the former President has in recent weeks talked freely with all comers about the Democratic race, but they come away with distinctly different impressions. It is a little like reading tea leaves. The visitor tends to take out of the ex-President's often salty talk what happens to be favorable for the candidate in whom he is interested. One theme running through these talks is that the Democratic party has a plentitude of able candidates, any one of whom could be President. Of late Truman appears to have left Stevenson off this list.

Pro-Harriman Meeting.

One of those close to Truman is former Democratic National Chairman Frank McKinney who was supplanted by Stevenson when he got the party nomination four years ago. McKinney had a hand in organizing the meeting of high-ranking Democrats from 14 states in Denver in early March. Some of those participating, Gov. Raymond of Oklahoma among them, were frank in admitting that this was a pro-Harriman session which gave incidental support to Kefauver with the realization of what his triumphs in the presidential primaries might do to Stevenson.

On a television program recently McKinney said that he was no longer for Harriman but that Senator Stuart Symington was his second choice in the event that Stevenson and Kefauver succeeded in destroying each other.

In Truman's own Missouri, a powerful favorite son candidacy for Symington has developed. Truman was consulted about this and in effect said he had no objection, but he is far from an admirer of the Senator who now is in the headlines as the chairman of a subcommittee investigating deficiencies in American aircraft and missile development.

A cynical politician invited to the Four Freedoms dinner for Harriman wrote back suggesting it be made five freedoms, the fifth freedom being the freedom to run for President.

That is the freedom which Harriman is exercising with a fine, freewheeling zeal. What the end result will be is at this writing anyone's guess.

Nixon Checked With State G.O.P. Leaders Before Entering Race

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1956.)

WASHINGTON.

DEMOCRATS will make a big mistake if they underestimate Dick Nixon. They figure he has about 75 per cent chance of becoming President, and they are glad he is running; but Nixon doesn't miss a trick and he knows most of the tricks in the political bag.

When he went in to see President Eisenhower the other day to tell him he had "charted his course," he had already done some charting with most of the Republican state chairmen and committeemen around the country. He had telephoned them personally, asking them in his most deferential manner whether he should run again.

When the Vice President of the United States calls to seek your personal advice, the natural tendency is to tell him what he wants to know. Most Republican leaders did.

Nixon kept a scorecard and the results were discreetly made known to White House advisers in advance of Nixon's conference with the President last week.

Two Developments.

That conference was hastened by two developments:

1. Mr. Eisenhower's statement in press conference that he had not yet received a reply from Nixon, which made it appear that Nixon was still out on a limb.

2. The Senate committee's discovery that Nixon's attorney and most trusted adviser, Murray Chotiner, was involved in a blacklisted uniform manufacturer's effort to pull wires. What the Senate committee digs out might have influenced the G.O.P. decision on Nixon's future, so Nixon rushed in to clinch his future first.

The Secret Service, which has the job of protecting Nixon from bodily harm and also has the job of protecting the Great Seal and currency of the United States, discovered that a company called the National Research Co. was using a spread-eagle insignia and various misleading titles such as U.S. Credit Control Bureau, Claims Office, Disbursement Office, etc., to give the impression it was a Government agency in the collection of back debts.

Letter From Baughman.

In some cases forms that looked somewhat like Government checks were mailed out to get information from people.

Jordan Military Leader Shows Confidence After Talks in Cairo

Col. Ali Abu Nawar Says His Mission Was to Co-ordinate Defense Policy Against Israel With Egypt.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, May 2.

The visit has been "most successful," he told the Post-Dispatch in an interview at a guest palace that belonged to former King Farouk.

Col. Abu Nawar, reputedly the true head of the Arab Legion since the firing of Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb two months ago, is accompanied on the trip by the new chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Radi Innab, generally regarded as a figurehead.

Abu Nawar, 33-year-old former senior aide-de-camp to King Hussein II, is assistant chief of staff for operations. Col. Ali Hayari, division commander of the Legion's one division, is said to be Abu Nawar's rival for the top spot. He stayed home in Amman.

King's Policy.

"This mission is the execution of a policy laid down by His Majesty early in April," Col. Abu Nawar said. "He said if war broke out between Israel and one of the Arab states we would co-operate with the other Arab countries and fight as one."

By co-operation, he said, he meant unified planning rather than unified command. He said the possibility of unified command had not come up in discussions with Egyptian military leaders.

Jordan has been walking a careful middle path between Hashemite Iraq on the north and Egypt on the south. Abu Nawar made it clear the Arab Legion would not come under Egyptian command in the event of war, as Syria, Saudi Arabia and Yemen might do under their new military alliances.

"Unification of command would not stand in the way of success or failure in a war," he said.

Seeks to Avoid 1948 Errors.

One object of the mission to Egypt was to "avoid the errors of the 1948 Palestine campaign," he said. Israel pushed back four invading Arab armies in the 1948 war—the Arab Legion and forces of Egypt, Syria and Lebanon.

Asked what mistakes had been made in 1948, he first said, "We will surely avoid them this time," then he listed the errors as follows:

"1. Inadequate mutual information about the respective Arab armies.

"2. Not very sound planning for full co-ordination of operations.

"3. Under-estimation of world Zionist power.

"4. Various truces imposed on our armies."

His final point was a reference to the Arab contention that Israel was able to seize the Negeb, Palestine's southern desert, only by a campaign that started with a sneak attack in violation of the first United Nations truce. Israel says the Arabs violated the truce.

Asked about the state of morale in the Arab Legion, the colonel said it "couldn't be better."

Arabization of the Legion is

Public Opinion Survey Called Unreliable

By STEWART ALSOP

GARY, Ind.

JUST how do the public opinion polls work, how reliable are they and what do they really mean?

The question is worth asking, because the polls have become a major influence in American politics. The polls induced a fatal complacency in the Dewey camp in 1948, for example. They almost certainly denied to Robert A. Taft the nomination he sought so long and so arduously. More recently, they were principally responsible for the abortive "dump Nixon" movement.

For such reasons, this reporter has just spent two days here in Gary, and in the slums and suburbs of Chicago, buttonholing potential voters. Louis Harris, partner in the Elmo Roper polling organization, has acted as guide of this pulse-feeling operation.

In all, we have talked to some 75 persons, housewives, steelworkers, middle class business men, and plain Americans. From the point of view of the political reporter, it has been a fascinating experience, which has led to certain very strong impressions.

A couple of days of poll-taking serve as a reminder that Americans are nice, friendly people, who talk freely. But the experience also serves as a reminder that political matters are far from removed from the daily life and daily interests of most Americans.

Almost everybody, we discovered, knew something about President Eisenhower and something less about Adlai Stevenson (although one woman remarked that it was too bad "that poor Stevens had that heart attack.") About two out of three had some notions about Estes Kefauver. But a good many could not identify the Vice President, and only a handful had formed an opinion of such esoteric political figures as Averell Harriman and Stuart Symington.

In such circumstances, it would have been wholly futile merely to ask a series of mechanical questions, and to note

Job Opportunities Expanding For Negroes in Northern Cities

Despite Progress in Many Fields Discrimination in Employment Still Has Not Been Beaten.

By A. H. RASKIN
The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.)
(LAST OF FOUR ARTICLES.)

NEW YORK.

FIFTEEN years of national prosperity have brought the Negro in the North more economic progress than in any period since the Emancipation Proclamation. But the Negro worker started from such a submerged position that he remains the low man on the job opportunity ladder of industry.

He is being accepted in engineering and technical posts that were barred to him before World War II. He has edged into the lower ranks of industrial management as foreman and unit supervisor. He is exercising executive responsibility in Federal, state and city agencies.

But these advances are too fresh and too limited to justify certainty that discrimination in employment has been beaten or that the old Negro maxim of "last hired, first fired" is ready for discard.

For all their headway during the war and post-war boom, Negroes keep bumping against "invisible" promotion ceilings in most fields and against a wall of almost total exclusion in some. Where the white youth entering industry dreams of working his way up to be company president or board chairman, the Negro at his side must set himself a more modest goal.

From sweeper to skilled mechanic, from housemaid to sales clerk or secretary—that is still the closest approach to the Horatio Alger story to which the Negro may aspire in many areas of private employment.

Expanding Job Horizons.

There are, nevertheless, solid reasons for believing that a durable change is under way, marked by steadily expanding job horizons for Negroes on the basis of talent and training. Here are some of the factors that make experts feel the Negro will move up, rather than out, even if the boom subsides and job-seekers become more plentiful than jobs.

1. Hiring, training and promotion practices free of bias are now a legal requirement in 15 states and 41 cities.

2. Uncle Sam, as a major customer of many industries, makes equality of job opportunity a "must" for employers holding Federal contracts.

3. Industries that reluctantly had upgraded Negroes under the pressure of a tight labor market or of fair employment laws have learned that a man's competence or his ability to get along with his fellows was not dependent on the color of his skin.

4. Negroes have had a chance to pile up sufficient seniority to give them a cushion against lay-offs in the event of an economic downturn and enough skill to put them in line for better jobs as promotion possibilities open up.

5. Unification of the labor movement has set in motion a more energetic drive to eradicate "Jim Crow" and exclusionist policies in national and local unions.

Community sentiment is generally much more hospitable to integration on the job than to integration in housing, schools or social activities. Even in public contact jobs, where employers have been especially fearful that customers would resent being served by Negroes, these worries seldom have proved warranted.

Have Seen Integration Work.

The most heartening aspect of the job situation has been the success that dozens of enterprises in the North have had in erasing color barriers. They know that integration can work because they have seen it work. This has represented a much more dependable foundation for further progress than government mandates or other forms of external pressure.

However, most large corporations hesitate to advertise their success too widely. This is partly because they still have their fingers crossed about the stability of the peaceful race relations now prevailing in their northern plants. It is also partly because the white citizens' councils and other southern foes of integration in any form have been quick to use any praise of better race relations as an excuse for organizing consumer boycotts or stirring up discord in a company's southern plants.

Industrial relations executives emphasize that they are not seeking to "reform the world."

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Response to Gen. Clark

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Integration of Negro and white troops is opposed by Gen. Mark W. Clark "from the military point of view." Referring to his experience as commander of the Fifth Army in Italy during World War II, he is reported as saying "the worst division I had was a Negro division," and alleging that they "bolted from the enemy."

Gen. Clark is not reported as giving reasons for the alleged defection of his Negro troops. I suggest two reasons, the first obvious to the public and the second perhaps obscure to some of the public. Combat panic overwhelms some men of any race. Status as Negro troops in a segregated division, connoting inferiority, weakened their morale. Happily the public knows that a large majority of Negro service men received honorable discharges, and white crosses mark the graves of many who fell in combat.

Fortunately, our Government, headed by President Harry S. Truman, adopted the policy of racial integration in 1950, in recognition that segregation is dangerous to the mental health of military personnel in general.

MRS. PEARSON C. ASHURST.
Springfield, Ill.

'Lively and Entertaining'

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

John Keasler's article on "Law in Your Life Week" in the April 15 Everyday Magazine was lively and entertaining, deftly highlighting the important points of the week's events.

"Law in Your Life Week," sponsored by the Bar Association of St. Louis, marks a milestone in the relationship of the legal profession to the public, and Mr. Keasler very appropriately and skillfully handled the entire subject.

T. HARTLEY POLLOCK,
President, Bar Association of St. Louis.

The Engineers Dissent

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

After reading your editorial of April 17 on the Operating Engineers, I would like to say the Engineers are hiding nothing but would certainly appreciate the press printing the facts from both sides and letting the public be the judge instead of telling the facts from one side and trying to convince the public that way.

As one of the delegates who attended the convention in Chicago, and who voted to exclude the press, I feel it only fair to state the vote to exclude the press was made after three days of misstatements of facts and biased reporting by the press. I have nothing to hide or fear except an unfair, unjust press hiding behind the slogan of "free press"; using "yellow dog journalism"; dragging the name and character of every man connected with the Operating Engineers down, with no regard or consideration of fair play.

Is it any more criminal, or unfair, for the Operating Engineers, or any other organization, to bar the press from their convention or meetings, than for the National Association of Manufacturers to bar the press from their directors' meetings? The reasons for the National Association of Manufacturers barring the press from their meetings are still unknown. Does the press feel neglected when expelled from these meetings?

The Engineers have nothing to hide or fear, but do feel they deserve a fair and unbiased report by the press. HERMAN B. JONES,
Secretary and Business Representative, Local 2, 2A, 2B and 2C.

The Primary Issues

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The American philosophy of two-party government does not square with the current political actualities.

For this reason we must first clearly recognize the world as a whole and the part these United States must assume, if the free people are to live. Second, our domestic front requires the citizens' most objective scrutiny. The issues are complex and tremendous in scope. The farm problem and the desegregation issue are of primary importance.

The issues should convince us of what we need for proper leadership, thereby directing our presidential choice. This will enable us to continue "government by the people for the people." MRS. J. S. PLATTE.
Affton.

Clean as a Hound's Tooth

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

What was it they said about Harry?
That his choice of appointees was bad?
And no matter what post he was filling,
Surely much better men could be had?

"So," said Mr. E., "when it's my turn,
The very best men I'll secure."
But where, oh where, was he looking
When he called upon Edmund Mansure?

And where did he find Mr. Talbott?
To say nothing of Peter Strobel?
From the top drawer were they the selection?
If so, what a sad tale you tell.

So the moral of this is, my hearties,
Tho' as clean as a hound's tooth is he
Whom you choose for a sensitive office—
There are hounds whom a dentist should see!

LILLIAN L. BODINE.
Kirkwood.

Never Again

Now that the tragic facts have been presented to Congress, the death of the six Marine recruits on that unnecessary punitive march at night through a South Carolina swamp stands revealed as more horrible than ever.

For now it comes out that the non-commissioned officer in charge, Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, not only was violating Defense Department policy in using drill for sadistic punishment. He was under the influence of liquor when he ordered his platoon into the treacherous waters near Parris Island.

It must have been a humiliating experience for Gen. Randolph M. Pate, commandant of the proud Marine Corps, to tell the House Armed Services Committee, how Sgt. McKeon told his platoon that "those who couldn't swim would drown" and that "those who could swim would be eaten by sharks." All in the name of "discipline"!

It must have been humiliating and it should have been. And it helped little for Gen. Pate to relate how Sgt. McKeon tried to save the recruits when they began to flounder and go down.

Gen. Pate is the responsible commander. This tragic occurrence is a blot on every superior to Sgt. McKeon and it is a blot on the record of Gen. Pate himself. As for Maj. Gen. Joseph Burger, commandant at Parris Island, he gets off lightly with no more than a change in station to command of Camp Lejeune, N.C.

If Sgt. McKeon is to be tried on charges ranging up to manslaughter ought there not be some punishment for the base commanding officer who permitted punitive drills in violation of Defense Department policies? We think there should be and we do not hesitate to say so.

Actually the facts are that the Marine Corps has been a law unto itself for many years. There could not be irresponsible, inhuman punishment of the sort that cost six lives if it were not allowed by the Marine Corps higher-ups. There could not be an established policy of such "discipline" without the knowledge and approval of commissioned officers. Obviously the Marine Corps is not run by staff sergeants alone.

This outrageous mistreatment of young Americans by the Marine Corps as a matter of practice is as good as admitted by Gen. Pate when he orders a "sweeping reorganization of recruit training, including special assignment of commissioned officers reporting directly to the commandant."

Gen. Pate makes another sad admission about the morale of the Marine Corps when he calls for "stringent reinforcement of rules against training assignments for men who make 'intemperate' use of alcohol."

Nothing the Defense Department does now, including the court martial of Sgt. McKeon, will restore the lives of the youths who drowned in the swamp when they were trying to follow the orders of a drunken platoon leader. No retribution will relieve the grief of the families on whom this black tragedy has fallen.

The only gain will need to come from resolute action in the Marine Corps to make sure that the Parris Island horror will never occur again.

President Eisenhower was a professional soldier for more than 30 years. The training, equipping and provisioning of our defense forces is the field of his special competence. We hope, that as Commander-in-Chief, he will be led by this shocking experience personally to direct Secretary of Defense Wilson to demand that every branch of service protect rather than endanger the American youths who give precious years to their country's armed forces.

The Scrupulous Gas Lobby

The head of the natural gas lobby, Maston Nixon, denies that his General Gas Committee broke any laws in lobbying for the gas bill which President Eisenhower vetoed. Mr. Nixon told the special Senate investigating committee that his group made no campaign contributions and reported its activities scrupulously.

Big organized lobbies seldom, indeed, violate the law these days. They do not have to break the law to promote their causes. For example, the $2500 which an oil lobbyist tried to donate to the campaign fund of Senator Case of South Dakota did not come from the General Gas Committee or any other organized lobby. It came from the personal funds of the head of an oil company. And an earlier Senate inquiry refused to see anything illegal about that.

What the Case incident shows is that the lobby laws are so full of loopholes that lobbyists do not need to evade them—they can drive right through them. The President, after all, did not veto the gas bill on grounds of illegality. He vetoed it because of the "arrogance" and "defiance of the acceptable standards of propriety" displayed by some of the lobbyists.

The Senate investigators may or may not find evidence of illegality, but they ought to find means for making such arrogance and impropriety illegal.

Warm Memories of Alben Barkley

Everyone whose life is better because of the New and Fair Deals owes something to Alben W. Barkley. As majority leader of the Senate under Franklin Roosevelt and Vice President with Harry Truman, he had a major part in the humanitarian reforms of both Administrations.

He summed up his own career several years ago by saying, "I have lived a full life and a good one." It was a life steadily full of youth and charm and romance, good friends, good living, a zest for all his days.

Senator Barkley was as unmistakably a Kentuckian as his fellow citizen of Paducah, Irvin S. Cobb, and as rare a story-teller. Cobb himself, boosting Barkley for the presidency in 1940 on the unassailable grounds that "it's high time we had somebody from Paducah for President," declared "Al can talk an hour and never use the same word twice or the letter 'r' once."

Barkley was always too much absorbed by a "numerosity" of things, in one of his favorite words, to be over-impressed by the number of his years. His whirlwind courtship of Jane Hadley of St. Louis for four memorable months in 1949 was as gallant as a sail in a fresh breeze—and he was 71.

Still three years later he won admiration for the gallant way in which he bore bitter defeat at the Democratic national convention where he had hoped to be nominated for President.

St. Louis has particular reason for gratitude to Alben Barkley. As chairman of the United States Territorial Expansion Commission he actively espoused the memorial to Thomas Jefferson and the pioneers of the West which is to be built upon our Mississippi riverfront.

The passing of this useful and happy man was of a piece with his life. It came almost gently as he spoke, in the full flush of his spirits, to a gathering at a famous old university, Washington and Lee, in the South he loved. The Veep—a word his grandson Stephen Truitt originated in the suggestion for improving V.P., "Why not stick in a couple of little e's?"—confessed he always got a warm feeling when he heard that title, even years after he had stepped down from the vice presidency. While public figures are often mourned in a rather impersonal sense, there are many Americans who will get a warm feeling when they hear the name Alben Barkley.

Plenty to Look Into

President Eisenhower in trying to persuade congressional leaders to accept one more year of heavy foreign aid appropriations has been urged to appoint a citizens' commission to review the program. Chances of an acceptable compromise are said to have improved following his talk with congressional leaders Monday.

A full-dress review of foreign aid is long overdue and the Administration is probably right in assuming that it would be more convincing if conducted by outsiders. Many Americans have questions about foreign aid, and this does not by any means prove that they are isolationists. For example, you can support the principle of foreign aid and still be bothered by the huge proportion of the program which goes into military projects at a time when the danger of war is said to have diminished.

Of the 4.9 billion dollars asked by the Administration for next year, three billion dollars or 60 per cent would go for weapons, equipment and training of military forces in:

France
Belgium
Spain
Turkey
Pakistan
Thailand
Viet Nam
Indonesia
Britain
Netherlands
Yugoslavia
Iran
Korea
Philippines
Laos
Latin America
Italy
W. Germany
Greece
Iraq
Japan
Formosa
Cambodia

This three billion dollars would be in addition to the 10 billion already spent for the military strengthening of Europe since 1949. It would be in addition to 4.5 billion already appropriated and now in the "pipeline" for future delivery of weapons all over the world.

The heavy emphasis on military aid developed during the Korean war, and as things looked then that emphasis was proper. But the justification for continuing the present balance will have to be better than the one Secretary Dulles gave when he told Senators that we have peace because of the program and the program must be continued if we are to go on having peace.

That is like saying that because a fire was put out by streams of water, the formerly burning building must be drenched forever.

A critic as responsible as Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana has accused the Administration of "shoddy" procedure in allocating military aid. Last year, for example, the Department of Defense obligated $700,000,000 in the last 24 hours of the fiscal year—scarcely a persuasive argument that the allocations were carefully considered. Accordingly Senator Mansfield has demanded re-examination of the premises on which military aid is dispensed, with more attention being paid to genuine needs and the defense capacities of recipient governments.

So there would be plenty for a citizens' commission to look into. The question is not whether we shall or shall not have a foreign aid program. It is whether we are distributing our efforts in the way most appropriate to present circumstances. That question is not answered by saying we should go on doing what we have been doing just because we have been doing it.

The Citizens-Tucker Ticket—III

St. Louisans can most effectively combat the covert attempt of the "Big Twelve" and other ward bosses to dictate the terms of a new City Charter by electing the 13 candidates supported by the Citizens' Committee and Mayor Tucker.

In the last two days we have discussed the qualifications of six of these 13 uncommitted candidates. Herewith are thumbnail sketches of three others. Like all candidates on this ticket they are beholden to no one.

Mel H. Krah, for example, is of a different political persuasion from that of Mayor Tucker. Now sales engineer for a blueprint company, Mr. Krah served with ability as a member of the Republican minority in the Board of Aldermen. A South-Sider, he has stood up against such community-destroying devices as spot-zoning. From the very beginning he has supported the campaign for a new Charter.

John J. Nally, another member of the Citizens-Tucker ticket, provides organized labor with a direct voice in the charter writing. He is business representative of Local 18 of the Tile Layers and Marble Masons Union. He has not previously sought either party or public office. He lives in the West End.

Henry B. Pflager, a lawyer who attended Princeton University and the Harvard Law School, has been active in civic and community affairs. He has served on the boards of the Art Museum, the Public Library, Shaw's Garden and several charitable organizations as well as president of the City-County Y.M.C.A. He is a director of General Steel Castings Corp.

Biographical material on all 45 freeholder candidates will be published in the Post-Dispatch news columns prior to the election. We believe the citizen can be most effective by voting for the Citizens' ticket, but we urge that qualifications of all the candidates be examined before the voter goes to the polls.

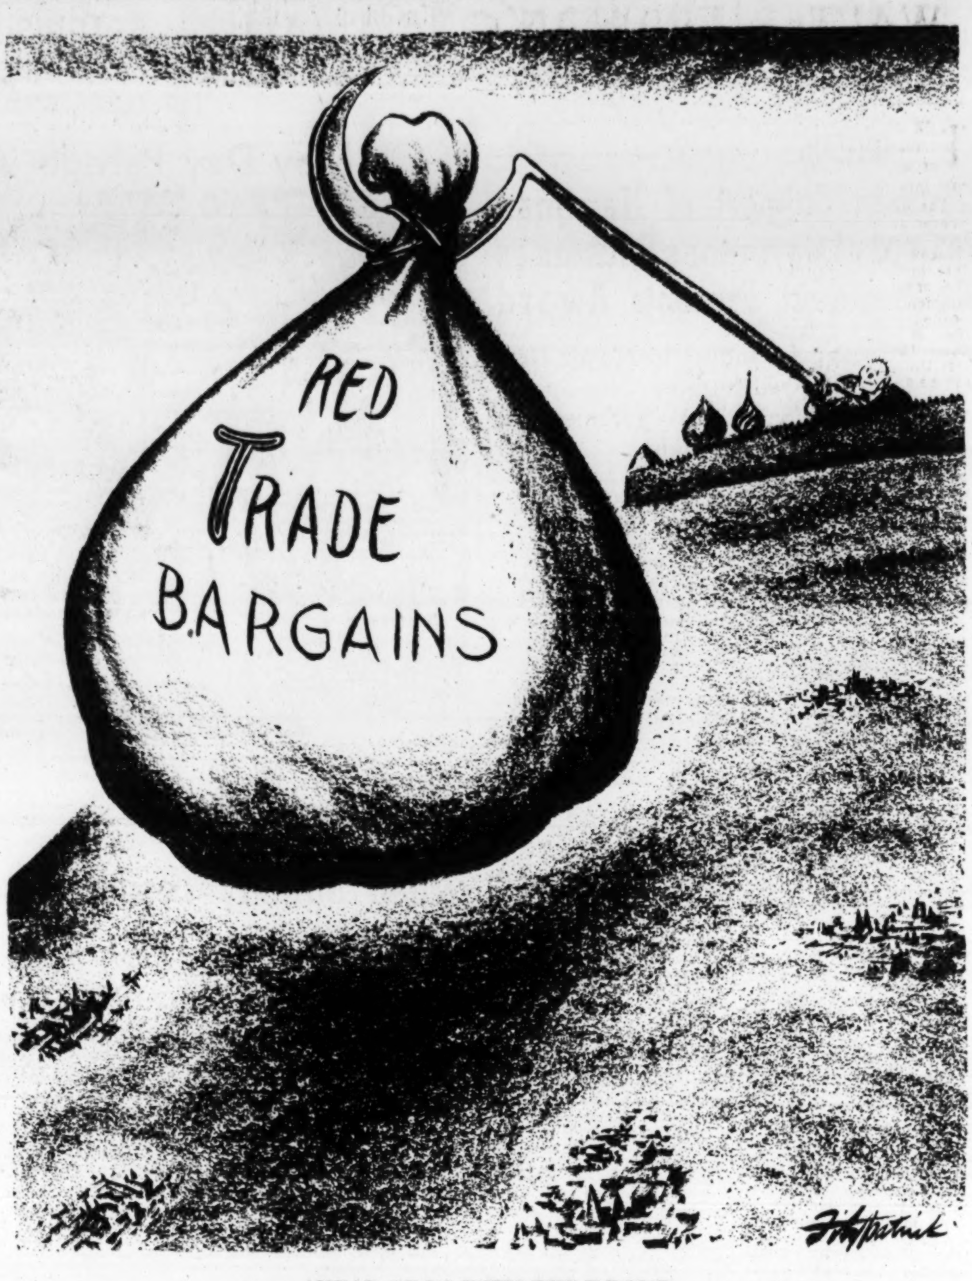
'Selective Prosperity'

Talk about prosperity is one form of production which is likely to keep on rising at least until early November. Therefore we return to J. A. Livingston's recent observations on the theme. They were non-political, business-like—and informative. Since the nation is best served by information, we recapitulate a few of them:

> Despite his veto of the fixed parity farm bill, President Eisenhower called for fixed price supports from 82.5 per cent of parity up.
>
> Eastern steel mills are setting new production records, but some steel products fabricators are laying off men. Automobile production in the Detroit area is 20 per cent under last year.
>
> Business failures are rising and new incorporations are declining. There is renewed pressure for higher prices. Business loans of member banks of the Federal Reserve System are up $5,000,000,000, or 20 per cent greater than they were a year ago.
>
> The Federal Reserve System found it necessary to raise re-discount rates, bringing the bank interest rate to about 4 per cent. The higher re-discount rate also depressed the bond market. Business men are thinking twice about new financing for expansion or to increase inventories.
>
> Overall production showed a slight decrease from February to March, and retail trade has turned sluggish.

Our economy displays many favorable aspects and some of the weak features doubtless will prove transient. Yet Mr. Livingston's observations are supported by the substantial slump in farm equipment and automobile sales, as reported by the New York Times Service. Now comes the news that here in St. Louis construction was off $9,000,000 in the first four months of 1956. These are warning signals and only the imprudent will ignore them.



AHEAD OF US WITH THE T-BOMB

Some Very Fatal Fallacies

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Traffic safety was in the news in '55 but death made headlines, report notes; despite President's S-D Day and new auto safety features, highway tragedies piled up higher than in '54; driving violations involved in most; need brainpower, not horsepower.

From the 1956 Book of Street and Highway Accident Data Published by the Travelers Insurance Companies

Safety was in the news in 1955. But death and destruction made the headlines.

With foresight and ingenuity, safety was built into our automobiles to an extent never before accomplished.

With skill and inventiveness, compelling slogans of care were broadcast through every medium of communications.

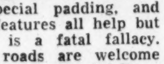
With indifference and utter unconcern, the motoring public produced the greatest number of casualties in highway history.

Because of a slight decrease in deaths and injuries in 1954, there seemed some cause for optimism. However, this proved to be another of those fatal fallacies which characterize the field of highway safety. For in 1955, we compiled the regrettable total of 37,800 deaths, an increase of 6½ per cent over 1954, and 2,158,000 injuries, an increase of 10 per cent over 1954.

Thus, the trend has reversed itself in what was the most safety-conscious year in our history.

These blunt and bloody statistics again substantiate the often repeated thesis of these booklets. In driving, there is no substitute for self-reliance.

Safety belts, special padding, and other mechanical features all help but reliance on them is a fatal fallacy. Straighter, wider roads are welcome but reliance on them is a fatal fallacy. Reliance on the other driver or pedestrian to follow the rules of the road to the letter is a fatal fallacy. And by definition, a fatal fallacy is a mistaken belief that leads to disaster.



This is not to dismiss all the advances that have been made in alleviating the seriousness of accidents. Every one of these steps is a stride in the right direction. But it is the driver's mind harnessed to his reflexes, plus his body harnessed to his seat, which is going to produce fewer accidents.

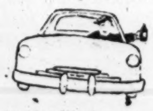
It is brainpower not horsepower; the power to steer and brake; not power steering or power braking which is the ultimate solution to the safety problem.

Again in 1955, we saw repeated the fatal fallacy of safety by decree. While the President's official S.-D. day served a worthwhile purpose in focusing attention on our distressing highway habits, it did not cause the slightest decrease in the day's casualties.

With individuals, businesses, and all media of communication emphasizing safety, the nation's motorists and pedestrians went about their business as usual. And as in 1954, S.-D. day was followed by the most devastating Christmas weekend in history.

Toward the end of 1955, a serious attempt was made in some parts of the country to penalize more drastically those who deliberately flout the law. Stricter enforcement is a welcome trend, as it places serious practical difficulties in the path of the habitually careless driver.

However, it would be a fatal fallacy to believe that punishment, any more than reward or appeal to the higher instincts of individuals is the sole solution to a mounting accident rate.



Safety is more than a slogan. It is an attitude of mind and a way of life. And as the road of all virtues is strewn with temptations, so is the path of safety. We call them fatal fallacies. The following are a few of the deadliest:

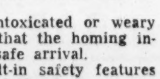
Feeling free to "pour it on" on the straightaway, no matter how clear the day, how dry the road, how straight or wide the highway.

Driving while intoxicated or weary in the vain hope that the homing instinct will assure safe arrival.

Reliance on built-in safety features to compensate for lack of care.

Believing, with the supreme confidence born of experience, that rules of the road are meant for beginners.



These are just some of the fatal fallacies which caused grievous death and injury on the highways of America in 1955. More than 80 per cent of all casualties occurred in accidents where there was some driving violation.

This leads to the inescapable conclusion that accidents do not "just happen." And to believe that avoidance in the past means immunity in the future is the most fatal fallacy of all.

A Captain 'Way Out on a Yardarm

From The Providence Evening Bulletin

A pretty pickle that salty old seafaring author, Capt. Alan Villiers, has got himself into by rescinding his offer to include women in the Mayflower crossing which a replica of that famous ship will make in commemoration of its original Pilgrim voyage in 1620.

At first he said he was willing to take some "controlled and disciplined" women along and, although the description isn't one the modern woman particularly likes to think she fits, 300 have applied. Now the captain has changed his mind, and his floundering explanation—that he doesn't want to "inflict" women on the crossing party—is certainly one destined to get him in trouble with the ladies.

To familiarize himself with crossing conditions in 1620, Captain Villiers recently made a trip to the Indian Ocean for a trial run with the Moldavian Islanders, whose ships are modeled after the old Portuguese galleons and have passenger accommodations approximating those of the Mayflower. The three days he spent with the Moldavians turned out to be a very rugged experience—"damnation grim" is the captain's description—and he implies it would have been several damns grimmer if there had been women along.

We're a little disappointed in Captain Villiers. It's hard to see how a perceptive and colorful writer can afford to pass up a chance to see how modern woman reacts to the primitive crossing conditions endured by the 40 original Pilgrim women. He may be all wrong about modern woman. The emergencies of war and disaster usually find her able to take things in stride. Could be she might make a better Mayflower crossing than Capt. Alan Villiers.

EXISTENCE, COEXISTENCE.

From The Sacramento (Calif.) Bee.

Russia's touring team, Premier Nikolai Bulganin and party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, made a strong pitch upon their arrival in London for co-existence of capitalism and Communism. In view of the H-bomb, the matter of co-existence in the sense of living together becomes secondary to existence, period.

Elephants Are Left-Handed

Scene 1: Five native children are lashed to trees. Thirty leopard-men lie sprawled around the ashes of their camp-fires. Two are gnawing on human bones. Jordan discovers them and brings them to justice.

Scene 2: The witch-doctor steps forward. He is draped about with teeth and skulls. Suddenly he thrusts out his ceremonial spear. He slashes through Jordan's thigh.

Scene 3: 1500 Nandi warriors of the Buffalo and Zebra Regiments face a thousand Elgeyo warriors. They lock in an unheralded battle to the death. Jordan is witness.

All this may remind one of "Ramar of the Jungle," but it is factual nonetheless. The natives called Jordan "Mongaso" (the Man Who Is Always Moving) and, while moving, Jordan has caught in his gun-sights nearly every animal known to Africa. These include big cats, rhino, eland, buffalo and the mysterious dingonek. He has brought down countless East African elephants while dodging German authorities. He has shot crocodiles for their three-rupee-a-head bounty until he capsized into a river full of them. He tamed a gorilla until it became quite human . . . "which may not be a compliment." He has survived an attack of malaria and the bite of a poisonous mamba. He has been near death from thirst, later from a Boer bullet.

* * *

While living through these harrowing experiences, Jordan cut a bullet-swathe across the animal world of Africa that probably nudged certain species closer to extinction, the elephant appreciably. His general knowledge of animals is impressive. He informs the reader that all elephants are left-handed (left-tusked), have a great cavity in the top of their skull, spend their lives on their feet and have perpetual indigestion. He is equally well informed about the natives and their tribes and frequently discusses the comparative bravery and skill of their warriors.

The least productive of Jordan's adventures concerns a 1916 pioneer movie expedition. After months of hardship, one death and much expense, the expedition returned with four miles of film—all underexposed.

"Elephants and Ivory" resolves itself into a series of and-then-there-was-the-time stories. These have the tone of authenticity, for the bull that Jordan shoots is actual, not idiomatic. Most writers who deal with Africa early in the century are forced to reconstruct the scene artificially. Jordan's seniority gives him a tremendous advantage. His report is first-hand and consequently first-rate. ROBERT FRIEDMAN.

Forgotten Freshness

POEMS BY CHRISTINA ROSSETTI, edited by Kathleen Jarvis. (Philosophical Library, 106 pgs., $2.75).

The purpose of this book, according to Miss Jarvis, is to re-introduce Christina Rossetti's poems to the literary scene, and stimulate renewed interest in this poet's works. Miss Jarvis contends that the neglect into which the nineteenth century poet has fallen is deplorable in the case of one who is capable of such fresh and delightful lyrics as are to be found in this volume. The selection only partially justifies her viewpoint. For there are two Rossettis; one writes fresh and delightful lyrics all right, but the other specializes in trite, depressing and somewhat dull dirges which are not worth an introduction. For the most part, however, the lyrics alone justify the price of admission.

Religious poems, which are Rossetti's trademark, are less accented in this anthology, in favor of her love and nature poems which are stimulating in their simplicity.

Soviet Advantage in Backing U.N.

THE JOINT STATEMENT given out after the London talks contains no surprises, pleasant or unpleasant, and no news of what, if anything, the British and the Russians learned that they had not known before.

The statement does, however, appear to show that there is now considerable support in Moscow for the American view that the U.N. is the proper instrument for dealing with the Middle East. The Soviet Union had already indicated this just before Bulganin and Khrushchev went to London. The joint statement now confirms it in rather clear and explicit words. It also turns what was only a unilateral declaration into an international commitment.

Khrushchev.

Pressure on Nasser.

On the record this is a decided step forward. For the question of war or peace in the Middle East is fundamentally a question of whether the Soviet Union wants or does not want Col. Nasser to embark on military adventures against Israel and against Britain.

Because of pressures from within Egypt, if for no other reason, Col. Nasser is almost certain to attempt adventures sooner or later if, on the one hand, the Soviet Union keeps sending him arms, and if, on the other hand, it interposes its own force against an Anglo-American intervention.

As against that, there is no serious risk of Nasser's trying a military adventure if the Soviet Union in the United Nations concurs in forbidding adventures.

Moscow Against War?

The question, obviously, is whether there has been a genuine shift in Soviet policy—a shift one might say, from unlimited support of a Moscow-Cairo axis to a U.N. policy of restraint and conciliation.

I do not, of course, know the answer to this question. But I can imagine strong reasons—and of the kind that would impress Moscow—for thinking that there has been a decision in Moscow to halt the drift towards war.

There is always the general argument that if a war in Palestine were allowed to start, nobody could foresee how far it would spread and whom it would involve.

But even if such a war were prevented from growing into a world war, there are compelling reasons why the Soviet Union must wish to prevent it.

They must know in Moscow that on a showdown Great Britain and the United States would intervene to prevent Col. Nasser from driving Israel into the sea, and Britain out of the Middle East.

Danger of Intervention.

They must know, too, that Anglo-American sea and air power can, if necessary dominate the Eastern Mediterranean and the Persian Gulf, and that there is nothing short of war that the Soviet Union could do to prevent it.

They must know, too, in Moscow that once the United States is forced to establish a military beachhead in the Middle East there would be little prospect of a withdrawal. The net result would be that the Soviet Union, having frivolously let the war break out, would have brought the Americans more deeply and permanently than ever before into the Middle East.

Gain in U.N. Policy.

The Soviet rulers do not, I believe, like to fool themselves, and for that reason we are entitled to believe that they mean it when they say that they will work through the U.N. to prevent war and even to find a settlement.

Not only does this avert the danger of a great war but it also averts the danger to them of our intervention in a local war. That is not all. In the U.N. policy they have won a recognition by Britain and America that the Soviet Union is a great power in the Middle East, that the Middle East is not a British-American sphere of influence from which they are excluded.

The recognition in London that Russia shares the responsibility for maintaining peace in the Middle East is, in the perspective of history, a big event. We shall be living in its many consequences from this time forward.

METHODISTS URGE END OF SEGREGATION

By JOHN T. STEWART
Church Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 2—The General Conference of the Methodist Church today recommended to all local churches and annual conferences of the 9,000,000 member body that race segregation "be abolished with reasonable speed."

With fewer than a dozen negative votes, the delegates approved a report on "church and race" submitted by the Committee on State of the Church.

The resolution from the committee was amended to insert one sentence: "Recognizing that we have not attained this goal (abolition of segregation), yet rejoicing in progress made, we recommend that discrimination or segregation by any method or practice be abolished with reasonable speed."

This amendment was a compromise on the more strongly worded amendment proposed by the Rev. Sproule Boyd of Pittsburgh, Pa. He had moved that the statement on race be amended to include a condemnation of the central, all-Negro, jurisdiction. Both the committee and the General Conference refused to accept his language.

The General Conference, after adopting a policy statement on race, took up proposals to make it easier for Negro congregations to join white conferences and jurisdictions. These proposals, which call for a change in the constitution of the Methodist Church, were being debated today.

The Methodist Church has had steady growth in all mission fields and in missionary giving in the last four years, the conference was told yesterday. The Board of Missions reported a 10 per cent growth in Methodist membership overseas, a 29 per cent increase in missionary giving by American Methodists, and a 6 per cent increase in the size of the missionary force.

Methodist membership overseas grew from 1,194,358 in 1951 to 1,347,908 in 1955. Giving to world missions rose from $6,758,966 in 1951 to $8,759,795 in 1955, and the number of missionaries increased from 915 to 972.

The Missouri delegation to the General Conference yesterday gave a luncheon in honor of Bishop Ivan Lee Holt, who is retiring after presiding over Methodist churches in the state for 12 years. Twenty-seven St. Louis delegates and visitors, including pastors and their wives, were among 66 at the luncheon.

SCOTTISH CHURCH CRITICIZES QUEEN'S RECEPTION OF REDS

LONDON, May 2 (UP)—The Free Church of Scotland denounced the British Government yesterday for making Queen Elizabeth receive "representatives from a godless and atheistic state" last week.

The Queen received visiting Soviet leaders Nikita S. Khrushchev and Nikolai Bulganin for tea. The Sunday visit already had drawn protests from other church groups before it took place.

PRESBYTERIAN INCREASE

PHILADELPHIA, May 2 (AP)—The Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. says its membership showed a net increase of 77,338 persons in 1955.

The office of the General Assembly of the church, with headquarters here, said yesterday the increase is the largest for a single year in the church's history. It brings the total membership to a record high of 2,736,241.

HELICOPTER TAKES STATUE OF CHRIST TO ST. PETER'S

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

ROME, May 2—A helicopter carried a statue of "Christ the Worker" to the top step of St. Peter's Basilica here yesterday as the Roman Catholic Church made a dramatic new effort to reestablish contact with large sections of the European working class which have given up religion and become Communists or Socialists. The demonstration was clearly intended to attract the attention of workers on May day.

The statue was carried in relays by helicopters and planes from Milan, the north Italian industrial city, where 100,000 Roman Catholic workers of Italy and of a score of other countries met in convention.

It was a gift from them to Pope Pius XII for use in the new church of "Christ the Divine Worker," which will soon be erected as a contribution from Catholic workers of the world on the occasion of the Pope's eightieth birthday.

WASHINGTON'S GOV. LANGLIE ENTERS SENATORIAL RACE

OLYMPIA, Wash., May 2 (AP)—Gov. Arthur B. Langlie today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate.

The three-term Governor's long-awaited announcement sets the stage for what is expected to be a strong Republican challenge for the seat now held by Senator Warren G. Magnuson, a Democrat. Langlie has been under party pressure to run as the only Republican generally recognized as strong enough to threaten Magnuson's long tenure.

EPISCOPAL BISHOP'S VIEW OF INTEGRATION

Dr. Lichtenberger Says Segregation Issue Is Area Where Faith Is Tested.

Segregation is unjust and unnecessary and should not be regarded with peripheral concern, but as an area "where our faith is tested," Bishop Arthur C. Litchtenberger declared yesterday at the annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri at Christ Church Cathedral.

"The Supreme Court's decision is more than a matter of law and order," he said, "for it has to do with the will of God and the welfare and destiny of human beings.

"However, when the attempt is made to conform our practices to the Christian standard, we begin to see the complexities that are involved. There are facts of history and culture which cannot be ignored and we do not hasten the process of desegregation when we try to by-pass them."

Deplores Deep South's Stand.

The Bishop deplored as "very disturbing" public opinion in the Deep South, because it is not in favor of moderation "but on the side of nullification."

"This is the meaning of the manifesto signed by 96 Congressmen; this is the course evidently now pursued by seven states," he said. "The political leaders of these states do not say give us time and we shall work this problem out, but, rather, the Supreme Court is wrong and we shall not comply."

Commenting on the retirement of Dean Sidney Sweet of the Cathedral, effective Sept. 1, Bishop Lichtenberger said:

"I am sure he has no intention of retiring from the ministry. He will be at work in the church somewhere. The contribution that Dean Sweet has made to the Cathedral, to the life of this city, and to the church at large is very great. We are thankful for his ministry and wish him many happy and effective years to come."

Commends Rector's Work.

The Rev. Roy Schaffer's work in building Trinity Church, St. Charles, from a mission with six communicants five years ago, to a self-supporting church with over 100 communicants today, was highly praised by Bishop Lichtenberger. He pointed out that the Rev. Mr. Schaffer had been a lay reader at Trinity prior to becoming the rector and had studied for the ministry while conducting the work of the parish.

A liturgical drama, "Ambassador of Fire," written and directed by the Rev. Harold Bassaga, formerly of St. Louis, now rector of Calvary Church, Columbia, Mo., was presented last night at a special service at the Cathedral. The drama portrays the life of St. Paul and members of the cast included students from the University of Missouri, Stephens College and Christian College, Columbia.

St. Augustine's Church, Bruno avenue and Blendon place, was advanced from a mission to parochial status by a vote of the convention. The Rev. Clarence F. Stolz Jr. is rector.

STORY OF NAVY'S VIKING ROCKET WELL DONE ON TV

The New York Times News Service.

NEW YORK, May 2—The story of the development of the Viking high altitude rocket, which in part led to the decision to launch a man-made satellite, was described in both dramatic and educational terms last night on the Circle Theater, (seen in St. Louis on Post-Dispatch station KSD-TV, Channel 5).

The documentary play, "73 Seconds into Space," was derived from the book of Milton Rosen, who headed the Navy group that worked on the Viking. With James Daly playing Rosen, the drama offered a step-by-step account of the heartaches and frustrations experienced by the pioneers in getting the first Viking up to a height of 50 miles. Next was the excitement of beating the record of the German V-2 rockets that were sent over London and then the final achievement of a speed and altitude that warranted research into a satellite.

Included in the recital were blackboard explanations of some of the principles of rocket propulsion and a simple illustration of the forces that would keep a satellite circling the earth. The Circle Theater is charting new fields for a commercial show.

ARCHEOLOGIST TALKS ON EARLY CHRISTIANS

Interesting excavations adding to knowledge of early Christianity were discussed yesterday by Prof. David M. Robinson of the University of Mississippi, who gave the eighth annual archeological lecture, sponsored by the Department of Classical Languages of St. Louis University, at Du Bourg Hall on the university campus.

Robinson, professor of classics and archeology at Mississippi, told of discoveries made by the University of Michigan expedition to Pisidian Antioch, an ancient buried city near modern Ankara, Turkey, in 1924. He served as director of excavations.

One of the most interesting discoveries, he said, was on the site of the first Christian cathedral, which was built in 360 A.D. The excavators found a mosaic on the floor of the central nave. It contained part of the Forty-second Psalm, in Greek characters.

The fragment of verse, which reads, "I will go unto the altar of God, To God who giveth joy to my youth," is used today in the beginning of the Catholic mass.

The name of Bishop Optimus, believed to have been in charge of the ancient cathedral, was also found in the mosaic, Robinson said. It has long been established that the disciple, Paul, came to Pisidian Antioch, and converted Greeks to Christianity, he said, and Antioch thereafter became a strong Catholic center.

"The first Christians existed in Antioch, in Israel," the speaker observed, "but the initial spread of Christianity among the Gentiles was found in Antioch, Pisidia."

Other discoveries discussed by Robinson, who served in the United States Army military intelligence division in World War I, included the temple of Augustus, built in 17 B.C.; a sculptured head of Augustus and an edict, inscribed on stone, regulating the price of food in a famine in 93 A.D.

Roberts Trigger-Man Against Vinegar Bend For 4-to-2 Buc Victory

By Bob Broeg

Tomorrow finally might have arrived today for the Pittsburgh Pirates, so recently a laughing stock, but now apt to leave the National League as wide-mouthed as their general manager's famed-comedian father.

And anyone aware of Joe E. Brown's oral cavity would recognize the cavernous amazement possible, particularly when the veteran trouper is warming up his vocal chords to lead the cheers for the young Buccos.

Just after the Pirates' tremendous double victory over Brooklyn Sunday, a bubbling-over senior Brown poured out a postmortem play-by-play to another old-time actor, the gifted Paul Muni, apparently completely uninterested, but entirely too polite to interrupt joyous Joe E.

An amused son, Joe L. Brown, handsome 36-year-old freshman general manager of the up-and-coming Corsairs, smiled as the story was related last night at Busch Stadium, where the well-traveled young executive disclosed he'd spent the entire summer of 1935. A teen-age California ball player, he'd suffered such a severe elbow break that his father bundled him off to St. Louis for treatment by the late Dr. Robert F. Hyland. And as the arm knitted slowly, the happy kid worked out with the Cardinals and Browns.

Happy Return.

Joe L. Brown hadn't been back in the ball park here until his return as Pittsburgh general manager, a triumphant return because his Pirates pushed the Cardinals out of first place in the National League, 4 to 2.

Cautiously, young Brown side-stepped a club-by-club breakdown, but he singled out the Cardinals as a probable contender because of "speed, youth, power and enough experience." And of his own club, picked to finish last a fifth straight season and a sixth time since 1950, he said confidently:

"I wouldn't be surprised if we had the best pitching in the National League."

After having seen five of those hurlers and troubling them for only seven hits, the Cardinals well might agree. Failure of the Redbird attack to bother a Pittsburgh staff that has allowed only as many as seven runs once in 12 starts—the young Bucs are at .500—was largely responsible for the end of a three-game Redbird winning streak.

Hindsight and Hindrances.

Unwise baseline coaching cost the Cardinals a run and Manager Fred Hutchinson, who has had an early gift for making the right pitching move at the right time, was inclined to second-guess himself for a step he didn't take. But, basically, the Cards didn't disturb the enemy hurling enough to merit victory, though defeat was bitter because the Redbirds led as late as the eighth and were tied going into the ninth.

Unfortunately, though, Vinegar Bend Mizell, while able to survive the shock of 12 blows by a banjo-hitting ball club that has ripped off 42 safeties in three straight victories, couldn't turn back Curt Roberts, stocky little Pirate second baseman.

The bespectacled leadoff man lifted a third-inning triple to the pavilion screen, setting up a run driven home by Dick Groat, and in the ninth with two on and two out he whacked a decisive two-run double off the right-center field wall.

The Cardinals, well handled by lefty Dick Littlefield, scored in the second on hot-hitting Ken Boyer's first of three singles, a base hit by Wally Moon and a force play. And they took a 2-1 lead that apparently should have been at least a run larger in the sixth when Red Schoendienst and Stan Musial opened with back-to-back doubles and Boyer singled.

Living Too Dangerously.

On Boyer's single, however, Musial was thrown out at the plate by Lee Walls, Pittsburgh right fielder. Hutchinson explained that Coach Johnny Hopp, who sent Stan in, had thought the ball "was hit slower." Regardless, with none out it was a reckless decision.

Because Mizell had a blazing fast ball as a money pitch, the Pirates still had scored only once until the eighth. Then with two out Vinegar had a touch of misfortune, his manager disclosed. His spikes caught and he slipped pitching to Frank Thomas, who socked a soft pitch for a single and scored the tying run on Walls's long double to right-center.

When Mizell fired a called strike past George Freese for a second out in the ninth, he had fanned nine and, though troubled with his curve ball, hadn't walked a man. However, after Jack Shepard singled, Vinegar passed pinch-hitter Bobby Del Greco.

In retrospect, the way Hutchinson saw it, that's where the hook should have come out, but ageless Ellis Kinder wasn't his man of the moment in the bullpen, and, besides, in Hutch's judgment Vinegar Bend still had his high, hard one.

So Mizell pitched, Roberts hit and the improved Pittsburgh Pirates, who'll break many a heart this season for the combination of Joe L. Brown, general manager, and Bobby Bragan, field manager, again knew how it felt to laugh instead of being laughed at.

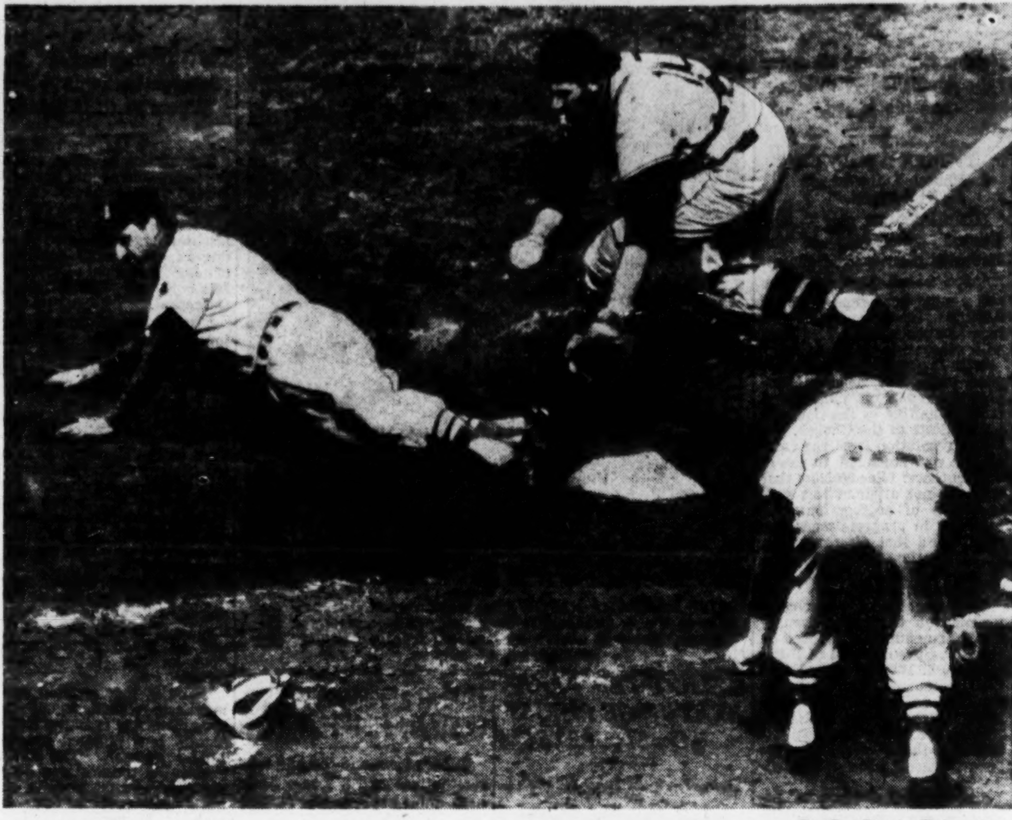
Cardinals' Bid for Big Inning Flops



—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Super Scramble: 3 Pitchers, 5 Pinch Hitters, and No Runs

The shoot-the-works strategy of present-day baseball was emphasized in the Cardinals' ninth inning last night at Busch Stadium, where the Pittsburgh Pirates used three pitchers and the Redbirds five pinch-hitters and a pinch-runner, but didn't score.

With the Pirates toting a 4-2 lead into the home ninth, former Redbird George (Red) Munger, replacing eventual winner Elroy Face, who'd gone out for a pinch-batter, retired Ken Boyer on a pop fly. Solly Hemus, batting for Rip Repulski, then was called out on a third strike he protested so heatedly Plate Umpire Bill Engeln thumbed him out of the game.

Now, Hutchinson chose Walker Cooper to bat for Bill Virdon, an announced substitution that prompted Bragan to switch from Donoso to right-hander Vernon Law. The last move was Hutch's and he selected left-handed-hitting Joe Cunningham to swing for Cooper.

With a "3-2" count Cunningham tried to check his swing on a pitch and tapped to Law, ending the ball game and mental hijinks.

In tonight's second and final game of the series, southpaw Harvey (1-0) Haddix of the Cardinals and right-hander Ronnie (1-1) Kline of the Pirates probably will be the starting pitchers.

Munger, 37 and his red hair graying at the temples, explained his Pittsburgh comeback by saying, "I can get the knuckler over now." The former Redbird pitcher has daughters 17, 12 and 3 and a son 6. His oldest girl, he said, recently was married . . . Munger agreed with Hutchinson that Milt Smith, Seattle infielder obtained from Cincinnati for 1957 delivery in exchange for left-hander Paul La Palme, had an excellent big league chance.

The Cardinals, still feeling the effects of their Milwaukee layoff, failed to hit even though the entire club took a late-morning batting practice after arriving on an 8 a.m. train. . . . Pittsburgh's third-inning run broke a string of 20 consecutive scoreless innings built by Redbird pitchers. . . . With three more base knocks, Ken Boyer is back at .500 with 19 hits in only 10 games. . . . Bragan said he hoped Lee Walls or Preston Ward would provide the third punch man Pittsburgh desperately needs to go with Frank Thomas and Dale Long. . . . Only 6331 attended in chilly, threatening weather . . . a light rain fell in the first inning and General Manager Frank Lane immediately directed that the grandstand be opened to unprotected bleacher customers.—B.B.

St. Louis U. High handed Webster Groves a dual meet golf defeat at Westborough Country Club yesterday. The Junior Bills, with Joe Duffy and Bill Cochran each turning in 38s, whipped the Statesman, 251 to 265.

Webster, which saw its streak of 76 straight matches snapped last week by University City, was paced by Rich Bates, with 37.

Sid Salomon Jr., shot 39 to lead Country Day past Principia, 223 to 230, in a high school golf match at Lakeside.

Soldan had a double winner in each division as it defeated Central, 103 to 93, in a dual track meet. Julian Tate took the senior sprints, while Jack Parker won the junior high jump and the 880-yard run.

Clayton gained its fourth straight Suburban League golf victory, defeating Kirkwood, 256-272 at Crystal Lake. Larry Ziegler had a two under par 35 to pace the winners.

Dick Adams scored 18 points as C.B.C. defeated St. Louis U. High, 125⅔ to 87⅓ in a dual meet on the C.B.C. field. Adams won both hurdles and high jump and finished second in the broad jump. Jerry Wilkes, Billiken Junior ace, established a new C.B.C. record with a toss of 55 feet 5 inches in the shot-put.

Corky Dedrick and Bill Corrington each scored 15 points to lead John Burroughs to a 71-42 track victory over Brentwood.

British Driver Dies; Italian Auto Race Death Toll Is Six

RAVENNA, Italy, May 2 (UP)—John Heath, a British driver who was injured in Italy's Mille Miglia automobile race Sunday, died today, sending the death toll for the event to six.

Heath, a 41-year-old native of Wybridge who lived in London, left the road on a curve at Gloria Di Mezzano, 13 kilometers from here.

Kentucky Star Cliff Hagan Is Newest Hawk

By Harold Flachsbart

One star after another is being added to the Hawks' roster for next season's National Basketball Association warfare. The latest addition, announced today, is Kentucky's famous Cliff Hagan, acquired by the St. Louis club on a straight cash transaction from the Boston Celtics.

Hagan, two-time All-America under Adolph Rupp before he went into the service, will join such current collegiate stars as Willie Naulls of U.C.L.A., Darrell Floyd of Furman, Norm Stewart of Missouri, Robin Freeman of Ohio State and Julius McCoy of Michigan State at the Hawks' training camp next fall.

There's been quite a bit of horse trading between the Boston and St. Louis clubs this spring, but Owner Ben Kerner of the Hawks said the Hagan purchase had nothing to do with the deal in which the Celtics' Easy Ed Macauley of St. Louis U. Billiken fame was added to the Hawks' roster in exchange for their No. 1 draft choice, Bill Russell of the San Francisco Dons. Purchase price of Hagan, a 6-foot-4 so-called "middle man" in pro basketball parlance, was not divulged. "Big" men are over 6-5, "little" men around 6-2.

The 210-pound Kentucky stalwart, whose home is Corbin, Ky., same as that of Frank Selvy, another Hawk of both collegiate and professional fame, currently is a second lieutenant at Andrews Air Force Base, Washington, D. C. But he will be released from the service before the next N.B.A. season gets under way.

At Kentucky Hagan was a member of two Southeastern championshop teams, one of which wound up with a perfect regular-season record of 25 victories and no defeats. He was everybody's All-America in 1954, just as was Bob Pettit, the Hawks' 1956 N.B.A. individual scoring champion and most valuable player in the circuit, and Selvy, the former Furman flash who scored an amazing total of 2538 points in his college days.

Frank Ramsey, an equally famous teammate of Hagan at Kentucky along with Lou Tsioropoulos, also is expected to be in the N.B.A. this season, property of the Celtics.

In 1953-54, Hagan's last year at Kentucky, he scored 600 points in 25 games for an average of 24, seventeenth best in the country in a year in which Selvy led with a record 41.7 average and Pettit was second. Floyd, one of the Hawks' recent draftees, also was in the upper 20 — ahead of Hagan — that season with a 24.3 average.

Billiken Lead Dies Out, 9-7

Early prosperity faded away in the late innings for the St. Louis University baseball team yesterday, and a visiting Arkansas State University nine made off with a 9-to-7 victory.

The Billikens led, 7 to 0, at the end of four innings. Arkanhas State scored in every inning thereafter, and its best frame was a three-run ninth that secured the game. A walk, a sacrifice, an error, a fielder's choice and a single went into the deciding scoring. Bob Howard homered for Arkansas State in the sixth.

Fabius's Victory in Trial Not Scaring Anyone Out of Derby

In the Ozarks
With Stokely

By Z. Lee Stokely
Ozark Sportsman and Outdoors Writer.

"I envy not him that eats better meat than I do; nor him that is richer, or that wears better clothes than I do; I envy him, and him only, that catches more fish than I do. . . ."

—Izaak Walton—The Compleat Angler, 1653.

The avid angler of today still subscribes to Walton's philosophy. Many will avow that the catching of fish is of secondary importance and that their only desire is to find a "shady brook in the wilderness" where they can find outdoor exercise and relaxation. But the crowds will always throng to the best fishing spots, and the boys who disclaim the fact that productive angling is of any particular importance will have a tackle box full of lures and an expensive rod and reel—just in case.

The beetle-browed caveman speared fish with a sharpened stick, and even fly-tying was in vogue in Macedonia soon after the Christian era. Aeolian, in 100 A.D., speaks of a fish of "speckled coloring" (possibly the brook trout) that was caught in the Astraeus River on artificial flies. "They wrap dark red wool around a hook and tie onto it two feathers which grow under the wattles of a cock and resemble wax in color," he said. "The fishing rod is six feet in length and the line the same. When the tricky fly is lowered a fish is attracted by the color and rises madly at the pretty thing. . . ."

Minnow of Walton's Day.

Walton, nearly 300 years ago, described an "artificial minnow . . . made by a handsome woman that had a fine hand. . . . The body of the minnow was cloth, and wrought upon or over it thus with a needle; the back of it with very sad French green silk, and paler green silk toward the belly, shadowed as perfectly as you can imagine, just as you see a minnow; the belly was wrought also with a needle, and it was a part of it white silk, and another part of it with silver thre(a)d, the tail and fins were of a quil(l), which was shaven thin, the eyes were of two little black beads, and the head was so shadowed, and all of it so curiously wrought, and so exactly dissembled that it would beguile any sharpe-sighted trout in a swift stream . . . for note a large trout will come as fiercely at a minnow, as the highest mettle hawk doth seize on a partridge, or a greyhound on a hare."

No doubt this artificial minnow would still "beguile any sharpe-sighted trout" or wary bass or cautious jack salmon even today if a "handsome woman" or even an ordinary seamstress could construct it according to Walton's specifications.

The lures of 1956, of which there are literally thousands, are modern trade-mark variations of those that were in vogue—some of them from time immemorial. Often their trade-names are more attractive to the fishermen than the lures are to the fish. The first trolling spoon was a real spoon, or rather the bowl of one, dessert size, with a hole in one end for the line, and a single hook attached to the other end. The first pearl wobblers were cut from small mussel shells and fashioned after the trolling spoon.

Fancy Names 50 Years Ago.

The "Little Wonder" of 50 years ago had a propeller fore and aft, and a bucktail terminal with treble hooks thrown in for good measure. "The Champion," "The Coaxer" and "The Roamer" were also trade-names of that era, proving that fishing tackle manufacturers were aware, even then, of the allure of the fanciful-named lure to the angling trade. A writer of that day was slightly dubious of their value when he said: "Some of these resemble minnows, but as a rule they do not imitate any living creature, differing in this way from the fly, but are probably mistaken by the fish for live creatures. Anyway the fish attack them and some of these baits have proved very successful."

Fishery biologists are constantly experimenting with innovations to further the knowledge of fish habits and to increase their numbers for the 18,000,000 anglers who are spending some $40,000,000 for fishing licenses. Many state commissions are simplifying the fishing codes and abolishing nuisance regulations that merely serve to plague and confuse the anglers. Several states have declared year-around open seasons on all streams and lakes and a few have even abolished the size and creel limits.

Many tackle manufacturers have abandoned the bamboo rods of yesterday and the so-called "glass rods" are taking their place. Spinning rods and reels have soared in sales in the past few years and some bait manufacturers even maintain marine laboratories equipped with game fish to prove the value of new lures they expect to place on the counters of fishing tackle stores. State and federal hatcheries are working overtime to supply the demand for fish and more fish. Huge fishing lakes are being built by commissions in nearly all of the 48 states.

"The Compleat Angler" would find complete satisfaction in the efforts expended today in furthering the well-being of his favorite pastime. And he, too, like his modern counterparts, would fervently envy those "gentlemen of the angle" who caught more fish than he did.

17 Listed Probable Starters

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

LOUISVILLE, May 2—A colt with the name of a Roman general and the blood of a million-dollar racer is the Derby Trial winner but he wasn't scaring many horses out of Saturday's rich race.

Fabius, son of Citation, strengthened the picture for famed Calumet Farm in the one-mile Trial yesterday but when the running was over, some 17 horses still rated as probable starters for the Kentucky Derby.

As of today, the list of "probables" had grown from a dozen to the following 17:

Needles, Fabius, Pintor Lea, Career Boy, Head Man, Countermand, Terrang, Count Chic, High King, Black Emperor, No Regrets, Reaping Right, Invalidate, Ben A. Jones, Jean Baptiste, Besomer and Come On Red.

Even the Joneses — Ben A. and son Jimmy—were not so certain that Fabius would be the horse to bring Calumet its sixth Derby winner. The successes began with Whirlaway in 1941 and continued with Pensive, Citation, Ponder and Bill Gail.

"Fabius may not want to run a mile and a quarter (the Derby distance)," said Jimmy and Ben seemed inclined to hope that Fabius's stablemate, Pintor Lea, would shape up as a companion starter. Jimmy will saddle both colts.

On a track that was barely fast, Fabius gained a single length victory over Brandywine Stable's Countermand in the Trial, covering the mile from the backstretch chute in 1:36 3-5.

This ranked as fifth best time in the 19 runnings of the Trial but didn't come close to the track record of 1:35 set by Hasty Road in the Trial two years ago.

History Says No.

Hasty Road didn't win the Derby. In fact only Citation (1948), Hill Gail (1952) and Dark Star (1953) went on from the test to capture the grandest racing crown of all.

Eddie Arcaro and Head Man, teaming up for C. V. Whitney who currently is expected to start Career Boy, too, were a length behind Fabius in the Trial and once again a disappointment as they have been in earlier Derby tune-ups.

It was Head Man's first official defeat as a three-year-old because Golf Ace's foul gave Head Man the Wood Memorial. Following this late setback, Trainer Syl Veitch was hoping Career Boy would be ready Derby day.

"Career Boy seemed sound when he breezed in a morning workout," Veitch said, as he admitted his disappointment in Head Man.

As a result of the Trial both Countermand and Hasty House Farm's fourth-place Black Emperor gained stature because of strong bids down the stretch. In addition, the trainers of all but two or three others in the field of 10 saw enough to maintain their intention of entering the Derby. Entries close tomorrow.

Even those handling horses that did not run in the Trial saw nothing to dim their hopes and one of the most outspoken was Lloyd Lawson, Springfield, Mo., native, who directs the fortunes of Dino Lozzi's Count Chic.

Counts on Count Chic.

"I think Count Chic has a good chance and I think everybody will find that out Saturday," said Lawson, who spotted Count Chic for Lozzi in a claiming race.

Lozzi, a Seattle restaurant owner who tends the bar and tables while his wife helps with the cooking, claimed Count Chic for $6500 at Bay Meadows last Sept. 27, and so far, as a three-year-old, the son of Count Speed has earned $59,925. He finished second only three-quarters of a length behind Needles in the Florida Derby.

If as many as 15 horses go to the post Saturday, this will be the richest of all $125,000-added Kentucky Derby classics. As of the moment, it appears the field may reach that number.

Creating this outlook is a lack of commanding standouts among the top candidates. Needles, still ranking as the favorite, has been such a wilfully balky colt in workouts, that it seems possible somebody will have to stand behind him with a pitch fork when they start the Derby.

But nobody doubts that Needles can run, once he knows he's really in a race. It's just that he hasn't been in one for some six weeks.

"I think he'll run just as well as he did when he set the record at Gulfstream," said the D. and H. Stable trainer Hugh Fontaine. "I know six weeks is a long time between races, but Needles had about the same period, five weeks, between winning the Flamingo and Florida Derby."

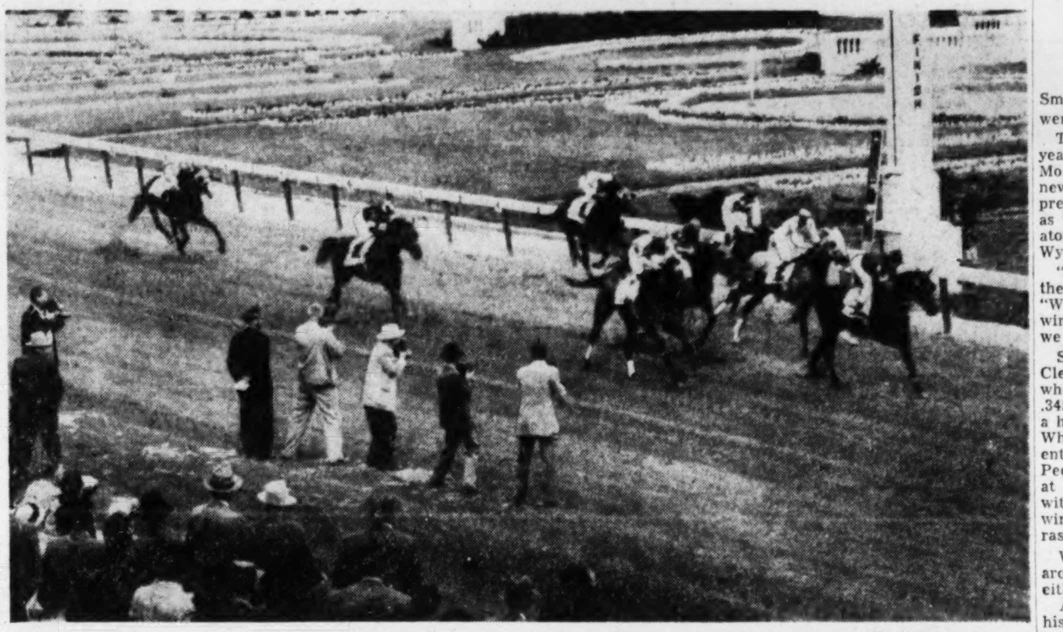
Rival Derby Candidates Chase Fabius in Trial



—United Press Telephoto

The margin of victory of Fabius in the important Derby Trial at Churchill Downs was so small (one length) that trainers of other Kentucky Derby candidates take new hope. As Fabius crosses the finish line with WILLIE HARTACK up, Countermand is second and Head Man third.

N.C.A.A. Slaps Down 3 Colleges; More Severe Penalties Coming

NEW ORLEANS, May 2 (UP)—Stiff penalties were expected to be handed out to a number of colleges and universities today by the National Collegiate Athletic Association under its new announced "get tough policy" on rule violators.

Walter Byers, executive director of the N.C.A.A., said that the stiffer penalties will be levied against institutions that violated rules after June 9, 1955, under a stepped-up enforcement program that went into effect on that date.

The N.C.A.A. council, which slapped penalties on three institutions yesterday, indicated that more would be handed out today and that they would be against schools who violated rules after the last June 9 date. Hence stiffer penalties were expected.

The three punished by the N.C.A.A. yesterday—Texas A. and M., Kansas U. and Mississippi College—were for violations prior to June 9, 1955, but not imposed until now.

Officials declined to say what schools would be given penalties today, but one said "some of them are not small fry and there are several of them."

It was believed that Ohio State, which was given a year's probation by the Big Ten last week, and Auburn, which was taken to task by the Southeastern Conference earlier this year over football recruiting practices, would be included.

No Post-Season Games.

A. and M. was placed on probation for a year and 13 days and its athletic teams prohibited from participating in N.C.A.A. championship and invitational events, including post-season football games, for violating N.C.A.A. football recruiting and financial rules.

The action, however, does not interfere with A. & M.'s regular season schedule games or conference championships or tournaments.

Kansas and Mississippi College were placed on one-year probation for violating basketball by-laws. Neither was forbidden to participate in tournaments and post-season events.

In explaining the stiffer penalty policy, Byers said when the enforcement program was authorized in 1952, the council moved slowly at first "to see how the program shook down."

Then in May, 1954, the council sent out a memo called a certificate of compliance. All member institution presidents, athletic directors and allied conference commissioners were asked to review N.C.A.A. rules with their staffs. They were asked to advise the N.C.A.A. that their institutions and conferences were complying with the rules and that they intended to maintain compliance with them.

"By June, 1955, we felt the enforcement program had reached maturity," Byers said. "It seemed to us that there should be less violations necessary because everyone should have known by then what the rules were. So, we decided after June 9, 1955, that violators should be treated more severely than before."

Paid Bonus for Signing.

Presumably the stiffer penalties would be levied by imposing a series of them. The council has the authority to levy any penalty short of expelling and suspending a member.

The probation on A. & M. goes to May 14, 1957, the date a two-year probation previously imposed by the Southwest Conference, ends.

The conference also ruled A. & M. could not participate in post-season events, although there had been rumors that that bar would be lifted at a May 12 meeting.

In handing out the punishment, the council said A.&M. in April, 1955, offered financial aid in excess of that allowed by the conference and N.C.A.A.: That a representative of the college in April, 1955, gave a prospective athlete a cash payment to sign a letter of intent to enroll at the school, and that the institution allowed the athletic council, instead of the faculty scholarship awards committee, to handle the grants-in-aid to the athletes.

The council said the college officials actually did not know that it was violating rules when they allowed the athletic council to administer the grants-in-aid and said that had been corrected.

Kansas, the council said, violated N.C.A.A. regulations when a staff member of the university provided round trip transportation to a prospective athlete, and when a friend of the school offered the same student aid in excess of that permitted by the N.C.A.A. and the Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

The council said Mississippi College allowed an outside foundation to provide financial assistance to three student athletes when the aid was required to be administered by the institution itself.

At Lawrence, Kan., Dr. Forest C. Allen, retiring basketball coach at Kansas, admitted he was the staff member involved and said the prospective student was Kent Bryant, a former Kansas City high school basketball star. But he said he didn't know at the time he was violating N.C.A.A. rules. Bryant did not enter K.-U. because he failed to pass entrance examination.

Why Deny College Football Is Pro? Asks Buckeye Paper

COLUMBUS, O., May 2 (UP).

THE Ohio State University newspaper suggested editorially today that the university cast aside the "mask of hyprocrisy" and "pay football players."

The editorial in the Ohio State Lantern, entitled "Yes We Are Guilty," said the university should put college football on a professional basis.

"Our crime was two-fold," the paper said in reference to the recent Big Ten action in placing Ohio State on probation.

"We allowed players to accept money for work they had not done.

"We are guilty. No one in official position questions that inescapable fact."

"Call a spade a spade," the newspaper suggested. Take off the blinders . . . Why not put college football on a professional basis . . . In name as well as fact?"

The editorial expressed a belief the Big Ten, in its action against the Buckeyes, was looking for a scapegoat.

Daily Double At Fairmount Refunds $379

A pair of long shots, Texas Collins, which paid $29.80 in the first race and Night Fog ($15.60) in the second, combined to make up a $379.20 for $2 daily double on the second night of Fairmount Park's racing meet.

Texas Collins, with J. W. Wells up, took the lead entering the stretch to beat Little Andy B, a field horse, by a length. Night Fog won from Justa Ray by half a length.

Solero Jr., owned and trained by W. S. Harding, beat Law Shifter by a head in the six-furlong feature. The winner was piloted by R. E. Young, who also won with I Froo in the fourth.

Indians Win on Al Smith's 3 Hits and Wynn's Hurling

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 2 (UP)—Al Lopez claims "as Al Smith goes so go the Indians"—and both Smitty and Cleveland were going great guns today.

To hear Lopez talk, the 28-year-old Smith of Kirkwood, Mo., has become Cleveland's new "key man" and that was pretty much the story last night as the Indians nipped the Senators, 3-2, with the help of Early Wynn's seven-hit pitching.

"Smith is our best hitter in the clutch," Lopez insists. "When he doesn't hit, we won't win. And when he does hit, we do."

Smith collected three of Cleveland's nine hits last night while boosting his average to .345 and the Indians to within a half-game of the second-place White Sox. He led off the seventh inning with a homer off Pedro Ramos that tied the score at 2-all, then opened the ninth with a double and scored the winning run on Chico Carrasquel's sacrifice fly.

Although he has admitted his heart isn't altogether in his work because of recurrent reports that he is on the trading block, he pitched brilliantly in striking out nine men, walking only one and racking up his third straight triumph.

The Baltimore Orioles knocked the Chicago White Sox out of first place in the American League by beating them, 3-2, in 11 innings. Four errors caused Chicago's downfall and it was the last one, a wild throw by relief pitcher Dixie Howell in the eleventh, that allowed Bob Boyd to score from second base with the winning run. What hurt Manager Marty Marion most was that his White Sox hadn't committed a single error in any of their previous six games. Relief Pitcher George Zuverink was credited with the triumph.

The Yankees took over first place with a 9-2 victory over the Tigers as Mickey Mantle and Hank Bauer hit home runs and Whitey Ford posted his third straight complete game victory with a seven-hitter. Steve Gromek started for Detroit but departed in the fifth after giving up seven runs on as many hits.

A perfect squeeze bunt by Joe DeMaestri brought in the winning run in the eighth inning for the Athletics in a 3-2 triumph over the Red Sox. Lou Kretlow hurled a seven-hitter in gaining the decision over Bob Porterfield. Dick Gernert homered with one on for Boston in the second inning.

Milwaukee moved atop the National League with a 6-4 victory over Philadelphia. Reliefer Dave Jolly pitched his way out of a bases-loaded, none out situation in the seventh inning and kept the Phillies throttled after that to notch the victory. Eddie Mathews walloped a two-run homer off Murry Dickson, who went down to his third straight defeat.

The Cincinnati Redlegs stretched their winning streak to five games in beating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3-1, behind Johnny Klippstein's six-hit pitching.

Klippstein, who defeated the Dodgers four times last year, was in frequent hot water because of seven walks but bore down and pitched his way out of the jams. Rookie outfielder Frank Robinson homered in the first inning off loser Carl Erskine.

Willie Mays clouted two triples, drove in one run and scored another in leading the Giants to a 2-1 triumph over the Cubs. Jim Hearn give up four hits and struck out five batters in registering the victory over Warren Hacker. Don Hoak homered for Chicago.

Owen Pitches One-Hitter in Chaminade Win

The leaders continued to display strong pitching in the Suburban League as the distance between the first and second divisions widened. Normandy moved into at least temporary possession of first place, with previous co-leader Ritenour playing in a state tournament game, by beating Wellston, 9 to 0. Bob Rister held Wellston to just three hits as the Vikings ran their league record to 7 and 0. Ritenour is second with 6 and 0.

The other teams with record over .500, Brentwood and Webster Groves, also moved ahead with three-hit pitching performances. Sid Kaufmann of Brentwood defeated University City, 3 to 0, and Blake Reed was Webster Groves's pitcher as the Statesmen defeated Ferguson, 3 to 1.

Ladue came up with six runs in the last of the seventh to defeat Maplewood, 8 to 7, and Kirkwood achieved its first victory in league play by topping St. Charles, 14 to 7.

A freshman, John Owen, hurled a one-hitter for Chaminade as the Flyers won a Catholic League game from St. Francis de Sales, 1 to 0. Bob Baer, St. Francis's pitcher, gave up only five hits.

In the Catholic Athletic Conference, basketball star Bill O'Brien drove in three runs with a bases-loaded single as Mercy handed DeAndries its first league loss, 5 to 4.

St. Mary's defeated Laboure, 7 to 1, and McBride downed DuBourg, 7 to 4.

Granite City and Madison played 12 innings to a scoreless tie in a non-league match at Madison. Bill Diak of Granite allowed three hits, while Madison's Onesky gave up only two.

Bill Harton of Belleville Cathedral, who pitched a no-hitter last week, permitted just three hits as he shut out Assumption, 4 to 0.

U. City Women's Golf.

Mrs. Dan Siegel had a 49 for low gross honors in the weekly competition of the University City Women's Golf Association. Mrs. Irene Bushman shot a 53 and Mrs. Joy Sosna a 54 for the nine holes.

Comfort Gives Don Faurot an Eyeful in Meet

By Harold Tuthill

Ever since Don Faurot of Old Mizzou recently had his interest in track aroused by the bulging muscles of Jerry Wilkes, St. Louis U. High shot-putter who has said he would enroll at Missouri next fall, the Tiger coach has kept an eye on St. Louis area huskies who can run fast or do well in field events.

Faurot was here yesterday, "just passing through," he said, and he showed up at University City where the Indians of Henry Schemmer were holding trials for their nineteenth annual track meet for Suburban schools.

Faurot was enthusiastic about the prospects of the Tigers for the forthcoming football season, less than five months away, after the Gold-White spring windup Saturday at Columbia.

"There's no question those Webster Groves boys—Kuhlmann, James and St. Pierre—are going to help us," Faurot said. "Kuhlmann is big, James has the breakaway power we need and St. Pierre should be a good quarterback under the T formation.

Comfort Does His Stuff.

"What many people fail to realize," Faurot continued, "is that we had a season in which seven games were decided by one touchdown. We lost six of them, but a caught pass here or there and it might have been a different story."

The veteran coach admitted to more than passing interest in husky Bill Comfort, the hurdler who also carries his 192 pounds well in a football suit. The fleet Indian, probably the best hurdler in all the metropolitan area, had the best qualifying time in the highs, being clocked in 15.4s in the second heat.

Comfort also anchored the half mile relay team with the fastest time, 1m. 34.1s. and he placed third in the discus trials so the U. City product should be a sure point-getter in Saturday's finals.

Other outstanding seniors included Kirkwood's Bob Silver, first in the discus and broad jump; Webster's Jim Malloy, fastest in the 100; Clayton's Bob Barnes, the district's best quartermiler; and Kirkwood's Kent Overby, who paced the mile qualifiers.

Ladue Juniors Star.

Ladue supplied the leading juniors as John Camie had the best time in the 100, 10.8s., Mike Bottom in the 440, 54.0s., Jim Brown in the low hurdles, 14.7s. and the relay team of Camie, Brown, Jim Portmann and Bottom negotiated the 880 yards in 1m. 34.9s.

The 880 relay time beat the meet's record for the event, University City record-checkers reported. The Maplewood relay team of 1948 set a junior division record of 1m. 35.7s. Ladue's time ties the District record set by University City's 1954 junior relay team.

The best distance in the shotput was recorded by Bill Neuman, Maplewod, 51 ft., 10 in.

Sumner Upsets Ritenour in State Tourney

Chism Is Standout In Victory

By John J. Archibald

Wes Chism, a husky senior who can deliver a solid hit or a bone-rattling slide when it is needed most, made the difference yesterday as Sumner knocked favored Ritenour out of the state high school baseball tournament in 11 innings, 6 to 5.

Sumner's victory completed the first round. Now Coach Louis McKinnie's Bulldogs will play unbeaten Beaumont sometime this week in a District Four semifinal.

There was little to choose between the two teams that struggled for nearly three and one-half hours on the cold Forest Park diamond yesterday, except for the fact that Ritenour couldn't come up with a hero. Both teams made errors and both came up with sparkling plays at crucial moments. Standout relief pitching came to the aid of the two starting hurlers, yet neither team had a monopoly on poor plays.

Chism to the Fore.

But Sumner had Chism. It was Chism who finally broke up the game with a bases-loaded, two-out single in the last of the eleventh, but he was a Bulldog standout many times before that.

In the third inning Chism got the first of his three hits. When Palmer Hubbard followed him with an apparent single into right field, Chism got a glimpse of the outfielder juggling the ball and sprinted all the way around to score his team's first run.

Then in the seventh, when Sumner came up with three runs to tie Ritenour and send the game into extra innings, it was Chism on the loose that did the trick. He came through with the third straight hit of the inning, driving in Tyrone Cox and sending James Buchanon to third. Buchanon didn't stop at third, however, but instead barreled on in for home.

The relayed throw had Buchanon by several feet, but the husky outfielder crashed into Catcher Jerry Marting with such force that he dropped the ball. That made the score: Ritenour 5, Sumner 4. Ritenour's No. 1 hurler, Andy Reed, then relieved Fred Helmering.

Hubbard, the next batter, grounded to second base, but while he was being thrown out Chism made a daring dash for third. The move surprised Ritenour and Chism slid in safely on a close play.

That Mr. Chism Again.

Ken Ewing missed the pitch on an attempted squeeze play and Chism, coming down the line, appeared trapped. He sprinted back and forth in a run-up for a moment with Sumner's hopes riding with him. Finally he made one last charge for home plate. Pitcher Reed took the ball in time to tag Chism, but the 185-pound catcher-outfielder plowed in with such force that the ball again was knocked loose, and the game was tied.

After the dust had settled Reed pitched to only nine men in the next three innings.

Reed began the eleventh by walking the first batter, however. He struck out the next man, but another walk and an infield single loaded the bases. Reed worked to a 3-and-1 count on Buchanon before striking him out. But Chism, the next batter, let only one pitch go past him, then whacked the ball into left field to end the game.

Clyde Lee gained the victory, and deserved it. He came in with two on and none out in the fifth inning and although he allowed two hits in that frame, he pitched scoreless ball the rest of the way. In seven complete innings, Lee permitted one run and four hits.

Sodemann Post Leads.

John Windler's 589 series helped the Sodemann Post five beat the Navy "A" Post, 2827 to 2802, to take a 19-pin lead end of the first four of the eight-game series to decide the American Legion League tenpin championship at Mueller's Recreation. Final block takes place Tuesday night. Jess Thompson's 199 and Leo Pappe's 535 was tops for Navy.

Roosevelt Nine Nips Cleveland In Extra Round

Cleveland and Roosevelt, those perennial South Side rivals, had another ding-dong affair yesterday which the Rough Riders of Irl Lake won in extra innings, 6 to 5, to hand Cleveland its first loss in the Public High League baseball race.

Roosevelt scored four times in the fourth to take a 4-2 lead. Then Cleveland fought back with a tying pair of runs in the fifth and a leading tally in the sixth. Back came Roosevelt to make it a new game with a run in the last of the seventh on a three-bagger by Dean Matthews and Harry Hixson's sacrifice fly.

In the last of the ninth, lead-off batter Jim Shardy whacked a drive over Centerfielder Evan Paoletti's head. Paoleti tripped running after the ball and Shardy went all the way for his second home run of the game. His two-run homer in the fourth helped the Crimson in its big rally.

Undefeated Beaumont took over sole possession of the league lead with a 19-0 triumph over Vashon, the third straight game in which the Wolverines have been shut out. Bob Miller allowed Vashon just two hits. Beaumont now is 6-0, McKinley 5-0 and Cleveland and Roosevelt 4-1.

In other league matches, Hadley Tech whipped Soldan, 8 to 1, and Central won from Washington Tech, 11 to 3.

In a non-league game, St. Louis U. High was handed its first loss in 12 games, 4 to 3, by C.B.C. Granite City and Madison played to a 12-inning scoreless tie and Frank Onesky of Madison and Bill Diak of Granite City pitched all the way. Onesky struck out 16 and walked three, Diak, who fanned 11, walked four.

Lutheran High's Schoen Pitches No-Hit Contest

Gary Schoen, who for two seasons was the No. 2 pitcher on the Lutheran High staff behind ace Rich Beumer, made more of a name for himself yesterday as he hurled a no-hit game against Principia. Lutheran won, 4 to 0.

Schoen struck out 14 batters. Gary Zellinger had a home run in the fourth.

Don Choate was battered for the first time as East St. Louis lost to Lincoln of East St. Louis, 5 to 3. Choate came on in the first inning with runners on second and third and one out. Two bases on balls, a single, another base on balls and another single provided a five-run inning for Lincoln. Leon McClure hurled all the way for Lincoln.

DeSpirito Shelved Again by Injuries Suffered in Spill

LAUREL, Md., May 2 (UP)—Tony DeSpirito's hard luck came back to haunt him again today.

The dare-devil jockey, who has been on much too familiar terms with hospital beds during his riding career, was in one again, this time with three broken ribs and possible other injuries.

He suffered a bad fall at Laurel Park yesterday when his mount, Folderol, threw him in the fifth race and put him out of action indefinitely.

DeSpirito, the leading jockey at the Laurel spring meeting, was riding in third position on Folderol near the sixteenth pole when the horse stumbled and broke his right foreleg. The horse had to be destroyed.

Last September 17, DeSpirito was in a spill in the Beldame Handicap at Belmont Park in New York and was forced out of action four months with brain lacerations and back injuries. He returned to action at Hialeah in Florida and was in peak form when he came here.

Phils' Jones to Pay $500 a Month to Wife

LAURINBURG, N. C., May 2 (AP)—Third baseman Willie (Puddin' Head) Jones of the Philadelphia Phillies has agreed to $500 a month for support of his wife and their three children.

Lawyers representing the couple reached the agreement in superior court here yesterday when Mrs. Jones's suit for separate maintenance was continued.

NIXON CHECKED WITH STATE G.O.P. LEADERS ON RACE

The Secret Service investigated this, but finally passed the case on to the Better Business Bureau with this letter by Chief U. E. Baughman, Oct. 26, 1954:

"On several occasions, the United States Secret Service has received inquiries or complaints from citizens concerning a certain printed form and questionnaire purportedly issued by the Claims Office, 100 Barr Building, Washington, D.C. The upper portion of the form has a design of a spread eagle, is dated at Washington and is numbered, and has led some persons to believe that it is a government check.

"In fact, on June 25, 1954, a man was arrested by police in Phoenix, Ariz., for attempting to negotiate one of these forms which he represented to be a government check for disability payment. Another of the forms was negotiated last February in a Phoenix department store and was cleared through the banks to the Treasurer of the United States for payment.

". . . The claim form would not appear to violate any of the statutes enforced by this department. However, in view of the deceptive nature of the form, it is being called to your attention for whatever action you may deem appropriate. The special agent in charge of our field office in Los Angeles, Calif., has been requested to convey this same information to the Better Business Bureau in that city."

The Secret Service, it later developed, knew all about Chotiner. Senators are wondering whether this is why Baughman passed the case to the Better Business Bureau despite one arrest.

BBB Report.

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Better Business Bureau was investigating the home office of National Research Co. (Here is the confidential report of Research Director T. D. Hodge, dated Sept. 27, 1954:

"Our information at this time is that all of the concerns are owned by one Mr. S. Florsheim and a Mr. Milton S. Mohr, both of Los Angeles. . . . The other is Mr. Murray Chotiner, a Beverly Hills attorney, who has held out that his sole connection with any of the outfits is professional, notwithstanding some indications that his interest may be deeper than that."

By November 1955, the Better Business Bureau had discovered that Chotiner was a man of influence and that at least part of the Secret Service was loath to investigate him.

This report from William J. Mawhinney in its Washington office, was sent to the National Better Business Bureau, dated Nov. 8, 1955:

"We have a letter from Murray M. Chotiner informing us that the Office of Employment Reclassification is a trading organization and is owned by the National Research Co. In September of this year, we had information from San Francisco that Murray Chotiner was campaign manager for Vice President Nixon in 1952 and has been named one of the professors for the G.O.P. campaign school.

Agent Not Interested.

Upon receipt of this news," continued the Washington BBB report, "I contacted a Secret Service agent for the Nixons who did not appear to be interested in any information that I might have and said he was well acquainted and knew all about Mr. Chotiner. Since he did not care to review our six-inch thick file on this outfit, I made the remark that the Democratic committee would be very much interested in it if they ever made inquiry to this office. The agent promised that he would be over this Tuesday, Sept. 13. but to date he has not appeared."

Finally the Federal Trade Commission, on Dec. 23, 1955, cracked down on Chotiner's client. It issued a cease-and-desist order for it to quit using such terms as "Claims Office" or "United States Credit Control Bureau."

Chotiner rushed out with a statement that he had had "no contact with the Vice President since the day he was elected, so far as any contact with his office is concerned."

JOB OPENINGS EXPANDING FOR NEGROES IN NORTH

Lemuel R. Boulware, vice president in charge of personnel and community relations for General Electric, sums up a widely held attitude when he says:

"What we do is try to develop a natural and unself-conscious association that comes along as fast as we can bring it about naturally. We are just going along as temperately and constructively as we know how, with merit as our sole standard at every level of employment."

Must Exceed Rivals.

It is seldom sufficient, however, for the Negro to be as good as the next man to justify his moving up from the ranks of unskilled or menial labor. "We ask the colored community to send us its Jackie Robinsons," is the way one company official puts it. "The Negro job applicant still finds he must be head and shoulders over his rivals," confesses another.

The places in which Negroes have taken their longest forward steps are those in which shortages of qualified workers were so acute that employers no longer could indulge in the luxury of discrimination.

This has been especially true in engineering and the physical sciences—fields in which Negroes once found it all but impossible to get either technical training or jobs. Now, with industry engaged in a feverish hunt for technicians, the Negro with a scientific degree finds a brisk demand for his talents.

The other area of conspicuous breakthrough has been in clerical, office and white-collar work. Negro women have been the front runners here. However, difficulties in recruiting white workers have influenced employers to turn toward sympathetic consideration of Negro applicants.

No longer does the young Negro girl feel that her future lies in a job as a maid, cook or laundress. Now her high school, college or business school diploma is a passport to work in an office, telephone exchange or department store.

Edward S. Lewis, executive director of the New York Urban League, has estimated that there were for the first time, at least as many Negro women working as clerks in New York City as there were working as domestics. Other large cities are moving in the same direction.

Only Token Advances.

It would be idyllic, however, to pretend that more than token advances have been made in many other fields of employment. Even in factories in which 15 to 50 per cent of the workers are Negroes, it has been rare for them to reach the top skilled categories and even rarer for them to become foremen. They are still to be found in largest numbers in foundries, coke ovens and other heavy, dirty jobs.

Even in Detroit, generally considered "the best city" in the United States for a Negro worker, promotion opportunities above the semi-skilled level are few. The automobile capital has 100,000 Negroes in factories operating under contracts with the United Automobile Workers. This union believes so strongly in fair employment practices that it allots 1 cent a month out of the dues paid by each of its 1,500,000 members to a committee to combat bias.

Yet, Brendan Sexton, the union's research director, has said he remembered only one Negro having been promoted to foreman in charge of a mixed crew in any Detroit plant. And this man voluntarily applied for demotion to his old job as an inspector because he believed he had been "caught in the middle" in his efforts to be a supervisor.

In Pittsburgh, Cleveland and other production centers, as in Detroit, the handful of Negroes who become foreman or group leaders are usually in charge of all-Negro crews. In the upper supervisory and executive ranks Negroes are found scarcely at all. Two university of Chicago sociologists, W. Lloyd Warner and James C. Abegglen, concluded after a recent study of business leadership that it would be a full generation before Negro men of ambition could climb the hard road to the top.

Craft Union Exclusion Policies.

Craft unions in the construction and printing trades maintain the most rigid exclusion policies. In most parts of the North they have no Negro members and admit no Negroes to the apprenticeship programs that represent almost the only way a worker can qualify for skilled employment in these fields. The independent railroad unions are just as tightly closed. For the Negro, exclusion from these unions means a death sentence on economic opportunity in the respective fields.

The AFL-CIO is working hard to see that the promises of race equality made by its top officials assume meaning at the grass roots. It has called on all affiliates to write non-discrimination clauses into their contracts with employers. The next step will be an appeal for general establishment by the unions of fair employment practice committees to police such contract clauses.

The general trend is unmistakably toward more opportunity. For every gloomy development, there are a dozen brighter ones—a host of small gains adding up to a mosaic of progress. Negroes hired in a "showcase" role fit into their new assignments so smoothly that the employment of others eventually becomes routine. A "first" in New York spreads to St. Louis, Columbus, Toledo and Seattle.

One Way or the Other.

NORWICH, Conn. (UP)—Miss Mary Gore of Groton escaped injury in a two-car accident but was burned on the head by sparks when she stood too close to a red warning flare placed at the scene.

the answer. Poll-taking, more even than most political reporting, is an attempt to peer into the recesses of the human mind.

When the young steel worker says he expects to vote for Stevenson, will he really go to the polls? When the tattered old man on the back stoop of a slum house says he will vote for Mr. Eisenhower, is he merely trying to please the poll-takers? How do you score the lady who says she always votes Democratic, but that she just loves the President on TV? And how is the elderly fellow who allows that he "kinda likes that Cowfever" really going to vote, if at all?

Because American voters are human beings, and human beings are unpredictable, it is simply not possible to express the political sentiments of the American people neatly, down to the last decimal point.

Text of Charge to Grand Jury on Campaign Gifts

THE court directed the grand jury which was empaneled before the primaries in 1952 to look into the matter of any violations of the federal laws on elections and political contributions. This being another presidential election year when we have the election of not only the President and Vice President, but also members of both houses of Congress, and bearing in mind many of the revelations of the last few years in regard to the use of money in elections, the court feels it is most important to direct your attention to the federal statutes regulating elections and political campaign contributions.

The court will, therefore, give you instructions given to other grand juries in regard to election and campaign contributions. And again I desire to impress upon you the gravity of the questions involved, and to urge that these instructions are not given perfunctorily, but with the earnest desire that every effort be made to make the administration of these laws effective.

Statute Protects Rights.

We have a federal criminal statute which protects citizens in their right to vote by making unlawful any conspiracy against the rights of citizens which they are guaranteed by the Constitution or laws of the United States.

This law applies both in the primary and general elections when federal officers are to be nominated or elected. I shall not attempt to cite all the provisions of the statutes on election and campaign contributions, but it might be well at this time to call your attention to Section 610, Title 18, of the United States Code.

We also have specific statutes in regard to the solicitation and expenditure of money by candidates for office and political committees. It is unlawful for any person to make an expenditure to influence the vote of any person, or for any person to receive an expenditure in order to influence his vote.

It is unlawful for any person to make contributions in excess of $5000 in any calendar year, and there are limitations on the amount of expenditures that may be made by candidates for the United States Senate or House of Representatives. These are on a sliding scale, with a maximum of $25,000 for a United States Senator and $5000 for a member of the House of Representatives.

Political committees are also required to file statements with Congress as to contributions received and their expenditures made with the clerk of the House of Representatives or the secretary of the Senate, as the case may be, quarterly and five days before the general election is held.

Candidates for Senator and Representative are also required to file not less than 10 days before a general election a statement concerning the same matters.

Gifts by Corporations.

Section 610, Title 18 of the United States Code: Contributions or expenditures by national banks, corporations or labor organizations:

It is unlawful for any national bank, or any corporation organized by authority of any law of Congress, to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with any election to any political office, or in connection with any primary election or political convention or caucus held to select candidates for any political office, or for any corporation whatever, or any labor organization to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with any election at which presidential and vice presidential electors or a senator or representative in, or a delegate or resident commissioner to Congress are to be voted for, or in connection with any primary election or political convention or caucus held to select candidates for any of the foregoing offices, or for any candidate, political committee, or other person to accept or receive any contribution prohibited by this section.

Every corporation or labor organization which makes any contribution or expenditure in violation of this section shall be fined not more than $5000; and every officer or director of any corporation, or officer of any labor organization, who consents to any contribution, or expenditure by the corporation or labor organization, as the case may be, and any person who accepts or receives any contribution, in violation of this section, shall be fined not more than $1000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both; and if the violation was willful, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

Labor Groups Defined.

For the purposes of this section "labor organization" means any organization of any kind, or any agency or employe representation committee or plan, in which employes participate and which exist for the purpose, in whole or in part, of dealing with employers concerning grievances, labor disputes, wages, rates of pay, hours of employment, or conditions of work.

As you see, there are stiff fines and imprisonment provided for violation of this section.

Should you find any violations of these laws in your investigations, and they seem clear violations to you, then you should return indictments against anyone concerned, no matter how high or low his position, either in political, social or financial fields.

The federal statutes require the filing of various reports of contributions by candidates and committees, and the court would suggest to you that you examine such reports carefully; and if, for instance, you find substantial sums being contributed by salaried employes of wealthy corporations; and, also, should you find that there are instances where great industrialists (who have dealings on a large scale with the Federal Government) have made generous donations to any individual's campaign; and if you should further find that salaried employes of such industries, also are making sizeable donations to said candidate or his committee, it might be well to look further, especially in instances, if any there be, where such industrialists and their employes should be found to be nonresidents of the State of Missouri, and find out whether such employes made their donations out of their own funds, or whether they were made out of the funds of the employer's corporation.

You cannot just read a contribution list and easily determine about such connections, but the Government has ample facilities through its various agencies to acquire and give to you all such necessary information.

It would be well if you should also look into the funds raised by various labor organizations, to see whether there have been violations of the statutes quoted to you, by any of the labor organizations in the carrying on of the political activities of the leaders of such organizations.

The excessive and illegal use of money in primaries and general elections has become intolerable. It is tife that vigorous measures be taken.

Instructions Not Routine.

We hope you will consider most carefully what we have said to you concerning the law relating to primaries and elections where federal officials are being chosen. We trust you will not regard the instructions we are giving you as being merely routine or prefunctory.

With all the earnestness and sincerity of which I am capable I urge you to pay careful heed to all I have said or will say in these instructions.

We regard with grave apprehension the tendency in these days of many citizens of whom we would expect higher standards, to regard all too lightly bribery, fraud and corruption in the conduct of elections.

Our federal laws, as I have pointed out to you, cover contributions, solicitations and expenditures of money by candidates and political committees. The federal laws make provision for the keeping of proper records and filing of returns.

Search Out Violations.

Your inquisitorial powers are very great. You may summon before you everyone who has to do with the collection or distribution of campaign funds, and you may cause them to produce their books, record and checks. You may find out where they got the money and to whom they paid it and for what. You may also search out violations by officials in charge of the election machinery.

Too often it is only the lowly ballot box stuffers who are prosecuted, and those in higher position, those who give the orders and those who provide the illicit funds, those who corrupt and seduce from the path of duty the lesser lights, escape and go scot free.

Even by the exercise of the greatest vigilance it is difficult to anticipate and forestall all violation of the election laws that may be attempted by reckless and designing men, either in the rigging of the election machinery or in the excessive and illegal use of money.

Intimidation Denounced.

Equally despicable are those who seek to thwart the will of the voters, whether they be bribe-givers or bribe-takers, whether it be candidates who seek to buy their way into office, or those who in violation of law try to coerce and intimidate the voters by threatening them with the loss of their daily bread and meat.

While these aggressions may not be forestalled, it is reassuring to remember that our federal laws are ample to take care of the detection and punishment of those who are guilty of violations of our election laws. Huge sums of money cannot well be passed without leaving tell-tale traces.

Wherever there has been padded registration, or other illegal activities involving elections, it is difficult to wipe out the record. Where workmen or others have been coerced and intimidated, it will not be too difficult to develop the evidence after the crime has been committed.

Not Too Difficult.

When the primary and the general election are over, it will not be too difficult a task to develop the facts and to bring the malefactors to justice.

A grand jury composed of honorable and high-minded men and women determined to see that justice is done and crime punished will be able in most instances to learn just what have been the illegal acts, and who are the culprits.

I have endeavored to make plain to you what your duties are. We all treasure our American citizenship. The greatest privilege of that citizenship is having the right to participate directly in the Government.

No crime can strike more directly at the foundations of our Government than one that prevents a free choice in the primaries and elections by the unbought, unpurchasable and uncoerced voters.

It makes no difference whether the will of the voters is frustrated by the illegal use of money, by the manipulation of election officials, or by the coercion or intimidation of voters by those who have the power to control their employment, or by a combination of such acts, the result is the same: the country is endangered by anything that circumvents the honest choice of the electorate.

No greater duty can be entrusted to a grand jury than that of giving their best efforts to see that we have honest elections. If you begin your investigations at once, it will be difficult indeed for any conspiracies to prevail without exposing to view the felonious methods used.

Whenever you find any individuals who have willfully violated the provisions of the United States laws in regard to elections; wherever you find that there has been a conspiracy in violation of the election laws of the United States, indict the party or the parties who are guilty; and remember that when one once enters into a conspiracy each and every individual in that conspiracy is equally responsible for the acts of all the other conspirators.

It is a great responsibility that I now entrust to you, and I do it with perfect confidence in your integrity and your high purpose.

Reporter Describes 'Incident' Which Dealt Death in Gaza Strip

United Press Writer Says Hail of Shells Turned Crowded Street Into Shambles, Killed 63.

BY PETER WEBB

GAZA, May 2 (UP)—Death struck "The Street of the Headsman's Mother" at 10 minutes after 4 o'clock on a quiet, sunny April day.

It came from the air in a hail of 120-millimeter mortar shells which in 20 minutes turned Gaza's main thoroughfare, crowded with shoppers, into a shambles.

In those few minutes 63 persons, including 21 women and 14 children, lost their lives as the shells traced a criss-cross pattern among the mudbrick shops and houses where Samson once brought down the temple of the Philistines. More than 100 others were wounded.

The April 5 shelling was the climax of border warfare. It brought Israel and the Arab nations to the brink of open conflict. Now there is another cease-fire.

The day before the shelling three Jewish soldiers had been killed while on border patrol along the "demilitarized" zones.

Twenty patients were killed in their beds.

Moussa Abu Asskar, 30-year-old male nurse, was attending a woman patient when the shell exploded. He was wounded severely in the back. He is back at work, swathed in bandages. The woman patient was killed.

Egyptian Nurse El Ham Nasser was caught rushing to the windows to open them. For three days she lived on blood plasma while surgeons picked out shrapnel from her chest and shoulders. X-rays showed more than 50 wounds.

Although 170 heavy mortar shells fell on Gaza that day, Egyptian authorities allege the Jews deliberately shelled the crowded center of the town.

I talked with Carolyn Cate, an American nurse from Chattanooga, Tenn., at the Southern Baptist mission hospital. She was playing the piano when the shelling began.

"I thought it was the cannon for the beginning of Ramadan (the Moslem month of fasting) but I was about a week early," she said. "Then I ran across to the hospital and began taking care of the wounded."

Dr. James Young, of Ruston, La., head of the hospital, said he performed 20 emergency operations that day.

"I was operating on a woman when the shelling started and we just kept right on going until 2:30 the next morning. We were pretty scared and I thought if they are shelling Gaza, the war must have started."

"The people behaved wonderfully. They told me they were willing to sacrifice everything, their women and children, to defend their land. We're not going to leave this area." As he spoke, tears welled in his eyes.

I talked with American Lt. Col. Robert Bayard, whose truce team is responsible for peace along the Gaza strip.

"Of course, it's always the other fellow who starts it," he said wryly. "The Gaza shelling began with exchange of fire all along the 27-mile border. All of a sudden it went off like a prairie fire."

JORDAN ARMY LEADERS PLEASED BY EGYPT TALKS

nearing completion, he said. Fifty of the Legion's 65 British officers now have been dismissed, he explained, and the remaining 15 "will go eventually, as soon as we have no further need for them."

The 15 who are left are all technicians and consultants.

He was asked whether the Arab Legion had received or would receive any of the Czechoslovakian arms being obtained by Egypt under the guns-for-cotton deal.

"Absolutely not," he said.

The young colonel answered questions tersely and matter of factly as he sat sipping lemonade in an alcove off an ornate second floor reception hall of the palace. The afternoon sun backlighted translucent quartz panels in the balustrade of a marble grand stairway. A servant in turban, embroidered jacket and pleated bloomers gathered at the ankles stood in attendance.

Suddenly an aide signaled that it was time for another in the heavy round of social functions. The colonel excused himself, strode off to put on his Sam Browne belt and hurried to a waiting Cadillac.

AIRCRAFTS STRONG IN MIXED STOCK TRADE

Several Bits of Encouraging News From Washington Defense Centers.

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—The stock market was mixed today with a lower slant to prices.

The decline was not extensive by any means, and there was an easing off in the rate of trading on the decline.

Losses amounted to around 3 points at the outside, and there were some gains of that size in significant areas of the list.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 30 cents at $190.00. It was down 80 cents yesterday. The industrial component of the average lost 80 cents, railroad were off 10 cents, but the utilities were up 20 cents.

There were 1187 individual issues traded of which 495 were higher and 450 lower—an indication of the mixed nature of the day. There were 65 new highs and 48 new lows for the year.

Trading was subdued at an estimated aggregate 2,440,000 shares. That compares with 2,500,000 shares traded yesterday when the market was lower.

Trading was subdued at an estimated 2,400,000 shares. That compares with 2,500,000 shares traded yesterday when the market was lower.

Aircrafts were outstanding for strength in the market on the basis of favorable defense news from Washington. Coppers also were higher. Aluminum issues were depressed by profit-taking on the heels of recent strength. Some oils were higher. The steels and motors were mixed.

Among higher stocks were Santa Fe Railroad, Royal Dutch Petroleum, Kennecott Copper, Bethlehem Steel, Studebaker-Packard, Boeing, Glenn Martin and United Aircraft.

Copper range was up between 2 and 3 points after reporting sharply higher earnings in the first quarter.

Merritt, Chapman & Scott turned strong after the company reported higher first quarter profits.

NEW YORK COTTON PRICES

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—Cotton futures were mostly higher in slow dealings today, with traders awaiting fresh incentives.

The lack of any announcement as to results of the bidding for Commodity Credit Corporation export cotton last week also created hesitancy in futures. Liquidation and hedging brought small early declines in most deliveries, but the market later moved irregularly higher on trade buying and local covering. There were no May transferrable notices issued at New York. Certificated cotton stocks increased 1182 bales to 11,834 bales.

Chrysler Output.

DETROIT, May 2 (AP)—Chrysler Corp. announced its Imperial, Chrysler, DeSoto, Dodge and Plymouth divisions produced 90,438 cars and trucks in April against 149,287 in April last year.

Production for the first four months this year totaled 366,724 cars and trucks vs. 581,591 a year earlier.

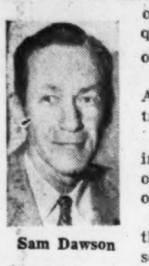
AWAIT REVELATIONS IN MAY

By Sam Dawson



Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP).

MAY finds many business men again reassessing their prospects because for some of them April was disappointing.

It has been a year of wide swings in business sentiment. At the start they were cautious about expecting too much of 1956. Then along in March there was a quick shift to swelling confidence in the future of trade and industry.

Now there are some sober second thoughts. April didn't bring the gains that some industries expected.

Some of the big retail chains report a drop in sales. The auto industry is cutting back output still farther as cars fail to move out of the dealers' hands as hoped.

The weather gets much of the blame. In the eastern third of the nation April was unseasonably wet and cold. In other parts of the land there was a disturbing drouth.

FARMERS, ALREADY HIT BY A DROP in prices for their products, now face the chance of a drop in production as well—with Government surpluses acting as a ceiling on any substantial price rises. Farm machinery makers, helped in many instances by defense production, reported good earnings in the first months of the year. But their sales to income-pinched farmers are lagging now. If May brings better weather, aids the farmers, spurs car buyers, sends more customers into the stores for spring and summer goods, the picture could change to general confidence again.

AS IT IS, MANY INDUSTRIES ARE BOOMING while the others falter. Construction totals are up, bolstered by business spending for new plants, new commercial and office structures, as well as a growing total of public construction of roads, schools and hospitals. Larger and more expensive homes are being built, and better weather may start total residential building on the upgrade again. The railroads got a freight rate hike in March and start May with increased passenger fares—accounting for the increased interest in rail stocks. The steel industry continues to operate near capacity—but with sentiment divided as to how much of a letdown, if any, the summer will see. May could also reveal more clearly how much inventory building is being done by steel users, how great a chance there is of a strike this summer, how much wages and prices are likely to rise—and what's the chance of this setting a pattern for other industries.

INFLATION, MEANWHILE, IS LIKELY TO BE the big debating point of the month. Slowly rising prices of most things other than food, and a continuing strong demand for loans, make investors, lenders, borrowers and the money managers nervous. The money market stays tight with many financial institutions reporting they are fully committed for some time ahead. On one side of the debate, the money managers want to keep the credit supply tight and interest charges high to discourage the inflation they fear. On the other side, many smaller business men complain they find it hard to get the money they need if they are to grow. Many merchants and dealers who sell on time would like to see credit terms easier. Would-be home builders want more plentiful mortgage funds, easy payments. Some Government officials fear that too tight money now might nip the boom. Any turndown in general business activity this month might bring a quick change in the money and credit policy.

Soybeans Off 10c After Wild Day---Wheat Price Down Sharply

CHICAGO, May 2 (AP) — In another wild market soybeans plunged as much as 10 cents, the daily limit, on the Board of Trade today.

Brokers attributed the decline to heavy profit taking after an advance averaging about 90 cents in old crop months since the first of the year, culminating in gains extending to 10 cents yesterday.

Soybeans bounced around in an extremely erratic fashion. Opening sharply lower, they made a very substantial rally. At one time they showed gains extending to 8 cents when compared with yesterday's close. Renewed selling developed late in the session.

Other cereals also turned downward late in the day. This followed setting of new seasonal highs in old crop corn futures.

In the cash market soybean oil sold as high as 16¾ cents a pound, a new top since 1951, and soybean meal was at a new 1956 high of $59.50 to $60 a ton. No. 2 yellow corn sold at $1.58, best price for this grade of cash corn since last year's harvest.

Wheat closed 1¼@4½ lower, corn 1½@3¼ lower, oats ½ lower to ¼ higher, rye 1¾@3½ lower, soybeans 10 cents lower, and lard 85 cents to $1.45 a hundred pounds lower.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

MERCHANTS EXCHANGE, May 2—Cash grain market Wednesday: Wheat receipts 47 cars, 8 sold; corn 28 cars, 1 sold; oats 3 cars, 1 sold.

Sales were: Wheat — Sample grade red winter, $1.50@2.17½; No. 1 hard, $2.27; No. 2 hard, $2.27; Sample grade hard, $2.17½; No. 2 mixed, $2.14½; Sample grade mixed, $1.99½. Corn—No. 1 yellow, $1.58. Oats —No. 2 white, 69½c.

EMPLOYER GOT HOUSE FILE DATA ON UE LEADER

Un-American Activities Unit Material Circulated Among Department Heads.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—An executive of the Magnavox Co., Fort Wayne, Ind., testified today that information from the files of the House Committee on Un-American Activities about John T. Gojack was circulated among Magnavox department heads and supervisors in 1953.

Gojack is a general vice president of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union (UE) and president of its Indiana and Michigan district.

He is on trial in United States district court on contempt of Congress charges based on his refusal to answer certain questions before an un-American Activities subcommittee on Feb. 28 and March 1, 1955.

Two of the questions he refused to answer involved whether he was a member of the Communist party.

Defense Witness.

George D. McLaren, industrial relations director ofMagnavox, was called by Gojack's lawyers as a defense witness. He said UE represented the Fort Wayne Magnavox workers in collective bargaining for several years until it lost an election in March 1955, to the AFL United Auto Workers.

Replying to a question by defense counsel Frank Donner, McLaren said copies of an Un-American Activities Committee report on Gojack were circulated among Magnavox executives in 1953

McLaren said Representative Ross Adair (Rep.), Indiana, sent him the report at his request.

Gojack's defense is based partly on a contention that the committee had no legislative purpose in questioning him but aimed to "expose" him in an effort to "bust" the UE. His lawyers make a point of the fact that he was called before the committee just ahead of the bargaining representation vote at Magnavox.

McLaren was the final witness at the trial which has been going on for three days.

Judge David A. Pine is hearing the case without a jury.

Union Busting Remark.

A Washington reporter, Walter E. Thompson of International News Service, quoted committee chairman Francis E. Walter yesterday as saying that the committee wanted to "bust" the UE.

Thompson said Walter made the remark at an impromptu meeting Feb. 14, 1955, at which a UE representative, George Goldstein, asked whether the committee knew before it subpenaed Gojack to appear Feb. 21 that a collective bargaining election was to be held Feb. 24 at the Magnavox Co. plant

Walter replied that the committee had no knowledge of the election until it received an "insulting telegram" from Gojack accusing the group of subpenaing him to influence the election and break the union. Gojack's appearance later was postponed to Feb. 28, 1955.

A transcript of the meeting showed that Walter also told Goldstein: "Now there is no one on the committee interested in busting unions . . . but all of us are interested in seeing your union go out of business because we do not believe it is good for the United States."

Government attorney William Hitz read the transcript after Thompson said he could not recall Walter's exact words. However, Thompson said both Walter and Representative Morgan Moulder (Dem.), Missouri, made statements to the effect that the committee wanted to "bust" UE because it was "Communist dominated" and represented workers in defense plants.

Thompson, replying to questions by Hitz, said he did not question the accuracy of the transcript, but that some of the remarks he attributed to Walter and Moulder may have been made before or after the meeting.

Gojack is being tried on eight counts involving his refusal to say whether he was a Communist party member and to answer certain other questions. If convicted on any or all counts, he could be sentenced to a maximum penalty of one year in prison and $1000 fine.

PRINCESS GRACE SEES BULLFIGHT, GETS GIFT OF EAR

PALMA DE MALLORCA, Balearic Islands, May 2 (AP)—Princess Grace of Monaco watched her first bullfight yesterday.

She and Prince Rainier III presided over the show as guests of the military and civil heads of these Spanish Mediterranean islands.

The newlyweds were in high spirits. They bowed to acknowledge an ovation and the princess blew kisses to the crowd.

The couple joined the other spectators in expressing sympathy for matador Domaso Gomez, when a bull gored him and caused a minor injury.

As a special honor, Gomez tossed her an ear of a bull he had just killed. She didn't know what to do with the still bleeding gift, but Rainier, an old hand at bullfights, told her to keep it and give the matador something in return. She complied by dropping her handkerchief into the ring.

The couple are expected to spend two more days here before sailing on their yacht for Ibiza, 90 miles southwest of here. Later they will sail to Rome.

FEDERAL JUDGES MAY BE ASKED TO LIMIT VACATIONS

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Federal judges with work backlogs may be asked to limit annual vacations to one month and chief judges may have to step aside when they reach 70.

These were among proposals discussed here March 13-14 at a special session of the judicial conference, composed of the Chief Justice of the United States and the chief judges of the Circuit Courts of Appeals, according to a report made public yesterday.

The conference tentatively approved a resolution recommending legislation to require chief judges of circuit or district courts to step aside on reaching 70 — not necessarily leave the bench, but turn over administrative work to younger men.

The conference also decided to ask judges about a proposal they limit annual vacation to one month if "judicial business is not upon a current basis."

NEW VACCINE REPORTED FOR BLACK DEATH PLAGUE

HOUSTON, Tex., May 2 (AP)—A dry-storage vaccine to suppress the Black Death plague, was reported yesterday to the Society of American Bacteriologists.

Plague is rare in this country, but outbreaks could occur perhaps anytime. Health studies find that squirrels, wood rats and mice harboring the fleas that carry plague germs are spreading eastward from California.

The new vaccine is made in dried form and can be stored for at least five years without losing its potency, said Drs. S. F. Quan, T. H. Chen and K. F. Meyer, University of California Medical Center. It is made of living plague germs, but a variety that cannot cause the illness.

BOYS FIND DUKE DOES NOT LET STARS GET IN HIS EYES

IPSWICH, England, May 2 (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh yesterday chided "those starry-eyed people who imagine that when the next generation takes charge everything is going to be all right."

"I believe that you'll make just as big a mess of things as we are," he told the boys of Ipswich school listening with their parents.

"In fact, you are absolutely bound to make mistakes whatever job you do. The only thing I hope is that you will not make the same mistakes as we did. But I expect even that is asking far too much."

NEW HIGHER OCTANE GASOLINE ANNOUNCED

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 2 — Esso Standard Oil Co. disclosed yesterday it will soon introduce a third grade of high-octane fuel designed to meet the rapidly increasing power needs of new-model cars.

Stanley C. Hope, Esso president, told a press conference that the new gasoline will be sold at 3 cents a gallon above the company's present premium gasoline. Esso Standard markets gasoline in 18 states, from Maine to Louisiana.

Beginning June 20, he said, Esso will market three brands of gasoline—regular, premium and the new power fuel.

AUCTIONEER NOT IN SPIRIT TO SELL BERMUDA GHOST

HAMILTON, Bermuda, May 2 (AP)—An auctioneer yesterday began selling the furnishings of a house British author-actor Noel Coward soon will occupy on Bermuda, but the ghost said to haunt the place wasn't for sale.

"I don't have a liquor license, so I can't sell spirits," quipped auctioneer A. L. Flitcroft.

The wraith is said to be the spirit of a lovely young French girl kept against her will long ago at the house, Spithead Lodge, in Warwick parish. Coward recently bought the place.

TOBACCO GROWERS HIT SYNTHETIC LEAF

They Go Before Congress Group Studying 'Homogenizing' Process.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Growers and dealers in cigarette tobacco went before a congressional committee today to say they regard "homogenized" leaf tobacco as a threat to their industry.

They have reported decreasing market demands for the better quality leaf once preferred for cigarettes and cigars and a corresponding increase in demand for lower quality tobacco.

The manufactured leaf can be made from the lower quality grades because the process permits control of aroma, flavor and burning.

Stems and other parts of the tobacco leaf considered unusable in their natural state are ground with the full leaf in making the "synthetic leaf." The entire tobacco leaf—including stems—is ground into minute particles. Then after addition of a binding agent it is forced through a machine to produce uniform sheets of artificial leaf.

The question of additives was raised yesterday by Senator Scott (Dem.), North Carolina, who read statements from patents on one process that glass fibers are used in producing the manufactured leaf.

He quoted from the patent: "A paste comprising tobacco powder and a viscous aqueous solution of binder may be applied to one or both sides of a thin mat of glass fibers. This invention contemplates the inclusion of glass fibers in the tobacco compositions."

Scott emphasized that the process was used for cigar binders. They said they knew of no instances of its use in cigarette tobacco.

William Hutton, president of the Conn-Mass Tobacco Corp., an organization of binder tobacco growers in the Connecticut valley, estimated that with the manufacturing process tobacco from one acre can fill the demands for binders formerly met with three acres of natural leaf.

ARMY PLANNING STANDARD DIVISION FOR ALL PURPOSES

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The Army hopes within 10 years to organize its fighting men in a single type of division—an all-purpose unit that can move swiftly by air to any trouble spot in the world.

Maj. Gen. J. S. Upham, assistant deputy chief of staff for military operations, cited this "ultimate goal" in testimony made public yesterday by the House Appropriations Committee.

A more immediate Army objective, Upham told the committee, is to give its battle groups artillery type weapons "capable of firing both atomic or conventional ammunition."

He described the projected unit as "a light, completely air-transportable division." It would have about 11,500 men, compared with 17,308 in the present airborne division.

FIRST SUPERSONIC TACTICAL BOMBER WILL BE BUILT

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The Glen L. Martin Co., Baltimore, has won an Air Force competition to develop America's first supersonic tactical bomber, an informed source said yesterday. Neither the Air Force nor the company would confirm or deny the award immediately.

It was learned that the Martin design was chosen over one submitted by the Douglas Aircraft Co., Santa Monica, Calif. The Air Force announced last August that it had awarded "Phase I" design contracts for a supersonic tactical bomber to Martin and Douglas. The plane would replace the Martin B-57 and Douglas B-66 light jet bombers currently in operation.

A Phase I contract carries a design into the mockup or first full-size dummy stage. The Phase II contract which now goes to Martin provides for construction of a prototype, the first flyable airplane of the new type.

CAMBODIAN POLICY CALLED REBUFF TO U. S. BY REDS

SINGAPORE, May 2 (AP)—A Communist Viet Namese radio praised Cambodia's neutralism yesterday in a broadcast that criticized Robert Mills McClintock, United States Ambassador to that Indochinese kingdom.

The radio said the Cambodian course piloted by Prince Norodom Sihanouk was a stinging rebuff to American policy in southeast Asia.

By its account McClintock walked off the guest platform at a recent conference of Sihanouk's Popular Socialist Community party before the Prince took the speaker's stand for a report. Confirmation of such an incident was lacking in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital.

EISENHOWER PROCLAIMS MAY 13 AS MOTHER'S DAY

WASHINGTON, May 2 (INS)—President Eisenhower called on Americans today to observe Sunday, May 13, as Mother's day.

In a formal proclamation, he declared: "The American mother stands as a symbol of those high principles and lofty ideals which sustain and enrich our nation . . .

"It is fitting that on that day we should acknowledge our gratitude, our love and our reverence for our own mothers and for all mothers of our great nation."

I work for a man referred to as MIGHT HARRY. Now MIGHT HARRY is mighty sore at a guy he refers to as LAZY JOHN. The only reason he doesn't fire me is because I earn my $175 or more commission every week and I don't work very hard. What burns him up is that the men I train earn three-figure weekly incomes—and they don't work very hard either. Today he notified me to either hire more men like myself or work a little harder. Appointments are arranged for our salesmen thereby eliminating canvassing in any form. My name is JOHN MENLEY. If you are lazy, too, and want a good income, come in and see me at 2025 Big Bend blvd., Richmond Heights, at 10 a.m. or 1 p.m. Wednesday.

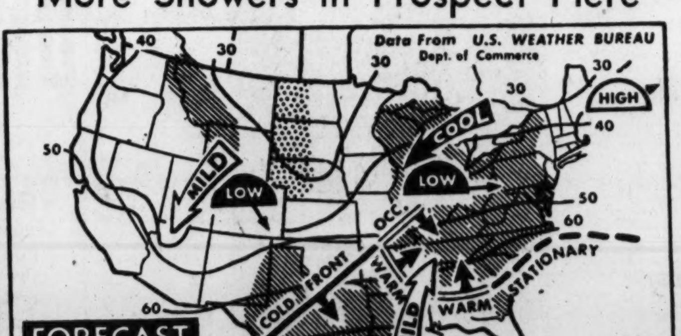
More Showers in Prospect Here



—Associated Press Wirephoto.
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Intermittent showers or thundershowers through Saturday were predicted today by Weatherman Harry F. Wahlgren, who added that May and June are normally the two wettest months of the year and this month has prospects of holding true to form. He expects high temperatures to be in the middle 60s tomorrow and somewhat warmer Friday.

Only traces of rain fell in the St. Louis area in the 24-hour period ended early today and very little rainfall was recorded throughout the state. The heaviest in Missouri was .19 of an inch at Joplin. The most precipitation in the country was 2.83 inches recorded at Houston, Tex.

In the past reporting period snow fell in western Montana, the Dakotas and northern Minnesota. Falls in Montana ranged from one to two inches. Precipitation was widel scatered from coast to coast except in northeastern portions.

Minimum state temperatures this morning varied from 44 at St. Joseph to 58 at Malden. Low reading here was 55 at 6:45 a.m. Throughout the nation, minmums ranged from 17 at Mount Washington, N.H., to 77 at Key West, Fla.

The high temperature variation yesterday in Missouri was from 57 at Kirksville to 66 at Vichy. National maximums ranged from 36 at Great Falls, Mont., and Mobridge, S.D., to 97 at Presidio, Tex. In St. Louis the high reading was 60 at 5 p.m.

C. OF C. POLITICAL DEBATE DRAWS BOOS AND JEERS

3000 at Convention Hear Hot Argument Over Big Contributions to Parties.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Republican and Democratic politicians got into a hot-tempered argument yesterday in front of 3000 delegates to the United States Chamber of Commerce convention.

Boos and jeers came from the audience for Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler when he tore into the Republican party as the beneficiary of "vested wealth."

The climax built up from a charge by Senator Goldwater (Rep.), Arizona, that the Democrats get money from contributions forced from union members by union leaders. Goldwater specified Walter Reuther, vice president of the AFL-CIO and former CIO president, as among these leaders.

The convention had set up a sort of panel discussion on politics. Goldwater and G.O.P. National Chairman Leonard Hall represented the Republicans; Butler and Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts were there for the Democrats.

G.O.P. Gifts Cited.

Butler, disputing Goldwater on the forced contribution charge, said that in 1952 Republican contributions included "the Rockefellers, $94,000; the du Ponts, $74,000; the Pews, $65,000, the Mellons, $36,000, and H. R. Cullen, $53,000."

Spivak asked Butler if the Democrats were unhappy when they received heavy contributions from "The Raskobs." This was a reference to John J. Raskob, 1928 Democratic national chairman who gave, and raised money for the Al Smith presidential campaign.

"The Democratic party," Butler started to reply, "never was the beneficiary of any vested wealth like this—."

Here he was interrupted by roaring boos from the audience, and he replied to the outburst with sarcasm:

"Thank you, fellow Americans, for the right to express myself."

The Chamber apologized to Butler today for the boos he received. President Boyd Campbell sent a letter extending the Chamber's "sincere apology" and "profound regret" for yesterday's incident.

On Democratic Gifts.

After the booing died away, Spivak asked Butler about Democratic contributions from Cornelius Whitney and the Governor of New York. He presumably meant the present Governor, Averell Harriman.

Butler said he would like to be confronted with evidence of any contributions matching those the Republicans get.

G.O.P. Chairman Hall jumped into the discussion, saying: "I'll confront you with a figure you can compare with it—the $400,000 you borrowed from John L. Lewis."

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, lent the Democrats $400,000 in 1936.

Butler said the Democrats had had to borrow money in the past and probably would have to borrow more in the future.

Goldwater got back into the debate. He said the Republican contributions Butler had mentioned were voluntary. By contrast, he said, "the money from Reuther comes from compulsory dues paid by union members who must contribute in order to keep their jobs."

"Anyone who says that," Butler retorted, "is bitter and definitely opposed to organized labor."

Shouts of "No, no" went up from the audience.

Panelists Almost Idle.

The panelists before whom the politicians appeared got very little to do. They included Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor; Robert C. Bassett, publisher of the Milwaukee Sentinel; Arthur H. Motley, publisher of Parade Magazine; and Herman W. Steinkraus, president of the Bridgeport Brass Co. and a former president of the United States chamber.

Before the debate really warmed up, Butler said Democrats believe "you can best help business by helping the whole country — by increaasing mass purchasing power."

He said "the Republicans believe that if you benefit business first, the benefits will trickle down to the rest of the economy. This may help in the short run, but will hurt the whole economy in the long run."

Hall said the Democrats were trying to revive what he called their 1954 "gloom and doom" argument, "an effort to talk our people into the belief that this country is going into a depression or a recession."

LIBERIAN PRESIDENT TURNS DOWN INVITATION TO RUSSIA

MONROVIA, May 2 (AP)—President William V. S. Tubman of Liberia has turned down a Soviet suggestion that he visit Russia, a Liberian diplomat reported today.

Clarence Lorenzo Simpson, Liberian ambassador to London, said the President had informed Russia he had other commitments and could not visit Moscow. Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik asked Simpson in London last month if Tubman would accept an invitation to make such a visit.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENT 4TH IN 16 MONTHS FOR MARGARET

STANBOROUGH, England, May 2 (AP)—Princess Margaret yesterday was in her fourth automobile accident in 16 months. Again she didn't get a scratch.

The chauffeur-driven car in which she was riding collided with a smaller automobile here. There was little damage to either machine.

The other three accidents in which Margaret was involved were:

Last October Margaret's car hit a traffic island at Boscombe Down.

A car in which the Princess was riding from Sandringham to London in January, 1955, skidded on an icy road and collided with another automobile.

JEFFERSON CITY TO MAKE H-BOMB FALLOUT CHECK

JEFFERSON CITY, May 2 (AP)—When H-bomb tests start in the Pacific next week, Jefferson City will be one of the check points in a new nationwide "radiation surveillance network."

Dr. James R. Amos, director of the State Health Division, announced today the station to check radioactive fall-out has been set up on the roof of the State Office Building just across the street from the Capitol.

The station is operated around the clock under supervision of State Health Division employes. Samples are taken every 24 hours and forwarded to the United States Public Health Service for detailed study.

The station has been operating about two weeks, studying normal background radiation levels. Dr. Amos said he does not expect the Pacific tests of nuclear weapons to cause any great increase in radiation here.

BLAST, ARSON AT LUMBER YARDS AT SPRINGFIELD, MO.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 2 (UP)—A lumber yard was dynamited and a fire was set at another early today in what police said were the latest incidents in a series of bombings and arson in connection with southwest Missouri construction projects.

A fire was discovered at the Northside Lumber and Supply Co., where police found a charred fuse and a five-gallon gasoline can. The blaze was quickly extinguished and damage was limited to the upper tier of a lumber storage shed.

An explosion heard over a wide area of the city damaged a building at the Southern Heights Lumber Co. Police said it apparently was a dynamite blast. A concrete foundation was damaged, part of a side wall was ripped off, a ceiling was damaged, and merchandise was scattered. The lumber company is owned by Rex Kreider, who also is a builder.

Similar incidents have been reported in recent months at Buffalo, Republic, Verona and Lebanon, Mo., and two houses under construction here were burned to the ground. In each instance, police said, nonunion workers had been employed.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—A House Judiciary subcommittee yesterday approved a bill to create 20 additional federal judgeships. One judgeship would be added to the Second Judicial Circuit Court of Appeals for the New York-New England area and these new federal district court seats would be set up:

Three for southern New York, two for eastern Pennsylvania and one each for Kansas, southern Mississippi, Iowa, North Carolina, northern California, eastern Louisiana, eastern New York, Connecticut, Colorado, western Texas, Maryland, northern Ohio, eastern Michigan and Alaska.

The bill now goes to the House Judiciary committee for consideration.

A scholarship provided by a Harrisburg insurance firm has been awarded to Virginia Bozarth of Harrisburg, a graduate of Harrisburg High School.

Harold A. Lipper of Chicago has received the first award presented by the Carbondale Women's Club. The Egyptian Broadcasting Co. of Herrin has presented a grant to Judith Jack of Herrin. Batia Shapria of Tel-Aviv, Israel, is doing graduate work under a B'nai B'rith scholarship exchange program.

CHAUFFEUR IS FINED $100 ON DRUNKEN DRIVING CHARGE

Eugene Miller, a chauffeur, 1517 South Eleventh street, was fined $100 yesterday on a charge of driving when intoxicated. He pleaded not guilty before Police Judge Morris Rosenthal.

Police testified that an automobile driven by Miller crashed into a utility pole at Grand boulevard and Garfield avenue Saturday when they were chasing him at a high rate of speed.

HIGHWAY PATROL VETERAN NAMED CAPE POLICE CHIEF

Little, who has made Cape Girardeau his home, was confirmed as police chief by the City Council yesterday. Capt. Fred L. Schneider has served as acting chief since the resignation of Kenneth Cruse about a year ago.

A Lieutenant Colonel on the staff of Missouri's Adjutant General, Little held that rank in the Army during World War II. He helped reorganize the Manila police department immediately after the war.

He also was commanding officer of the Luzon prisoner of war camp and at one time had 14,000 Japanese under his jurisdiction.

Two of Little's sons are members of the Highway Patrol. Jack Little is stationed at Perryville and William R. Little at Kirkwood in St. Louis county. He also has one other son and a daughter.

Bridegroom Says He Is 101.

DETROIT, May 2 (AP)—James H. Jones applied for a marriage license yesterday. He said he was 101 years old, "just the right age to get married again."

The prospective bride is Mrs. Mamie Blasingame, who gave her age as 55. Jones said he has been married three times before, Mrs. Blasingame twice before.

MISSOURI U. SEEKS BIDS ON DORMITORY

Estimates to Be Opened May 31 on Residence for Men Students.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 2—University of Missouri yesterday advertised for bids for a men's residence hall that will accommodate 512 students.

The bids will be opened May 31. Financing will be from a Federal loan of $1,520,000, augmented by some of the university's $2,500,000 dormitory appropriation provided through the state bond issue. Completion is scheduled before the opening of the 1957 school year.

Contractors are asked to submit two sets of bids, one for a new type of pre-cast, tilt-up concrete construction and the alternate for conventional reinforced concrete column and beam construction.

Cost Estimate.

University officials estimate the cost of a man's dormitory at $3400 to $3800 per student to be housed there. This would place the cost of the new building and fixtures at $1,740,800 to $1,945,600.

The new dormitory is to be located between Fifth and Sixth streets, across Sixth street from the "Red campus." It actually will be three buildings, with two dormitory units 228 by 42 feet separated by a 185-foot courtyard in which will be located a 78-foot square dining-lounge unit.

Because of a slope of the ground, the north dormitory unit will be five stories and the south unit four stories high, with roofs at the same level. The north dormitory in effect will have two ground floors, one at ground level and a second bridged from the courtyard at sidewalk level.

'House' Organization.

The dormitories will be divided vertically into four sections, each with separate entrances, and will be organized into "houses." Each of the houses will have its own lounge, a women's powder room, and each floor and section has its own bathing and toilet facilities.

The dining-lounge area will be located at the rear of the court and will contain a large lounge, snack bar, mail room, rest rooms, laundry facilities as well as kitchen and cafeteria equipment. A service entrance will be from Fifth street, leaving the landscaped courtyard uncluttered.

DEATHS IN MINE ROOF FALLS MORE NUMEROUS THIS YEAR

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—The Bureau of Mines said today that roof falls in coal mines caused 27 per cent more deaths in the first three months of 1956 than in the corresponding months of 1955.

James Westfield, assistant director for health and safety, said the increase was "especially alarming" and appealed for greater co-operation in the fight to minimize roof-fall hazards.

Bureau statistics showed there were 121 coal mine fatalities in the first quarter of 1956, compared with 115 a year ago. They also showed that falling rock and coal killed 79 of the 111 miners who died underground in the first three months of this year.

"Nearly three-fourths of the underground deaths so far this year were caused by roof falls," Westfield said. "Unfailing adherence to established principles of roof control is the only way to stop this appalling waste of skilled manpower.

FOUR LIVES LOST IN FLOODS IN TEXAS; RAIN CONTINUES

DALLAS, Tex., May 2 (AP)—Raging streams that have claimed at least four lives threatened further flood damage in Texas today as more rain fell in a wide section of the state.

The greatest flood danger appeared to be at Brownwood, where rains ranging up to 12 inches sent water nearly six feet deep over the spillway of Lake Brownwood dam.

About 250 persons have been evacuated from their homes there. As rain continued early this morning, National Guard Capt. Russell Miller said "if this continues, the worst is yet to come."

Floods still were a threat at Gatesville and Waco while a crest of 30 feet—two feet above flood stage—was expected on the Trinity river at Dallas today.

BROWN SHOE CO. REPORT

Sales and earnings of the Brown Shoe Co. were "satisfactory" for the first half of the company's fiscal year which ended April 30, it was announced yesterday. The announcement noted the result was achieved despite a four-week shutdown because of a strike of shoe workers in November.

The firm's management will propose to the board of directors at its next meeting a possible splitting of the stock, which would allow more persons to buy shares at lower market prices. The proposal will be based on contemplated earnings and the business outlook for the rest of the year, the announcement added.

U.S. BUYS GRAIN STORAGE BINS FOR USE IN MIDWEST

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The Department of Agriculture Monday announced the purchase of 30,765 circular steel bins with a total capacity of about 100,000,000 bushels for the storage of surplus grains in storage-short areas, primarily in the Midwest.

These purchases brought the Department's total bin capacity to about 984,000,000 bushels. In addition, about 80,000,000 bushels of wheat are stored in idle ships of the United States Maritime Administration.

The new bins cost about $30,200,000, including cost of structures, transportation and erection at storage sites. This is an average erected cost of about 30 cents a bushel of capacity.

The bins will be erected at Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana North Dakota, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Officials said the new purchases were made to halt a possible critical shortage of storage space this summer and fall as farmers delivered surplus grains to the Government under price support programs.

AEC GIVING UP 46,000 ACRES OF LAND IN WEST

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UP)—The Government announced today that more than 46,000 acres of grazing lands reserved for uranium exploration in Utah, Colorado and New Mexico will be returned to the public domain on Aug. 31.

The Interior Department said the land will be opened for prospecting and filing of mining claims on that date. Applications for homesteading may be filed starting June 1.

The land was withdrawn for use by the Atomic Energy Commission in 1948. The AEC said it no longer is needed.

607 JAPANESE SHIPS SEIZED

TOKYO, May 2 (UP)—A Kyodo news agency survey showed today that Russian patrols have captured 446 Japanese craft, most of them fishing boats, and 3854 men since World War II. Fifty-four crewmen and 62 boats still are being held, according to the survey.

Communist China took 161 ships and 1943 crewmen, returning all the men but holding 104 ships. Seventeen persons died in captivity.

MAN CONVICTED OF MURDER THREE TIMES TO BE FREED

OSSINING, N.Y., May 2 (UP)—A Brooklyn man who has been convicted three times of murdering his aged parents in 1950 leaves Sing Sing prison today a free man.

The attorney for the convicted man, Camilo Weston Leyra, 56 years old, said he would serve a release order on the warden today. The order was signed after the state court of appeals ruled Friday that the state had "insufficient evidence" in getting its third conviction against Leyra.

Leyra, who has spent most of the last six years in the Sing Sing death house, had charged that authorities used hypnosis and psychiatric techniques in getting four "confessions" from him.

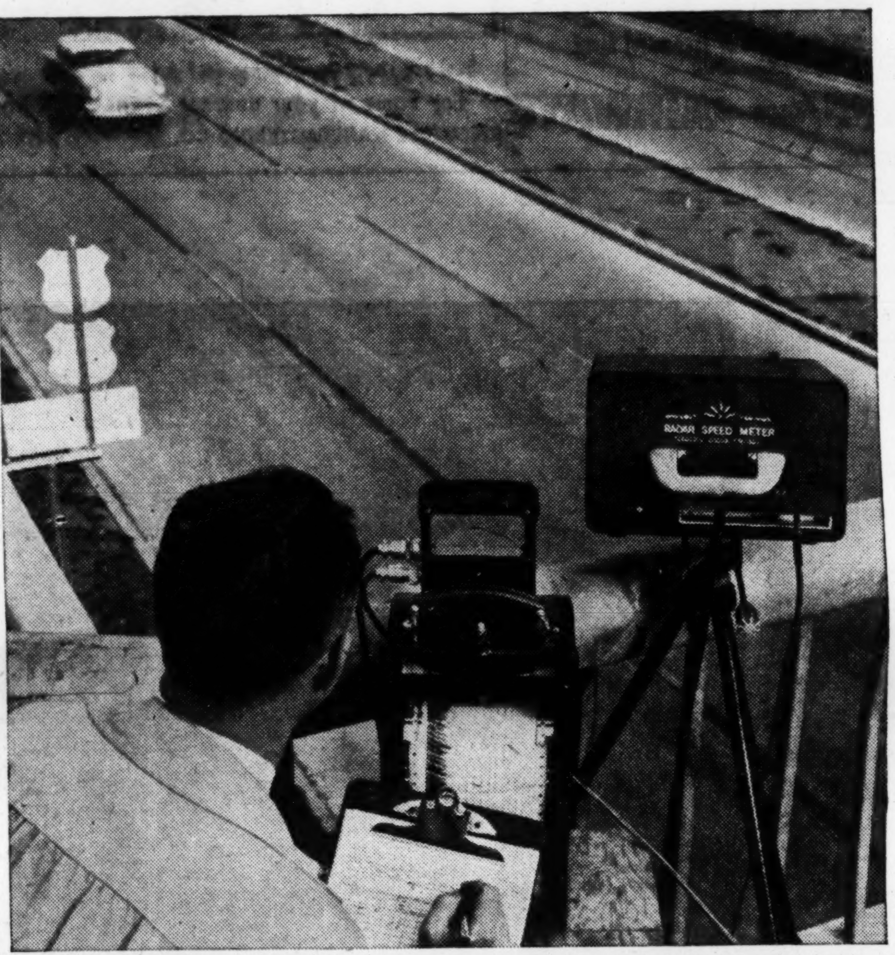
You're watching Radar prove it!



WITHOUT TCP At the San Antonio Proving Grounds, several cars were fueled with competitive premium-grade gasolines. The 200-plus H.P. car you see was driven about 3,000 miles, under normal driving conditions. Then the rate of acceleration was checked by radar. Performance was below par, due to deposits which caused the spark plugs to misfire.

RADAR SPEED METER

WITH TCP The same car, after a few tankfuls of Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP,* showed 18% faster acceleration when checked by radar. Results on the other cars, when switched to Shell Premium with TCP, varied. Most cars showed a 6 to 18% increase in pickup. In each case, TCP additive had neutralized power-wasting deposits, stopped spark plug "miss."

Modern cars are beautiful performers. Yet, within less than 3500 miles of driving, even a new car can fall victim to engine deposits.

These deposits cause pre-firing of the gasoline or spark plug "miss"—denying you the power you paid for, the acceleration you occasionally need no matter how careful a driver you are.

Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP, the greatest gasoline development in 31 years, neutralizes engine deposits. TCP additive restores power to your car that pre-firing and spark plug "miss" take away.

BROWNELL SAYS RED 'NEW LOOK' ISN'T NEW

Renews Talk of Treachery Under Democrats in Talk to G.O.P. Women.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., May 2 (AP)—Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., said yesterday "the so-called new look" of the international Communist leadership is not in fact new and that world domination, by force where necessary, is still its objective.

In an address to the New Jersey Federation of Republican Women, Brownell asserted that on a previous occasion, after World War II, Americans became "gullible" victims of Communist tactics. He said the Communists succeeded then in reaching into some segments of the United States Government.

"Those were the years when the treachery of a top adviser in foreign policy was described as 'a red herring'," he said.

Former President Truman, at a news conference on Aug. 5, 1948, applied the term "red herring" to investigations of Communist subversion by the Republican - controlled Eightieth Congress. Truman said the investigations were designed to divert attention from what he termed Congress's failure to act on his anti-inflation legislative proposals.

One of the witnesses called in those investigations was State Department aid Alger Hiss, later indicted and convicted of perjury.

Brownell said that in the postwar period, the Communists took advantage of the wartime military alliance to "insinuate themselves" into American institutions—"some of our news channels, a few of our labor unions, and even into Government itself."

He said the Soviet Union's current line is simply a throwback to the "united front" tactics of the 1930s involving an expressed willingness "to work with any group opposed to capitalism." He added:

"There have been no changes in their strategy; the only changes have been in the tactics to be used within the overall strategy. They still plot the establishment of Communism throughout the world. They still seek to crush the democracies by force where necessary."

Referring to President Eisenhower, Brownell said:

"We are fortunate in this hour to have as our leader, and as the leader of the free world, a man who knows what international Communism is, how it operates abroad, and how it is attempting to operate within the United States."

EAST GERMAN ARMY ON MAY DAY MARCH

Column of gray-uniformed East German army sergeants marching past reviewing stand in East Berlin yesterday in parade marking annual Communist May day celebration. The parade, officially boycotted by West Berlin unions, was first public display of the newly-organized East German army, formed from the militant Communist Peoples' Police. First units were sworn in yesterday as Soviet observers watched. Western military attaches noted that the annual Moscow parade was one of the briefest and least warlike ever held, apparently in accordance with Russia's professed policy of peace.

Edgar Bergen's 20 Years as Radio Star

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, May 2.

AT the luncheon honoring the twentieth anniversary of Edgar Bergen on radio given by the Radio and Television Executives Society the other day, Jack Benny referred to Bergen as "the last of the red hot radio stars." There were, in fact, quite a lot of gags about radio as a dead art.

EDGAR BERGEN

Bergen himself said that "people will read about this luncheon and then they'll discover I'm still on the radio." Like a lot of witicisms, that one has a slight undercurrent of bitterness and a great deal of truth in it. You can commit the most astounding things on radio these days without causing any stir at all. Still, Bergen had the last word. After getting a plaque for his 20 years on radio, he declared: "They won't need a similar plaque for television comedians. They seem to run through them much faster."

★ ★ ★

THEY DO, INDEED. As Jack Benny was to remark to Phil Silvers who was also there: "He's television's greatest star—this year." As George Gobel was last year and somebody else will be next year. And if any one of them will be around 20 years hence, they will richly deserve a plaque like Edgar's.

Bergen richly deserves his, too. I have only a dim recollection of that celebrated first network appearance on Rudy Vallee's program except that I heard it and it seems generations ago. A depression. A world war. The hydrogen bomb. Peace and prosperity. A lot of things have intervened but still Charlie McCarthy and his impudent wisecracks go on.

★ ★ ★

I STILL RECALL his feud with W. C. Fields and that snarling little voice, exclaiming: "I'll clip you, so help me—I'll mow you down." Or the time with the late John Barrymore, which is the first and conceivably the last time Charlie was respectful.

"Charlie ribbed him, but he didn't really have his heart in it," Bergen said. "It was ribbing, but with gentleness and compassion. Charlie was a little overpowered by John. After all, no one ever really did get the better of a Barrymore.

BARRYMORE: I have my lad, many times.

CHARLIE: I mean your nose is so pointed and sharp.

BARRYMORE: Perchance, it's because I've been led around by it so often.

THIS WAS HARDLY characteristic. As Edward R. Murrow said at the luncheon: "When you appear on Bergen's show, Edgar puts his arm around your neck and says he's glad to have you there—then Charlie stabs you in the back." Over the years the impudent little woodenhead has stuck knives in some very distinguished backs. Al Jolson was hailed as "you Civil War Sinatra." Louella Parsons was dismissed as "Old Blabbermouth." When he met Noel Coward, his opener was, "Who the hell is Noel Coward?" And speaking of Orson Welles's program he said: "I thought something died in my radio."

If Bergen had said these things without the dummy in his lap, I strongly suspect that they would have been seriously resented not only by the victims but by large segments of the audience. But Charlie could cut the great down to size with impunity. In fact, I've always thought that was why he was so popular; he was a sort of escape valve in which the ordinary little guy could blow off a little vicarious steam at the rich and famous.

★ ★ ★

IT'S NO SECRET that the quips really emanate from Bergen's lips, not from Charlie's, but without Charlie on his lap, Bergen couldn't say them, or if he did, they'd sound entirely different. During the decades he broke lances with some formidable foes—Fred Allen, Barrymore, Fields—all of them now departed. But Bergen and Charlie are still around. And so is radio.

As Peter Lind Hayes said: "My 7-year-old son, who was brought up on television, thinks of radio as a new medium."

Tips for Teens

By Elinor Williams

BATHING SUIT time is coming. You can tell it by this teener's problem. She asks:

"I always read other kids' problems in this column, but I've never seen one like mine. I'm very skinny (people call me 'Skinny'). I look terrible in shorts and a bathing suit. Nothing helps me gain weight. What do you suggest?"

ELINOR WILLIAMS

Answer: Gaining weight is not entirely a matter of food. Take it slow and easy. Constant rushing helps to make you thinner, so give yourself time to do things and go places without a frantic rush. Avoid leaving things until the last minute.

Don't try to have too many activities besides school work and helping at home.

Avoid exercising until you are exhausted. Stop before you're tired. A little rest and relaxation after meals (20 minutes to a half-hour) will also help to add curves to your figure.

You'll soon look prettier if you don't skip meals. Many teeners are undernourished because they fill up with soft drinks before and during meals and kill their appetite for health-building food. Eat a good breakfast—fruit juice, an egg or two, two slices of toast, milk. Choose a luncheon plate, milk and dessert at the school cafeteria. Eat a complete dinner.

Use butter or margarine generously on bread, rolls, toast, vegetables. Eat mayonnaise on salads. Cream soups. Desserts. Add extra bread with butter and jelly or marmalade to each meal. Drink milk with meals, if possible, and between meals . . . especially after school with a sandwich instead of soft drinks. Eat a bedtime snack, too—milk with sandwiches, cookies or crackers.

IN a season when pretty colors have been unusually fashionable, black dresses look striking and provide flattering contrast. Noteworthy among the models on display in the St. Louis stores are those black frocks, designed for late spring and summer wear. Some are allied with colorful printed fabrics and some are combined with white. The dress that is unrelieved by white or a color is equally impressive. Sketched are styles available.

★ ★ ★

1—The sheath dress continues to be a popular, basic type. It is shown here of black linen-like rayon. Slim skirt has a kick pleat at the center back. Bodice has low neckline. The novelty plaid bolero that ties may be obtained in two color schemes, one combining shades of brown and yellow with black, the other combining red and yellow with charcoal gray. Dress is obtainable in junior sizes from 7 to 15.

★ ★ ★

2—An arresting mode for late day and evening wear consists of a printed cotton lace skirt combining black and white, and a shirred bodice of black matt jersey. The off-shoulder bodice is attached to the skirt at the normal waistline. Skirt is printed in a pattern suggesting graduated panels and is lined with rayon taffeta. Belt is of black patent leather. A red net petticoat provides bouffancy.

★ ★ ★

3—The three-way costume with the new "peel-off" jacket is sketched in black spun linen accented with white. Sheath dress has an Empire waistline marked with a band of white fabric that has a tailored bow at the back. Bodice is cut lower at the back than the front. Overblouse of the white linen-like material buttons to the dress at the front and fastens at the back. The neckline is wide and rounded. Very brief bolero with short sleeves and a rolling collar completes this costume. Sizes range from 10 to 18.

★ ★ ★

4—Eyelet embroidered cottons are in vogue this season, and may be obtained in a variety of different styles and shades. Shown is a full-skirted princess mode of black eyelet embroidered cotton over black cotton satin. Skirt has an extra petticoat of net. Bodice is cut with a low, square neckline. White grosgrain ribbon circles the bodice and is finished with a tailored bow at the back. Skirt fullness is swept to the back. Misses' sizes are available.

★ ★ ★

5—Pure silk black shantung is a popular choice for a sheath dress that will be practical and becoming throughout the summer. The dress is lined completely with rayon taffeta. Bodice is cut with a neckline that is high and rounded at the front but slopes lower at the back. A bias fold around the neckline and short sleeves is decorated with a novelty black braid. This dress may be obtained also of navy blue shantung. Junior sizes are available.

★ ★ ★

6—This black eyelet embroidered cotton sheath is cut with a long torso bodice that gives the effect of an overblouse. The dress is lined with black cotton satin. A bias band of the satin circles the hipline. It has a bow at the side front, the bow held with a jeweled pin. High, round neckline is edged with the satin. Elongated shoulder line forms brief sleeves. Sizes range from 9 to 15.

Dehumidifiers for Damp Homes.

ONE of the most interesting things about water vapor—that stuff that makes windows wet in winter and causes pipes and tanks to sweat—is that is can get around in a whale of a hurry. If water vapor is added into the air at one point of the house it immediately flows throughout the entire house and thereby increases the water content of the air in all the rooms.

On the other hand, if you remove the water vapor from the air at some point in the house, the humidity of the air will be lowered throughout the house.

Now one way to prevent a house from becoming damp and dank during warm humid weather is simply to remove the excess water from the air and this can be done by a device called a dehumidifier. Such a device will actually suck the water right out of the air. There are two types of dehumidifiers. One uses chemicals such as calcium chloride and as the moist air flows across the crystals, the moisture is absorbed by the chemicals.

The other type of dehumidifier is a mechanical device and works something like a refrigerator. There is a coil which is chilled and as the air flows across this coil, the water vapor in the air is deposited on the coil in the form of a liquid. The liquid then falls into a pan which is emptied from time to time or it runs through a hose or pipe to the outdoors.

Either of these type dehumidifiers can be used successfully in a house to help remedy a dampness problem. No matter where they are located, if there is a free circulation of air they will lower the overall humidity in the house.

Prohibition and Communism

By Fulton J. Sheen

A YANK at Oxford during the prohibition period years ago, and a Russian in Moscow temporarily under the Communist regime, both advanced identical arguments for their different causes. The American at Oxford argued that prohibition would be eminently successful if we could prohibit all liquor for a lifetime. After several generations, he argued, there would no longer be a desire for any kind of liquor, because the people would not know what it was like.

Fulton J. Sheen

The Soviet argument is the same: If we can condition the Russian people to accept socialsim, to hate religion, to believe that the Western World is imperialistic for 60 years, we will eventually produce a civilization which will necessarily be Communistic. Not knowing what exists or goes on beyond the Iron Curtain; they will never want anything they do not have. The Iron Curtain thus plays the same role as prohibition. Both did away with swinging doors. "See no liquor, want no liquor," said one. "Have no freedom, want no freedom," says the Soviet.

* * *

BOTH ARGUMENTS are based upon the exaggeration of the psychology of the "conditioned reflex" which assumes that man is an animal, and can be trained to react in a certain way. It should be pointed out that the Russian psychologist who gave the world the "conditioned reflex" once had all his kennels flooded in Leningrad, and in the crisis all the animals forgot their training and reverted to type.

But what startles a thinking mind is the argument that when liberties are denied over a long period of time, there is never any feeling that liberty has been infringed.

Deny a boy the sight of a girl during his entire span of existence, and he will never have a desire for completion in marriage. Put miners and their wives into the mines, provide a habitation there for a lifetime and their children will grow up without any desire to see the light. Keep automobiles out of a town for 60 years and the newer population will never want mechanical transportation.

Tyrannize Russia or China for 60 years and the people will never want to live without tyranny.

* * *

WHAT IS FORGOTTEN in the arguments is that natural desires are never extinguished. Isolating an individual from human society does not necessarily make him anti-social.

There are certain instincts, cravings, and desires in human nature that are just as much a part of human equipment as the blood. These aspirations may be crushed, as sometimes Oriental children have their arms and legs twisted to make them professional beggars, but this will not destroy their desire to walk normally.

If we had prohibition for 100 years, it would never have extinguished the desire for beverage on the part of humans. Conceivably the memory of it could haunt them and increase the desire. Chesterton, once speaking of prohibition, said that "the Americans left off brewing Christian beer and took to drinking fermented wood pulp and methylated spirit."

In like manner, Communism has destroyed the outward expression for freedom, but it has not destroyed the inward need of it; in fact, it has increased it. The refusal of Russian people to freely converse with visitors is a proof that for the moment they must be continent about their human aspirations.

Furthermore, if the propagation of atheism for 50 years blots out the desire for religion, why is religion on the increase in Russia? It is because the human soul, made for God, craves for Life and Truth and Love; and because the human soul, being spiritual, clamors for liberty.

Take the Soviet harness off the humans made horses in Russia, and watch them run and cavort in the pastures of liberty.

Crime Tour

By Stan Delaplane

WASHINGTON.

WHEN the world was young and I was in knee pants, I burned the midnight oil over ads that read: "Follow that man! You, too, can be a secret agent!"

Being somewhat on the shorts in those days, I never could afford the course. But, at long last, I can report what I missed.

STAN DELAPLANE

The phone rang this morning while I was still in bed. "This is the FBI." (This is a ghastly way to wake up. I don't recommend it.)

"Yes, sir," I said. "I confess to the Brink's robbery."

"We already have a confession," said the FBI man. "The purpose of this call is that J. Edgar Hoover would be pleased if you care to tour our headquarters."

"You promise to let me out again?"

"Cross my heart," said the FBI man.

★ ★ ★

THE FBI BUILDING is at Ninth and Pennsylvania avenue in Washington. I went up to the fifth floor on a self-operating elevator and was immediately run down and trampled by a herd of high school youths.

"It is the spring season," said the FBI agent, picking me up off the floor. "We get 300,000 people through here each year. In the spring it is mostly school kids. What do you prefer to see?"

"Anything you say," I said. "Maybe some public enemies, drawn and quartered."

"Most of our work is scientific," he said. "Look out, here comes another bunch." He dragged me in through a doorway as another mob of children surged through the hall.

"In here we can take a sample of hair and tell you the age, sex and race of the person it came from. Over here we examine blood samples. In this room we look into various drugs. And here we can examine automobile paint. We have samples from every manufacturer. With a shred of paint we can tell you the year, make and model. What do you think of that?"

"I was a mile away when it happened," I said. "I want my lawyer."

★ ★ ★

HOOVER HAS SET UP an excellent display. Proving not only that Crime Does Not Pay. But also you can't get away with anything.

"We have 140,000,000 sets of fingerprints," said the agent. "We have to keep them in a separate building. All our file and all of our laboratory work is available to any police department in the United States.

"Do you like to shoot? This room in the basement is a gun range. It is backed by battleship steel and the walls are soundproofed with seaweed."

The agent put two bullets in a revolver. He pointed me in the direction of the target and got cautiously in back of me. Ready to duck, I imagine.

The target is a silhouetted man with one hand behind his back. I tried to take a stance like Gary Cooper when he is going thataway. Bang! Bang! The agent fished in the target on a wire.

"The first shot hit square in the chest. The second one didn't even nick the paper. You can keep the target. Just tell people you only fired once."

"I am not very bloodthirsty," I said apologetically.

"It takes time," he said, kindly. A rush of school children came in. The agent picked up a gun and began to fire bullets casually into the target. Hitting head or chest as easily as I could do it with a peashooter.

He wound up by firing a clip from a machine gun. The students all cheered and the agent looked pleased.

"That always gets them."

★ ★ ★

"ASK ANY QUESTIONS you like," said the agent. "Here is the record of violent crime." It showed murders happening every 27.6 seconds. Armed robberies every umpty-ump seconds. And so on.

"Crimes against property go up in the winter. Violence against person in the summer. We are happy to have had you as our guest. Come in again."

As I went out the door, a covey of school kids ran over me again.

It must be summer. It was certainly violent.

Grandmother's Role

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

FOR years, Mrs. Q. looked forward to the joys of being a grandmother. "They always tell you that you can enjoy the children then, without feeling all the responsibility for them," she recalls. "I don't have it that way. Sometimes it seems that I have responsibilities but no enjoyment.

DR. PAUL POPENOE

"My only daughter married and left home," she continues, "but after six years, business changes brought them back to our city, now with two small children. I was overjoyed at the idea of being near my only grandchildren; but after a few visits with them I've practically been ordered to stay away!

"It seems that I do everything wrong; I spoil them, I interfere with her discipline, I tell them things that aren't true (Santa Claus, for instance!), I let them eat between meals, I give them candy, I don't make them pick up their toys, I let them sit up too late—well, my daughter and I just have different ideas. When I remark that I did a pretty good job in bringing her up, she snaps back, 'Forget it.' I don't want to lose my grandchildren, Dr. Popenoe. What can I do?"

★ ★ ★

FROM WHAT YOU WRITE, Mrs. Q., it's easy to see what you can't do! But you can do these things.

Assure your daughter that you understand her feelings and that you'll do your best to carry out her policies and program. If you think they are wrong, you'll say nothing.

Study some of the latest books or inexpensive pamphlets on child guidance. Your public library can supply them.

If there is a child study group or parent education class in your neighborhood, join it.

If you take the children out, as for instance to the park, take two or three of the neighbor's children along, too. That's good for all the children, and you'll be less likely to give your grandchildren too much attention.

★ ★ ★

YOUR DAUGHTER may be wrong, but it's her responsibility, not yours. Of course, you want to enjoy your grandchildren, and you can be one of the greatest blessings in their lives; but you'll have to watch your step.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

DEAR MRS. POST: At a rather large afternoon party, is it up to the host, or hostess, to introduce their guests to each other, or should the guests introduce themselves.

Answer: Host and hostess should introduce as many as they can particularly any who seem to be "stranded." On the other hand, it is entirely correct for guests to consider the roof of their hostess an introduction and speak to each other.

The ABCs of Becoming a Good Cook

St. Louisan L. Belle Pollard Has Written Textbook for Home Economics Pupils

By Mary Kimbrough

OUR blossoming genius with a saucepan and kitchen stove, we regret to say, was thwarted by our seventh-grade "domestic arts" course. This course taught us only how to make eggs ala goldenrod and oatmeal with prunes and planted in our mind the unshakable conviction that cooking is (1) a wearisome chore and (2) only for the brighter minds of this universe. We also ended the semester's journey through egg yolks and prunes with the understanding that whatever is good also is fattening and what's good for you tastes terrible.

Now we know better, thanks to one of the newest cookery books on the market, a combination textbook and recipe book, written by Miss L. Belle Pollard, supervisor of home economics in the St. Louis public schools. The 510-page, extensively-illustrated book, "Experiences With Foods," is published by Ginn and Company.

In her book, which follows an earlier one on homemaking, Miss Pollard develops her theories that anyone who can read can cook, that cooking should be fun for teen-agers as well as adults, that the table is a pretty important center for building harmonious family relationships and that healthful, nutritious foods can be appetizing and tasty.

Her introduction states its purpose:

"The author has been primarily concerned with the growth of a pupil as a person and the achievement of a happy life. 'Experiences With Foods' is intended for high school pupils beginning to study the planning, preparation and serving of meals. It will be helpful in all types of schools since their programs have a sameness of purpose and procedure.

"A wide range of needs has been considered: social needs, from the elementary and simple to the more formal and demanding; budgetary needs, from those of the family of quite limited means to those of the family who, spending generously, could spend more wisely. Resources of both urban and rural communities are recognized. This book provides a practical, well-integrated, family-centered course in foods at the secondary school level."

That term, "family-centeredness," is a keynote of Miss Pollard's approach to meal planning and preparation and other facets of modern homemaking. She believes that homemaking should be a family responsibility, that all, young as well as adult, boys as well as girls, should share that responsibility.

"Helping a pupil to assist at home," she writes, "builds competence as well as co-operation. A sense of integration, whether in co-operative effort or in dovetailing tasks to prepare a meal at a given time, is immensely important to the young person who is learning to plan and accomplish tasks responsibly. . . . Interested young people can do much to raise nutritional standards and practices in their homes, and in doing so they not only function more positively as family members but are themselves helped to become well-poised, efficient adults."

The book is divided into nine units: Eating Well, Breakfasts, Living Well, Luncheons or Suppers, Dinners, Individual Food Needs, Food Preservation, Good Manners and Entertaining and the Cookbook. Each chapter within those units is headed by the words, "you will learn" and succinct condensations of the chapter content. Each is ended by questions to test the student's understanding of what he has learned, projects to use that knowledge and understanding and additional reading on that phase of food or nutrition.

BELIEVING that meal planning is associated with and governed by such considerations as individual nutrition needs, budget limitations, economic status and family customs, she has included such auxiliary information as table setting, eating to control weight, feeding the convalescent, etiquette for teen-agers, how to prepare snacks, planned spending, home preservation methods and basic nutrition knowledge.

"A good cook," she said, "must first of all know nutrition and be aware of the needs and opportunities for including minerals, vitamins and proteins in the diet. She also must be fully cognizant of the family budget, aware of the time and energy required in preparing certain dishes, as well as of the individual tastes of her family.

"Too many women, these days, rush home from a bridge game late in the afternoon wondering what in the world they'll have for dinner. Menus should be planned a week in advance, to take advantage of market specials and to make sure that the proper nutritive elements are included.

"As to the cost factor, there is no need always to serve sirloin steak for proteins. Instead, you could choose Irish stew or broiled fish or a cheese dish.

"But it's important psychologically to make those less expensive dishes as tasty and attractive as possible. Don't let the children think that because there is a low budget they 'have to' eat a cheaper dish. Make that cheaper dish something they'll look forward to."

DELVING into her own extensive files for recipes, Miss Pollard asked the following home economics instructors to assist her by testing the recipes: Mrs. Clara Finley, Central; Miss Gertrude Milliken, Southwest; Mrs. Suzanne MacDonald, Hadley Technical; Miss Margaret Kirkpatrick, Soldan, and Miss Ruby Smalls and Miss Hattie A. Gillam, Sumner.

The teachers, in turn, invited their pupils to try out the recipes in the classroom, and there the boys proved to be as adept and enthusiastic as the girls. At Central, for instance, a basketball star deftly and quickly manipulated the dough for pastry twists and produced such a superior batch that he was asked to give a classroom demonstration of expert dough handling. As a result, pastry twists have become a food specialty at Central.

Mrs. MacDonald took two recipes for veal and vegetables with noodles and potato pork pie home to try out on her family. They were so popular that they both have become standbys on the MacDonald dinner table.

MISS POLLARD, an apartment dweller at the Montclair, 18 South Kingshighway, tried out many of the recipes on her own kitchen stove. Despite her crowded calendar, not only in her school work but as an active worker in the American Home Economics Association, she enjoys preparing her own meals, developing variations on basic recipes.

Born in Paris, Mo., she early developed an interest in homemaking and foods because of the happiness in her own family circle and the pleasure she and her mother had in preparing meals. By the time she had completed grade school she was determined to become a home economist. She took her bachelor's degree from Northeast State Teachers College in Kirksville, and her master's degree from the University of Missouri.

After teaching at Cameron, Mo., she became the state's first itinerant teacher of home and family education for adults working for the State Department of Education. As assistant state supervisor of home economics, she came to St. Louis temporarily to introduce the home and family education program, now grown into one of the most extensive adult education programs in the country, and was invited to became a member of the St. Louis Public Schools staff 12 years ago.

Her first book, "Homemaking for Adults," was published in 1939. "Experiences With Food" also reflects her interest in the broader homemaking picture, but the emphasis this time is on the family dinner table. The Cookbook section runs the gamut from stuffed tomatoes to shrimp fondue, from cinnamon rolls to Dixie porkchops, from chili con carne to peach velvet ice cream.

Favorite Recipe

This is one of Miss Pollard's favorite recipes:

REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

Ingredients: Three and one-fourth cups sifted flour, one-half teaspoon baking soda, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two cups table fat, one and one-half teaspoons vanilla, one and one-fourth cups sugar, two eggs, one and one-half tablespoons dark sirup, one cup chopped nuts.

Sift flour, baking soda and salt together. Blend fat and vanilla; add sugar, one-fourth cup at a time, creaming after each addition until fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, to fat mixture; beat with rotary beater after each until blended. Add sirup and blend. Add flour mixture and nuts gradually to fat mixture, stirring until blended. Shape dough into three rolls. Wrap separately in waxed paper. Chill about one hour. Slice rolls to one-eighth inch thickness. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for six to eight minutes. Yield: four dozen.

Contract Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

AS USUAL, it was the defenders' second lead — not their first — that was the crucial play in today's deal. Miss Brash led her fourth best club, the five, and Mr. Masters won with the ace, felling the lone king. This was purely routine. But the lead at trick two was of vital importance.

The safe return, the easy return, was the queen of clubs. It cannot "lose" anything. It is true, however, that it cannot set the contract.

Mr. Masters did not return the queen of clubs but choose the only lead to beat the hand.

Here was his reasoning. If Miss Brash had a sure spade winner and the ace of diamonds, the defenders would win four tricks automatically — one in each suit. But this was unlikely.

On the other hand, it was likely that she had one or the other. If so, there was a chance for success, but it would be necessary to win two heart tricks before Mr. Champion had an opportunity to pick up the outstanding trumps and set dummy's diamond suit.

Mr. Masters figured the hand could be set if Miss Brash had either of the winners named above, plus the queen of hearts. His lead, then, at the second trick was the deuce of hearts.

Miss Brash played her queen and Mr. Champion had no better play than to win with dummy's king. He sensed the true situation and, in an effort to shut out Miss Brash in case she held the lone king of trumps, he refused the spade finesse and went up with the ace.

But it was no good. Miss Brash won the second spade and her heart return through dummy's jack up to Mr. Masters's ace-10 put the contract down one.

Secrets of Charm

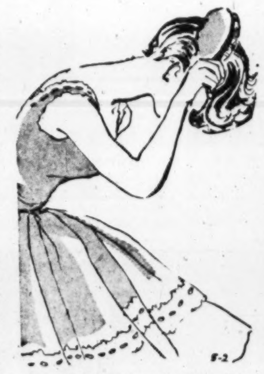
Brushing Your Hair

GOOD for you if 100 strokes of the hairbrush every day are so routine you don't give them a thought.

But it's a good idea to think about hairbrushing even if you brush regularly and enough. Check on your method of brushing—the right way greatly improves results. And if you don't brush conscientiously, it may be that you've never given the matter enough thought to realize all the good it does.

★ ★ ★

WHY the hairbrush habit? To free the hair of dust between shampoos, of course, but there are other less obvious reasons. One is to stimulate the flow of blood to the follicles where the hair originates, and where it is nourished and strengthened. That's where the proper method of brushing comes in—the value of brushing doubles if you bend forward and far over as you brush.



PROPER BRUSHING WILL IMPROVE THE RESULTS. A NEW BRILLIANCE.

Don't spike your scalp with the bristles to make it tingle. This does more harm than good. Instead, encourage a natural flow of blood by hanging your head. This also helps air to circulate to the scalp and through the strands of hair so it's daintier and fluffier between shampoos.

★ ★ ★

THE PROPER METHOD of brushing also affects another important benefit of the hairbrush habit, the spreading of natural oils from the crown to the ends of the air. And that's what must happen if the hair is to be polished to glowing beauty.

It makes a big difference in the condition of the ends of the hair—when the natural oil reaches them as it should, they lose the tendency to friz and become more manageable.

To make sure the brush carries the oils properly, never attack your hair with random strokes, full speed ahead. Take your time. Make motions that are even and deliberate. Begin every stroke at the hairline, slowly roll it across the scalp and then to the very ends of the hair.

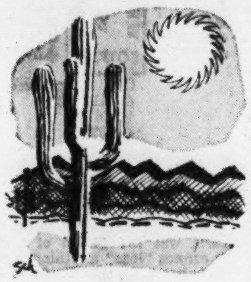
Out of Town Guests To Be Entertained Here

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

MRS. WEBSTER TILTON of Cooperstown, N.Y., is due here next week to visit her mother, Mrs. August A. Busch, at Grant's Farm. She will come from Phoenix, Ariz., where she and Mr. Tilton have been having a winter holiday.



Mrs. Tilton, the former Miss Alice Busch, became a grandmother about three weeks ago. A son was born in Cooperstown to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Busch Hager. Named for his father, the baby is the fourth Louis in as many generations in the Hager family. His mother was Miss Mary Whitaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Whitaker of Camden, S.C. The family has returned to Norfolk, Va., where Mr. Hager is serving in the Navy.

English visitors, Mr. and Mrs. William Clarke of Norwich, Norfolk county, England, will be here today, having landed yesterday on the Queen Elizabeth, to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vergil C. Lipscomb, 9 Brentmoor Park, Clayton. They will join their daughter, Miss Tessa Clarke, who has been the Lipscombs' guest since early March. Last year Mr. and Mrs. Lipscomb visited the Clarkes during a trip abroad.

Miss Clarke has been entertained informally and during the spring school recess accompanied Miss Jane Ann Lipscomb, a Mary Institute senior, to Florida.

The Clarkes will stay here until May 15 when they will take their daughter on a quick trip to California. Afterward Mr. and Mrs. Lipscomb hope Miss Clarke will accompany them and their family to Harbor Point, Mich., for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke will have 10 days in New York before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Franc Barada, 27 Clermont lane, Ladue, have been entertaining for the last few days Dr. Ernest Guenther of New York, world traveler and authority on essential oils and aromatic chemicals. Dr. Guenther, who was educated in Switzerland, came to St. Louis to speak before the American Chemical Society Saturday night and the Institute of Food Technologists Monday night, and was entertained at parties. He will depart today for the East.

St. Louisans Traveling in Europe.

WORD has reached two St. Louis families of the activities of their young daughters who are spending several months abroad attending school and traveling. Miss Jane Chambers Thatcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Fusz Thatcher, 30 Lenox place, and Miss Abigail Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland W. Richards, 4609 Pershing avenue, who were students at Trinita dei Monti, Mother House of the Religious of the Sacred Heart, in Rome for three months, have written home that they are now in Paris.

Under the chaperonage of Countess de Montivault of Brussels, who motored to Paris to meet them, they are touring the chateau country and will accompany the countess back to Brussels for a brief visit and to see the surrounding countryside of Belgium and Holland. Countess de Montivault is the sister of Count Jehan de Noue, writer and lecturer now living in New York who has often visited in St. Louis, and is related to many St. Louisans, including the Mullanphy and Harney families.

Next stop after Brussels is England where Miss Thatcher and Miss Richards will spend two weeks before sailing for home June 14 from Southampton aboard the United States. In London they will be guests of Mrs. Sybil Searight, who lived in St. Louis for several years before World War II when her husband was here with a British oil company. They will also visit friends of the Richards family at the seashore and in the country.

Joan Singer Announces Wedding Plans.

THE marriage of Miss Joan Carolyn Singer, who will be graduated June 11 from Vassar College, to Air Force Lt. James Edwin Schiele will take place June 30. The ceremony will be performed by Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman in the garden at the home of the prospective bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Singer, 53 Picardy lane, Ladue. An hour after the 7:30 o'clock ceremony, there will be a reception, also at the Singer home.

—John Lane Photograph.

MISS SINGER . . . TO BE JUNE BRIDE.

Miss Singer has asked several Vassar classmates to serve as her attendants. Miss Patricia MacArthur of Monsey, N.Y., will be maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Anita Ehrman, New York; Miss Mary Prince, Paterson, N.J.; Miss Katherine Stark of St. Louis and Louisiana, Mo., and Mrs. Robert Prosser, New London, Conn., a former Vassar student. The prospective bride's young sister, Barbara, will act as flower girl.

Lt. Schiele, who is stationed at Shaw Air Force Base, Sumter, S.C., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Schiele, 80 Arundel place, Clayton. His brother, Capt. Herbert S. Schiele Jr., an Air Force doctor, will serve as best man. Ushers will be Lt. Rolf G. Thyrre, Greenwich, Conn.; Lt. Robert Bruce Aikens, Birmingham, Mich.; Daniel E. Singer, brother of the bride, and Peter C. Enslin and Marc A. Seldin, St. Louis.

Pre-Wedding Parties for Miss Reiner.

IN addition to the parties already announced for Miss Cicely Reiner, who will be married June 2 to Robert Lee Baker, several others have been planned.

Saturday Miss Reiner's maid of honor, Miss Nancy Groves, will give a shower at the home of her mother, Mrs. C. Mercedes Groves, 1 Exmoor, Ladue. An aunt of the bride-elect, Mrs. Eben T. Bradbury Jr., 7473 Teasdale avenue, University City, is planning a party for the families on May 16. The rehearsal dinner will be given June 1 by an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Bradbury at their home, 7054 Washington avenue, University City. Among the parties already given was one last Thursday by Miss Delores Fornara of Atlanta, Ga., a bridesmaid.

"Paul says I'm a peach!"

Paul thinks it's just wonderful the way I keep our house looking practically perfect and still have time to do so many other things. The plain truth is that I've found faster, easier ways to get my work done. Take wood floors. Cleaning and waxing them was something fierce. I can still remember how my muscles ached for days after. But not now. It's almost a pleasure with Bruce Cleaning Wax. There's no floor washing at all! Bruce cleans and waxes at the same time. And my wood floors really look beautiful. Much nicer than when I did them the hard way. If you have wood floors, you'll really appreciate Bruce Cleaning Wax.

Incidentally, I've found other Bruce floor products help me, too. There's Bruce Floor Cleaner for cleaning and lighter waxing, Bruce Paste Wax, Bruce Asphalt Tile Cleaner, Bruce Asphalt Tile Self-Polishing Wax and the new Bruce Self-Polishing Wax. Yes, for floors it's Bruce!

My Day

Springtime: Flowers in Back Yard

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

MY little backyard began to flower Saturday and Sunday, the first really spring-like days we've had here this year. Hyacinths came out along the border of the yard, and I saw buds on other plants that will burst forth in a day or two.

I am delighted to find that an azalea, which I transplanted after receiving it as an Easter gift last year, will flower copiously any minute. The buds are everywhere. It gives one such a pleasant feeling, after transplanting something with great misgivings, to find that it actually will bloom.

THE PUBLISHERS, Spencer Press, have just sent me through Hawthorne Books, Inc., their distributor, three volumes which I think any school or village library would be glad to have.

One of these is a collection of prose and poetry, chosen from the world's literature by Marjorie Barrows, and, on the whole, I find her choices delightful.

Then there is "One Thousand Inspirational Things," compiled by Audrey Stone Morris. This also is a collection of prose and poetry, dwelling on subjects that will give the ordinary individual "strength, courage, confidence, beauty and inspiration" in meeting the stresses of every-day life.

The third book contains selections of poetry and prose compiled by Hugh Graham and is called "One Thousand American Things." Here are stories and poems, essays and speeches, ballads and legends—all a part of America's heritage—that should not be forgotten by the young people of today. So it is good to have them in a volume together.

Between the acts Mrs. Edward F. Kercher Jr., presented a dance.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Dear Martha:

MY husband and I have been married three years and have a son four months old. Lately my husband has been going out with some flimsy excuse on an errand that shouldn't take more than 15 or 20 minutes, but doesn't come back until way after midnight. One Saturday evening we went to his sister's. Her husband wasn't home at the time so my husband went out to the car to see about something. I finally got tired of waiting and came home alone about 9. He came in at 2 a.m. It's bad enough when he leaves me at home but leaving me somewhere else apparently not caring how I get home is even worse. He's out now while I'm writing this letter. It's 11:30 and he went out at 6 to get cigarettes. I know he's not interested in another woman. He drinks beer when he's out but drinks moderately. He always comes home with a kiss for me and acts as though he has done nothing wrong. Then I get mad and he gets mad and I usually end up by saying, "Let's forget it." The last time I told him the next time it happened I would go out myself the following night and leave him to baby-sit. He told me he wouldn't stand for it. I asked why he thought I should stand for it and he said, "That's different." I don't want to leave him as I love him too much. Please let me have a few suggestions from you and from any other readers who have overcome such a problem.

WIFE WITHOUT A HUSBAND.

What's "different" about it? Absolutely nothing, but it's an old masculine philosophy that what's right for the husband is wrong for the wife and I personally think it's high time the wives voted against the double standard. Naturally, you want to consider the baby's welfare—and I agree that two wrongs don't make a right—but I'm not so sure it wouldn't be a good idea to go out some evening, perhaps over to his sister's, and let him realize how it feels to be left alone. As you say, you have no doubts as to his loyalty to you and you know he isn't drinking to excess when he's out, but it's a thoughtless thing to do and unless you can impress on him somehow that he will have to change, you and the baby will be sitting home alone half your lives. If other readers have suggestions, I'll gladly pass them along.

Dear Martha:

HOW MANY WOMEN PAST 40 can compare favorably with the professional models on television? I consider myself reasonably attractive. My fault in appearance is overweight which is constantly being thrown up to me by my husband. Maybe you will ask me why I don't do something about it. I do. I bowl, attend a gym class, play volley ball and swim all summer. No results. I am also active in club and church and school work. I have honestly and sincerely tried to please my husband but it does no good. I want to hold my marriage together at all costs but for my peace of mind I don't know how much longer I can go on.

ANOTHER DISILLUSIONED.

I can't prescribe diet or exercise for reducing because that involves medical counsel, but I do say that a wise wife keeps herself attractive. But that means more than a slim figure and good grooming. Too many women, once they catch a man, let themselves go mentally as well as physically, become lazy in their thinking and refuse even to try to keep up with those in the business and professional world where a women is compelled to stay as alert and attractive as possible to meet the competition. I realize it's not easy to care for children and a home and still look like a professional model. Few husbands expect that—those who do have no right to—but even a busy homemaker owes it to herself and her husband to keep up appearances and retain at least a tiny bit of the sparkle and glamour that attracted him in the first place.

Women Past 50

By Ruth Millett

"TOO many women today are finished in their fifties," says an intelligent woman. She happens to be one who has managed to keep her own creative interests alive while her children were young and still has interests to give meaning to her life now that she is a grandmother.

RUTH MILLETT

"For all that they are taught about being good wives and good mothers," she continues, "the education of women for the years beyond 50 has been sadly neglected."

She is right, of course. And right in her contention that "busy work" dreamed up by women's clubs isn't enough to give the past-50 woman any sense of personal worth or accomplishment. In time, we may—in fact, we must—do something to teach women how they can make the later years of their lives blossom and bear fruit. But until our educational system starts preparing young women for the years ahead each woman is going to have to figure out her own course.

★ ★ ★

THE IMPORTANT THING is that she must not wait until she is in her fifties to face the problem of making a good later life for herself.

It is easy then to become discouraged and to be afraid of trying something new. It is difficult, then, to reach back into her mind for the interests she once had and bring them out and shine them up.

The best way for a woman to make sure that she isn't finished in her fifties is to maintain her interests and develop her talents during the busy years of her life. If she "gives up everything" for her family she is almost sure to feel lost and unneeded once her children grow up and leave home.

Beauty After 40

By Edyth Thornton McLeod

"SHOULD a mature bride carry or wear flowers? I'm to be married for the second time and I plan to wear a navy blue organza dress with white accessories and a white hat.—Jane A."

Flowers are suitable for brides of all ages. They give the festive touch. A navy blue organza is perfect but I would like to see you wear a navy blue hat of tulle done on the "bigger" hat lines. Also I would like navy blue shoes and white gloves, and I suggest that you wear one perfect white orchid. Wear it head up as they grow and don't let the florist tie any ribbons on it. Good luck and best wishes.

★ ★ ★

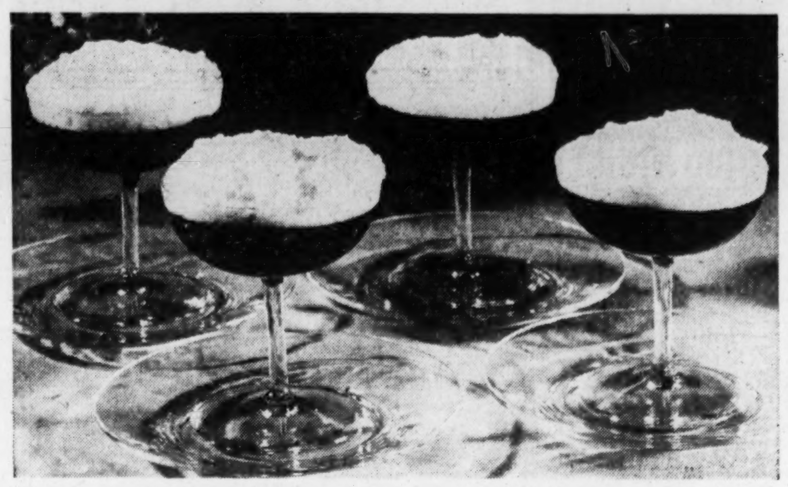
Of course. Why should grandmas wear anything that isn't pretty and becoming? I suggest soft pinks, blue and mauve cottons, and use soft, pretty make-up to match, please.

Classic Dessert

Wine Jelly, Lemon Cream

By Edith M. Barber



ANOTHER CLASSIC DESSERT, WINE JELLY AND LEMON CREAM, IS ADDED TO THE LIST OF FAVORITES USING EITHER FRESH OR FROZEN LEMON JUICE.

A FEW weeks ago my favorite "classic recipes" were mentioned in this column. Following this I was asked by readers to mention some others. If you are a regular reader of this column you will not be surprised to have listed wine and coffee jelly and lemon cream.

At the psychological moment there arrived some slight variations of these recipes in answer to my complaint to a home economist who devotes all her time to lemon products. I told her that I missed the frozen lemon juice that seemed to have been replaced by the frozen lemonade.

* * *

SHE EVIDENTLY took my criticisms to heart with the result that I have two new tested recipes to offer you. In addition there is a suggestion that the lemon cream makes a wonderful sauce for the wine jelly. Of course, you may use fresh lemon juice if you wish. The original recipe was designed for this.

By the way, when you purchase lemons this year as you will certainly be doing during the summer, you will find the California products trademarked. We use the sliced lemons so much as flavorful garnishes for fish and meats and for soups, as well as for that popular and refreshing summer drink, iced tea.

* * *

GENERALLY SPEAKING, wedges of lemon are better liked than sliced lemon with iced tea as they naturally provide more juice. Either wedges or slices may be used as garnishes. Perhaps it should be mentioned that they are added not only for looks, but for the sake of flavor, and that the juice should be allowed to add itself to the product with which it is served.

Wine Jelly.

One envelope plain gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, One cup boiling water, one-fourth cup ruby port wine, two tablespoons frozen concentrate for lemonade.

Soften gelatin in cold water five minutes. Add boiling water; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add wine and concentrate for lemonade. Cool the mixture, then pour into sherbet glasses and chill until firm. Before serving, top with Lemonade Cream.

Lemonade Cream.

Four eggs, separated, three-fourths cup sugar, dash salt, four tablespoons frozen concentrate for lemonade.

Beat egg yolks slightly; add sugar, salt and concentrate for lemonade. Cook over hot water in top of double boiler, stirring constantly until thickened. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Chill. Top wine jelly in sherbet glasses.

The 'McKinley Era'

Just How Full Was the Dinner Pail?

By Lu Murphy

Lu Murphy

And the reason I mention it —other than having wished him joy—is because for the past few years the pet fad among latter-day historians and elderly maiden aunts, seems to be rehashing the "McKinley Era." To hear them tell it, the five years between 1896 and 1901 were the Golden Days of the Harvest. And that "Full Dinner Pail"—the slogan of the McKinley Administration — practically ranneth over.

Heaven knows my respect is abiding for historians and eras and maiden aunts and pails. And I'm happy the Gay Nineties were gay. But nobody will answer just one little old question.

If everybody was so ever lovin' golden haired and cultured during the McKinley Era, why didn't they know where Venezuela was?

Why, on the very first day of this Golden Hour, January 1896, did the President feel compelled to put down his dinner pail and appoint a commission to investigate "the whereabouts of Venezuela?"

I thought everybody knew where Venezuela was. It's on the other side of Panama somewhere. Been there for years. But so help me, for the whole rest of this five-year McKinley idyl, all our forefathers did was either hunt stray South American localities—or take whisky away from under-privileged Indians.

* * *

I ADMIT some vital progress was made. The D.A.R. got incorporated, and the movie industry invented the kiss closeup.

Two things I shudder to contemplate life without.

Women began to push forward, too. That is, in front. In back they gave the decided impression they were going the other way. And although this did give a nice balanced effect, it darn near depleted the whale bone supply.

Actually it was all part of a rather subtle campaign thought up by the Junior League. It worked, too. And the boys, surrounded by mass feminine determination to annihilate themselves by means of satin-covered strait-jackets, finally broke down and gave the girls kitchen privileges at the polls.

On the national level, Congress debated such invigorating things as should there be collisions at sea.

And on the state level—well, we can't take all forty-five of them, so let's take a nice middle one like Kentucky. The state of which has always been upright uninhibited in the interpretation of elections. But during this golden era, they got downright impulsive.

It started peacefully enough. A Republican and a Democrat were happily running for Governor. The Republican won. This upset the Democrat. His name was Mr. Goebel. So, to get him out of his misery, somebody kindly shot him.

This made the Kentucky Legislature feel bad, so the next day they told Mr. Goebel he could be Governor even if he hadn't been elected and to get well soon. The Republican Governor did not accept this like a good sport. He ran and told President McKinley on them.

* * *

THE PRESIDENT agreed it seemed somewhat crowded, but he said he didn't have the authority to interfere. Besides he was up to his neck in the seating arrangement for all the wives who belonged to the Mormon Senator from Utah.

Whereupon Mr. Goebel promptly died of the dreadful hole in his head, and his Lieutenant Governor—who hadn't been elected either—was sworn in as Governor of Kentucky.

So that was the Golden Age.

And please don't misunderstand — President McKinley couldn't help it.

But I can not help but feel that somewhere along the way, his Full Dinner Pail sprung a leak.

Anger Is Necessary Human Trait

By Angelo Patri

ANGER was set in us for a good reason. There is a time when anger is right and proper to the occasion, as when an injustice is being perpetrated on a helpless animal or child, or person of any age. Sometimes I fear that the people of this country have lost the quality of righteous anger. They do not get mad enough often enough at the injustices that are daily happenings.

However, it is anger in a child that we are talking about just now. A child, any normal child, is endower with the quality of anger. When he feels he is being injured in body or spirit, he will grow angry and he will strike out with arms and legs, or his tongue, regardless of person or place. How is this to be treated?

* * *

MOST GROWN PEOPLE resent anger in a child when it is directed at them. They say, or feel, "The very idea. That snip talking to me, old enough to be his grandmother. He'll not do that to me." The grown-up is angry, showing it and threatening the angry one, although a child, with reprisals. The reprisals are likely to take the form of loud shouts, threats and beatings, any and all of which only add to the anger of the child.

Force used on an angry child may silence him for the time. Then his anger will pile up until it bursts out in a torrent of rage worse than anything that has gone before. He will shout, stamp, strike and call names.

Parents of small children should accept the fact that anger is a human quality and a necessary one. It must be trained to where it is expressed with reason, justice and control. As small children cannot be expected to have this ability to master anger, their parents have to help them acquire it, not by force that increases anger, but by calm acceptance of it and instruction that teaches control of it.

* * *

WHEN A SMALL CHILD grows angry because he is asked to do what he does not want to do and says with violence, "I hate you. I'll kill you, I'll—I'll—," control your own anger. Count 10, 100 if necessary, and then say, "Yes, I know how you feel. You're mad at me. Well, I get mad at you sometimes, but I don't yell at you, do I? Well, just go and do what I said and forget about being mad." Smile kindly, if you can, and then see that he obeys, anger or no anger. But don't meet anger with anger.

This phase of uncontrolled anger does not last too long in a child if he is treated this way. It soon yields to treatment. The explosions will be fewer and farther between, and by and by he will be angry only when anger is justified. And it is justified every now and then in this very human world.

BEST FOREIGN FILM OF YEAR! N.Y. FILM CRITICS
"UMBERTO D"

With pride

the Pageant Theatre has selected a motion picture with much the warmth, charm, humor, simplicity of "Marty," "Little Kidnapers" and "Little Fugitive." Very possibly "GOODBYE, MY LADY" will be the picture you'll remember most this year!

BRANDON de WILDE • WALTER BRENNAN • PHIL HARRIS

FANCHON AND MARCO'S PAGEANT STARTS FRIDAY

THIS IS A FIGHTING-MAD
MOTION PICTURE!

It was adapted from the best-selling novel that was written by Budd Schulberg in honest rage—and filmed in anger by people who shared his hatred of the racketeers who trade in human flesh.

Every second of THE HARDER THEY FALL explodes with excitement as it rips into the mob czars and their muscle-minions, the sordid world that lives behind the headlines.

Prune Torte

Ingredients: One and one-half cups cooked prunes, one cup brown sugar (firmly packed), one-half cup sugar, three-fourths cup butter or margarine, three eggs, one-third cup milk, two and one-fourth cups sifted flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon baking soda, one teaspoon cinnamon, one cup coarsely chopped walnuts, Topping.

Method: Cut prunes from pits into small pieces. Cream sugars and butter together thoroughly. Blend in eggs and milk. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, soda and cinnamon. Blend into creamed mixture. Stir in prunes and walnuts. Spread in bottoms of two greased nine-inch layer cake pans. Cover with Topping. Bake in moderately hot (375°) oven about 30 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool. Put layers together with whipped cream. Spread top with additional whipped cream. Cut into wedges to serve. Makes 12 servings.

Topping: Combine one cup sugar, four tablespoons heavy cream, two teaspoons cinnamon.

Orange Sauce

Method: Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt together thoroughly in one-quart saucepan. Add grated orange rind. Gradually add orange juice, stirring after each addition until smooth. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened, clear and boiling. Stir and cook a few minutes longer. Makes about one and one-fourth cups sauce. Serve warm over slices of angelfood cake and top with whipped cream if desired.

Note: The angel food cake may be made from a packaged mix and baked in one of the new square angelfood cake pans for easy slicing.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

WHILE Caesar was in Gaul, he wrote notes about what happened to him and his men. His records of the problems which he faced, and the battles he fought, later were put together. Millions of modern Latin students have translated Caesar's account of the Gallic Wars.

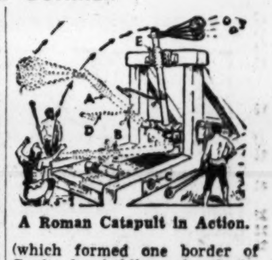
During his long absence from Rome, Caesar received word of the death of Julia, his daughter and the wife of Pompey. He also learned about the death of Crassus, the rich Roman who had been his good friend. Crassus had made the mistake of marching into war against the Parthians.

* * *

ANOTHER bad piece of news concerned Pompey. This skillful general had grown jealous of Caesar's successful campaigns in Gaul. A plan had been made to take Caesar's troops away from him, and to make him once more a private citizen.

That plan meant the breaking of the agreement which Caesar, Pompey and Crassus had made. It was all too clear that the very life of Caesar was at stake.

Gathering a few thousand men about him, Caesar set out on a southward march. When he came to the Rubicon river (which formed one border of Gaul), he boldly ordered the stream to be crossed, and marched his soldiers into Roman Italy.



A Roman Catapult in Action.

* * *

WHEN PEOPLE SPEAK of "crossing the Rubicon," they refer to that event in the life of Caesar. It marked an important step, which none could change. People say today that we never should "cross the Rubicon" until, or unless, we have sound reason to believe that all will be well on the other side.

As it turned out, Pompey grew alarmed when he heard that Caesar was marching toward Rome. Gathering what soldiers he could, he hurried across the Adriatic sea. In Greece, Pompey mustered thousands of additional men, and soon felt able to match Caesar on the field of battle.
